REDS FIRE ON KING BORIS AND BRIDE

Today

Two Days of Doing It.
Pray, and Pray Quick.
Only One Woman's Record.
Surprising the British.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL wants permission to increase commutation fares 40 per cent. And conditions may justify increases.

But there are various ways of meeting transportation problems, and one is to use your brain and adopt new methods. Railroads have not done that. They have been handicapped by a stupid law that forbids combining for efficiency and economy, but the main fact is that they have been contented with the results of meaningless directors' meetings, instead of thinking and changing.

A FEW YEARS ago, in Detroit, a man without a dollar was tinkering at a queer little gas wagon steered with a stick. Ford was laughed at, just as you would be laughed at if you took a new idea to a railroad directors' meeting.

But today, with his queer wagons, Henry Ford transports more passengers, more miles, every day, than are carried by all the railroads of the United States, with all their thousands of millions of investments. And Ford did that by using his brain.

WHY DON'T BIG railroads try that method? They have brains or can hire them. They have rights of way without speed limit or obstruction.

Why don't they utilize the smaller unit of transportation, the lighter engine, the no-stop before destination plan, with 100 miles an hour speed?

WHY IN HEAVEN'S name DON'T THEY TRY SOMETHING? The little automobile has destroyed passenger traffic. Why not get it back?

They remind you of a female turtle turned over on her back as she comes down from laying her eggs. She thinks she has explained everything when she says:

"They turned me over."

ANOTHER ONE of 10,000 tragedies in prohibition and bootlegging.

John Bugeio, driving his car, with his country cousin Joseph Dentice beside him, thought he was bound for a good time at Coney Island, and picked up two friends on the way. When they reached the Church of Our Lady of Precious Blood, in Brooklyn, one of the men on the back seat said:

"HERE'S A CHURCH. PRAY, and PRAY QUICK."

Bugeio and Dentice jumped. Dentice escaped with a bullet in his jaw, Bugeio crumpled up dead with bullets and slugs in his body. The police say Bugeio was "active in the grape racket."

JOE AIELLO, executed by gangland last week, with machine gun fire coming from three groups of concealed murderers, could not complain of his funeral. He lies in Mt. Carmel Cemetery, in a coffin that cost $11,800. And we talk about "ancient days of barbarism."

MISS ALICIA PATTERSON, fearless young girl whose father, Joseph Medill Patterson, had a machine gun command in the Big War, thought she would like to do something on her own account, and broke the woman's record flying from Philadelphia to New York in 40 minutes. She deserves credit, but there is one world's record for women compared with which all others are unimportant.

A GIRL born long ago in Thrace, now called Bulgaria, had written on her tombstone:

I am not of the noble Grecian race,
I am poor Abrotonon and born in Thrace.
Let Grecian women scorn me, if they please,
I was the mother of Themistocles.

THOSE LINES will live longer in history than if she had written:

"I am Abrotonon, who ran barefoot from Thrace to Athens and back in 24 hours, then swam the Hellespont eight times, breaking the woman's record in each case."

The real records for women are held by Nancy Hanks, mother of Lincoln; Olympias, mother of Alexander the Great; Bertha of the big feet, mother of Charlemagne; the wife of a humble French tanner, mother of the great Pasteur, and other MOTHERS.

BRITISHERS MAKE it a point not to tell all they feel. But if they bought French bonds to help their good ally, France, when the war began, it would be plenty if they only told part of what they feel now.

France will pay Britons that bought French bonds with francs of the present value. Francs that the British bought with good pounds sterling were sold to them at 20 cents apiece. They will be bought back at something less than 4 cents each, causing a loss to British bond buyers of $120,000,000.

A FOREIGN LANGUAGE newspaper, seeking to help the Republican party for which it works, said President Hoover was about to declare in favor of 4.4 per cent beer and open breweries to use up surplus grain and employ labor.

The false statement escaped from the foreign language paper and spread. And the cabinet is said to think President Hoover should issue a prohibition statement now.

THERE IS NO need of it. The President is elected to enforce laws, not to make them. He didn't invent prohibition.

The real prohibition statement will come at the polls next

P. R. R. MEN SHOWN HOW TO VOTE

'Dummy' Ballots Marked for Hemphill Circulated Among Rail Employes

Dummy ballots showing the way to vote the straight Republican ticket in the first column of the ballot, and how then to place an "X" in the Liberal square in the governor column have been passed out to employes of the Pennsylvania railroad, it was learned today.

Employes said they received the dummy ballots from heads of sub-departments, but numerous officials denied any knowledge of the slips by which employes are shown how to vote for John M. Hemphill.

When the slips were given out, and at subsequent meetings, railroaders said, the officials pointed out that the employes could decide for themselves as to whom they should vote for, but they declared that Pinchot was not a friend of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

It was also said that railroad officials have placed posters all over the system denying coercion in any way, shape or form in the matter of voting, but none of the posters were in evidence today in the Pennsylvania Station.

The slip given out read:

"Don't support a man who has repeatedly boasted that he was not a Republican and has done more than any other man to defame the name of Pennsylvania. Vote the straight Republican ticket in the first column, then place an (X) in the Liberal square in the governor column as shown."

The portion of the ballot referred to is then reproduced with X after Republican, and another after John M. Hemphill's name in the Liberal square.

PINCHOT SEES ATTEBURY OUT

BERWICK, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for governor, today predicted that the political activities of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and former member of the Republican national committee from Pennsylvania, within a year would cause the railroad to suffer either a "serious loss in customers and business" or "eliminate Atterbury as president." He said:

"Gen. Atterbury has dragged the Pennsylvania Railroad into his own personal and partisan politics."

Citing previous political acts of Gen. Atterbury, which he said included an attempt to make former

Writ Refused To Ban Tucker On Ballot

Petition of Benjamin H. Pakler, Third Ward taxpayer, by which he sought to restrain the county commissioners from reprinting the ballots to include the name of Walter E. Tucker, Negro, as Republican nominee in place of Representative Joseph C. Marcus, who died Saturday, was refused in Common Pleas Court today on the grounds that the court had no jurisdiction.

Judge Elder W. Marshall declared that the petition should have been filed in Dauphin County.

In his petition, Pakler charged that the selection of Tucker by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Mayor Charles H. Kline and others was illegal. He holds that the entire Republican county committee should have selected the nominee.

Dr. F. H. Frederick, president of the City Civil Service Commission and North Side political leader, is not supporting Gifford Pinchot for governor, he revealed today.

Reported to have "hopped on the Hemphill band wagon," the North Side leader was interviewed by telephone. He said:

"You can say it is not true."

"Are you still supporting Pinchot?"

"No. I have not been supporting him."

This is the first admission from any outstanding Republican organization leader that he was not

Bishop Cannon's Condition Worse

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was "more uncomfortable" today as physicians sought unsuccessfully to halt the spread of arthritis which sent him to the hospital last week.

Dr. R. Lyman Sexton said although the bishop's temperature was slightly higher, "no alarm is felt for the immediate future."

CURTIS ADMITS AIDING SENATE DRY SPY

Doran Shields Official List Of Buyers Compiled by Office Building 'Spotter'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Vice President Charles Curtis assisted Dr. James M. Doran, then prohibition commissioner, in "planting" a federal agent in the Senate office building for three months during the last session of Congress, to report on liquor law violations by senators, it was revealed today.

Ultimately, the agents' activities resulted in the arrest and conviction of George L. Cassiday, the so-called "Congressional bootlegger" who was also known as "the man in the green hat," and the seizure of his customers book, containing the names of those who made purchases.

NAMES GUARDED

The names have been carefully withheld by the Prohibition Bureau and by the Department of Justice which later took over the job of enforcing prohibition.

The existence of the undercover agent in the Senate office building, where he made his headquarters in the stationery room, was known only to Dr. Doran and Vice President Curtis.

Vice President Curtis confirmed his part in putting an end to Cassiday's activities. He declared today:

"It is true that I co-operated with Commissioner Doran in an effort to secure proper observance and enforcement of the prohibition laws in the Senate office building.

"I helped to place an agent of the bureau in the building when it came to my attention that the so-called 'Man in the Green Hat' was making his headquarters There as a bootlegger. We found that he was dealing with a number of senators and Senate employes and succeeded in putting a stop to his activities inside the building."

CONFIRMED BY DORAN

Commissioner Doran asserted:

"The report that the Prohibition Bureau placed an agent in the Senate Office Building with the co-operation of Vice President Curtis is entirely correct.

"Cassiday had repeatedly been arrested on Capitol Hill as a bootlegger during my incumbency as prohibition commissioner. It was well known that he had been operating, first in the House Office Building, and more recently in the Senate Office Building, continuously from 1920 to 1929. His activities had been given nation-wide publicity and the claim was made in certain quarters that the Prohibition Bureau was winking at his violation of the law in dealing with members of Congress.

"Vice President Curtis assisted us in placing a special agent in the stationery room and the investigation proved so effective that Cassiday was driven out of the building."

Commissioner Doran would not comment on Cassiday's customer list but admitted he had seen it and that it was an "extensive" compilation of members of Congress.

WORK FOR 500 MORE JOBLESS ASSURED

City Extends Emergency Program as Women Voters Join Relief Movement

Five hundred additional laborers are to be added to the Public Works Department to combat the unemployment situation. Preparations are being rushed so these men may be given work immediately.

Simultaneously with this move the City Department of Welfare is continuing its efforts to relieve distress through distribution of the $100,000 emergency fund.

A score or more new men will go to work Monday on the approaches to the Elizabeth street bridge. Within two weeks, according to present plans, more than 400 will start on the Nine Mile Run sewer project and the construction of a swimming pool at Lake Carnegie, Highland Park.

400 ASK AID IN DAY

Approximately 400 applications for relief were received by the Welfare Department yesterday and a stream of applicants is continuing today.

Advertisements for bids for supplies have been sent out by Col. B. L. Succop, head of the Department of Supplies. Meanwhile the purchases are being made under arrangements made by the city with individual firms. The bids, Succop said, will be open Novem-

INQUIRY IN RAID SUICIDE OPENS

Federal, county and Homestead authorities today launched an investigation into the alleged suicide of Charles A. Seifert, 55, steward of the Eagles Club at 325 East Ninth avenue, Homestead, who shot himself during a raid on the club by prohibition agents late yesterday.

Seifert, on parole for a violation of the liquor laws, walked into a bedroom when a controversy arose between Federal Group Head Ernest Woy and William Naughton, a roomer at the clubhouse, over the legality of the raid, the agents reported. Hearing a shot, the agents ran into the bedroom and found Seifert with a bullet wound in the right temple, they said. He was taken to the

Double Check On Candidates, 'Bugs' Warns

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Before voting for your favorite politician, find out whether he is running for office or dead storage.

Remember the jails are full of lads who were elected on the reform ticket.

And that the politician who tries to be all things to all men doesn't make a bad caddy for the head keeper.

A chameleon can fake any color but white. We'll take our candidates dry. Or we will take 'em wet. But we don't want them damp.

The patron saint of politicians is the Colossus of Rhodes, which was one of the seven wonders of the world because it did the greatest straddling act in history.

Shaw says Einstein is the eighth wonder. Let's make it an even dozen so we can wonder four times why campaign promises evaporate so fast in transit.

All this early 1930 electioneering is the preamble to the big 1931 barbecue.

The Democrats will look much better then. They've had a nice, long beauty sleep.

Fazio Fined $1,000, Sent To Prison

Philip Fazio, of Clairton, confessed bootlegger, who was acquitted in the barrel murder of William Gregory, was sentenced to serve 15 months in the workhouse and pay a $1,000 fine on a liquor charge in Criminal Court today.

Elmer C. Wenning, of Turtle Creek, beer runner for Fazio, was paroled for two years with the provision that any violation will send him to the workhouse for four months.

Both had pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of violating the liquor laws in connection with the operation of Fazio's brewery in Lorigan street. Jacob Dlazkoves, alias Jacob Block, brewmaster and partner of Fazio, forfeited $500.

Stork Will Visit Former Jean Nash

PARIS, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—The former Mrs. Jean Nash, known on two continents as the "best dressed woman in the world," and now the wife of Paul Dubonnet, noted French publisher, is anticipating a visit from the stork, International News Service learned today.

The event is expected in early spring. Mme. Dubonnet will leave Paris shortly for the Riviera, where she will spend the winter.

BULLETS HIT ROYAL TRAIN

Shots Wound Guard; Rulers Given Mighty Ovation On Arrival in Sofia

International News Service.

VIENNA, Oct. 31.—Several shots were fired at the royal train of King Boris and Queen Giovanna at the station at Manole, near Philipopel, as the royal party passed through last night, according to a dispatch from Sofia to the Tagblatt today.

Several bullets hit the royal car, according to the report, seriously injuring a military guard.

The perpetrators of the shooting escaped. They are believed to be Russian communists who were attempting to assassinate King Boris following a threat made to police some time ago.

CHEERED AT SOFIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 31.—While Bulgarian and Italian airplanes roared overhead, tracing their initials in columns of smoke against the sky, King Boris and his bride, the former Princess Giovanna, of Italy, arrived in Sofia today and were accorded the most tumultuous reception this city has ever given any of its sovereigns.

The royal couple, traveling by special train from the shores of the Black Sea, where they disembarked from the yacht Czar Ferdinand after a stormy voyage from Italy, arrived at the Sofia station at 10 o'clock. Thousands of well-wishers gathered at the station broke through the military and police cordons in their anxiety to greet their handsome king and the 22-year-old "mother of all Bulgaria."

In all its long history, Sofia has never presented a more gay aspect than today. The government had proclaimed a three-day national holiday and as a consequence all who were physically able turned out into the street to witness the procession.

TWIN'S DEATH CANCELS FETE

For weeks Marjorie Elizabeth Miller, 11, an honor student at Roosevelt public school, had looked forward to her class' Halloween party today. But today Marjorie was dead, the victim of pneumonia, and Halloween celebrations scheduled by classmates and fellow students were cancelled. Marjorie was a twin of Dorothy; of four other brothers and sisters, two are also twins.

Instead of making merry with bobbing apples and "goblins," classmates passed silently by the bier at her home, 4121 Saline street, Squirrel Hill. They, too, attended her funeral preceding burial in Homewood Cemetery. Eight fellow-students were pallbearers.

Less than two weeks ago, Marjorie became ill. On Tuesday she was taken to West Penn Hospital. A few hours later she died.

She leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller; her twin sister, Dorothy; Fred and Laura, twins; Gertrude and Ernest, brothers and sisters.

Heiress Working Payless in Library

CHICAGO MAYOR STRICKEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, a prominent figure in the dramatic finish of the Illinois senatorial campaign, today was stricken with appendicitis and ordered to Passavant Hospital for an immediate operation.

He had planned to speak in a Loop theater this noon in behalf of James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic senatorial nominee.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial aspirant, in a statement yesterday denied the Mayor's charges that they had struck a deal at the last Republican national convention. Swinging to Col. Lewis recently, Mayor Thompson said he was influenced by the Democrat's "weakness" and declared Mrs. McCormick had broken the "terms of their agreement."

Fire Banned as Big Gusher Imperils Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Flowing an estimated 60,000 or more barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, a wild gusher at the southeast doorstep of Oklahoma City threatened residence and business districts today. The fire hazard led to closing of schools, breakfastless, fireless homes and traffic blockades.

Chief danger of fire lay in great clouds of gas which clung to lowlands surrounding the well. As a light southeast wind sprayed business and residential districts with oil, rigid no-fire regulations were enforced in homes south of Seventh street. Hope of removing the fire hazard rested with increased winds.

The well, No. 1 C. E. Stout of the Morgan Petroleum Company, is less than a mile from the heart of the downtown shopping district.

Pola's Divorce Path Open, Reconciliation Spurned

PARIS, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Pola Negri, temperamental Polish screen star, today won the first round in her reopened suit for divorce from Prince Mdivani, although an automobile accident while en route to the Palace of Justice almost caused her to miss appearing in court.

Pola was not injured. She arrived at the court 20 minutes late to attend the court's formal "reconciliation" hearing, but the prince did not appear at all, and the court ruled "no reconciliation by default."

"I am very happy," Pola said after the hearing. "The prince's absence from today's hearing means I may get my divorce quickly, which will enable me to return to my first love—the screen."

Pola began her divorce action nearly a year ago, but temporarily abandoned the suit last December when the court intimated that a divorce could not be granted at that time because of the publicity the case had received.

COOLIDGE, IN RADIO PLEA, WARNS OF 'RASH EXPERIMENTS'

NEW ISSUES ARISING AT 11TH HOUR

Political Factions All Agree Hoover, Prohibition Chief Factors as Climax Nears

Associated Press.

True to its early promise of infinite variety, the political campaign continues an ever-changing picture, reviving old associations and producing new issues almost within sight of election day.

Raising a once-familiar voice from his political retirement, Calvin Coolidge counselled a radio audience of his fellow-countrymen last night to stand by the Republican administration at Washington, and avoid "rash experiments" in troubled times.

Simultaneously a member of the Hoover cabinet, Secretary Hurley, declared Republicans first had sponsored the five-day work week, which made an unheralded entry into the national campaign but a few days since, in a speech by Democratic Chairman Raskob.

CHARGES "SECTIONAL HATE"

Speaking in Ohio, James M. Cox charged that Republican candidates were raising an issue of "sectional hate" by warning the voters against delivering the leadership of Congress into the hands of the Southern Democrats.

Farm relief, brought back into the picture by Alfred E. Smith, was kept there momentarily, at least, by Senator Borah. The Independent Republican leader from Idaho said the new Congress would see a fresh attempt to enact the debenture plan, opposed so insistently by President Hoover. Borah spoke in Lincoln, Neb., on behalf of Senator George W. Norris. He forecast also an early fight in Congress to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Former Senator James A. Reed, in St. Louis, offered as a remedy for hard times:

SEES G. O. P. HOUSE

William Tyler Page, clerk of the national House of Representatives, forecast a safe Republican majority in the new House to be chosen Tuesday. Senator Caraway, returning from a Democratic campaign trip into Kentucky and Oklahoma, pronounced both states safely Democratic, notwithstanding Republican claims to the contrary.

From the prohibition front, too, emanated warring communiques. H. H. Curran, generalissimo of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, predicted a gain of at least six seats in the Senate and 60 in the House for the opponents of prohibition. Dr. F. Scott McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, said Maj. Curran had been blowing bubbles.

It is the best guess of the leaders on both sides, however, that at least two issues of national import are rooted deep in the emotions of the voters far and wide. One of these issues is Herbert Hoover. The other is prohibition.

Today

Tuesday. If it indicates that hard times and idleness have made the people impatient, the President may say what is necessary, basing it perhaps on the interesting advice that King Lemuel got from his mother, see Proverbs, Chapter Thirty-one:

"What, my son? and what, the son of my womb? and what, the son of my vows? . . . It is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes strong drink . . . Give strong drink unto him that is ready to perish, and wine unto those that be of heavy hearts. Let him drink, and forget his poverty, and remember his misery no more."

WOMEN VOTERS ACT

The Dormont-Mt. Lebanon League of Women Voters is leading efforts to solve the unemployment question in that community. Through co-operation of borough and township authorities, rooms and telephone service have been furnished in the municipal buildings, and anyone able to provide work for an hour or two is requested to get in touch with the committee, which is headed by Mrs. J. R. Kiser and Mrs. Geroge Fox.

All clubs and churches in the community have been invited to co-operate. Service begins Monday and will continue every week-day, excepting Saturday, from 9:30 until 11:30 o'clock.

MORE JOBS URGED

The way to deal with unemployment is to provide work at standard wages, not by doling out relief, the Pittsburgh Housing Association declares in a report, agreeing with the statement of policy adopted by the Federation of Social Agencies.

The Housing Association report declares that, although relief is necessary, it cannot meet the need.

When City Council cut $200,000 from the street cleaning appropriation and threw 400 men, half the street cleaning force, out of work, it added to the unemployment problem more than it is helping it by appropriating $100,000 for relief, the Housing Association declared.

The association report states the belief that the city should continue to provide work and pay the wages required for municipal services and then add relief measures.

2,000 JOBLESS RIOT IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Resenting the importation of 75 laborers from Cleveland to work on Ohio's new state office building, nearly 2,000 jobless men of Columbus today started a riot on the site along the Scioto River front here.

No one was reported injured in the demonstration of resentment against the employment of the Cleveland workers, although the riot appeared for a time as though it would reach serious proportions.

Work on the wrecking of the old buildings on the site of the new office building was stopped following the attacks of the jobless army, which carried away all tools during the first onslaught.

Leaders of the demonstrators declared that the importation of the Cleveland workers was in violation to an alleged promise made by state officials that all work on the new building would be given to the unemployed of Columbus.

Coolidge Sees Prospect Of Record Prosperity

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 30.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Our people own a very large supply of cotton, copper, wheat, petroleum and other raw materials. They have heavy deposits of money in the banks, and many billions invested in foreign countries. Their automobiles number 25,000,000. And so they are feeling very poor.

Calvin Coolidge

Although we have been developing our country at a very rapid rate, erecting buildings, constructing highways, improving rivers and harbors, providing transportation by land, water and air, putting in greater power systems, installing elaborate transmission lines for electricity, and laying down pipe lines for gas and oil, these great works are not finished but just begun. They cannot be considered completed until all our people have all these services that they care to use.

That development has not ceased, but has only been retarded. The time cannot be far distant when the inherent demand of the people for improvement will appear. The creative genius and faith of the people of the United States will bring that demand and the present supply into conjunction. The raw materials are at hand for an era of unprecedented prosperity. They only wait for the people to come forward to utilize them.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Golf Writer Secret Bride Of Oil Millionaire

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Nan O'Reilly, nationally-known golf writer, has secretly been married to Silas M. Newton, multi-millionaire oil operator, for a year and a half, it was learned today.

Miss O'Reilly, as a sports writer, has covered tournaments where her husband has played, but their greetings always have been formal when they met among their golfing friends. Newton is a well-known amateur golfer, six times holder of the Virginia state championship. Ht is president of the Indiana Oil and Gas Corporation, is said to be second only to Harry Sinclair as an independent oil operator, and is reputed to be worth $40,000,000.

In spite of the wealth of her husband, Miss O'Reilly has continued her work as a sports writer, and wants to go on working.

"You won't fire me, will you?" was Miss O'Reilly's first reaction when her secret marriage was discovered.

It now develops that when Miss O'Reilly sailed for Europe to cover the British open in 1928 she was on her honeymoon, and was on the passenger lists as Mrs. Newton. When she left the boat she became Nan O'Reilly, the working girl, again.

HEARST ON AIR SUNDAY WITH DRY PLAN

Publisher, in Nationwide Hookup, Will Offer His Substitute for Prohibition

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Intense interest throughout the country has been aroused by the announcement that William Randolph Hearst will discuss prohibition on a nation-wide broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company's network Sunday evening.

Mr. Hearst has been invited by Collier's, the National Weekly, to be their guest speaker during their nationally-famous radio hour on the NBC transcontinental chain.

Mr. Hearst's topic has been announced as "A Temperance Plan to Supplant Prohibition."

RECORD AUDIENCE

Millions listen every Sunday evening to the Collier's Radio Hour, one of the greatest features released over the National Broadcasting Company's network. With Mr. Hearst's announced topic, it is the belief of radio executives, that one of the largest audiences of the year will be gathered before the radio sets of the nation.

This will be Mr. Hearts's second talk on a nation-wide hookup. Several weeks ago he made his first radio appearance as the guest of Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company.

Don Gilman, vice president of the National Broadcasting Company and executive in charge of the company's affairs in the West, will direct the Collier's broadcast insofar as the talk by Mr. Hearst from here is concerned.

TOPIC UPPERMOST

Mr. Hearst will speak from the studios of KFI, the Earl C. Anthony station, in this city. The Collier's Hour originates in the Times Square studios of the National Broadcasting Company in New York City. It goes on the air every Sunday evening from 8:15 to 9:15 Eastern Standard Time.

At the proper moment next Sunday John B. Kennedy, associate editor of Colliers, speaking in New York, will introduce Mr. Hearst to the radio listeners. Then, under the direction of Mr. Gilman, the NBC technical staff will swing over specially leased wires and Mr. Hearst will be heard from Los Angeles.

With the prohibition law and its effect on the nation the uppermost topic of the day, Mr. Hearst's nation-wide talk will attract a huge phalanx of listeners. Nothing is known here as to what Mr. Hearst will advocate "to supplant prohibition," only the title of the speech having been forthcoming from the publisher.

OVER KDKA SUNDAY

From New York comes information that another speaker on the Collier's Hour will be John J. Raskob, financier and chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He will speak on "The Restoration of Prosperity" from the New York studios.

In addition there will be the regular and interesting dramatic and musical presentations so splendidly offered at every Collier's Hour.

The Collier's Hour will be heard locally in this area over station KDKA from 8:15 p. m. to 9:15 p. m.

Employment Relief Due With Award of Millions For Work Authorized

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Contemplated construction work throughout the nation during the first nine months of 1930 shows an increase of more than 5 per cent, or almost $370,000,000, over the same period in 1929.

However, actual contracts for construction work are running at least 20 per cent behind the 1930 nine months period compared to 1929.

This estimate was arrived at today from statistics gathered from 600 reporters throughout the country by F. W. Dodge Corporation, statistical service, which furnishes the Department of Commerce with official data. L. Seth Schnitman, chief statistician for the company, told International News Service:

"Over a period of time, sooner or later, the contracts awarded will reflect the contemplated work which is now running ahead."

TO AFFECT JOBLESS

Although the actual contract work for 1930 is revealed as almost a billion dollars behind the figures for 1929, Schnitman pointed out that the ultimate contracting for the projected construction would have an important bearing on the employment situation.

Schnitman referred to the substantial nature of the 1930 contemplated work, saying:

"This contemplated work running ahead of last year's figures is largely made up from engineering construction such as highways, dams, bridges, roads, irrigation projects, pipe lines, sewer and water systems, water front developments, incinerator plants, and similar projects in addition to general building."

The total contemplated work for the first nine months of 1930 throughout the nation amounted to $7,519,050,000, compared to $7,149,659,000, for 1929.

FOUR MILLIONS LET

The total actual contract work for this period in 1930 amounted to $4,053,196,400 compared to $5,061,394,800 for 1929.

The statistics for certain sections country are revealed in the following comparative chart:

	Contemplated Work for 1930	Actual Contract Work for 1930
New England	$ 676,914,000	$278,215,000
New York City	1,898,496,000	739,656,000

Aid Appeals Go To City-County Building

Applications for assistance out of the city's $100,000 emergency welfare fund, are being received in the City-County Building. Applicants whose names begin with letters from A to M, are directed to rooms 644, 645 and 646. Applicants whose names begin with letters from N to Z are being received in rooms 608-609. Applicants name the social agency through which relief is to be supervised. The relief fund is for residents of the city only.

The county has provided no emergency relief fund. Several organizations are extending aid to the needy from outside the city from their own resources.

The Red Cross, Chamber of Commerce Building, is caring for disabled ex-service men, the Catholic Charities, Wabash Building, is working through its district supervisors, and the Family Welfare Association, Fulton Building, is doing the work through its corps of workers. The Salvation Army, Volunteers of America and the other organizations also are helping, but all of the agencies are hampered by lack of money.

6-HOUR SHIFTS AID JOBLESS

In order to give employment to more men, the Donora Southern Railroad has decided to work its force in four daily shifts of six hours each. The new schedule will give work to 33 more men.

The railroad is part of the American Steel and Wire system, which operates a big plant in the Monongahela River town.

The steel company is erecting a new billet mill, which will be completed about February 1 and will give employment to 300 workers.

The six-hour plan has been discussed for the steel mills, but no decision for adoption of the short shift has been made.

CURLEY JOB PLAN WINS APPROVAL

Capital Enthusiastic Over Boston Mayor's Idea of Mississippi Flood Control

By EDWARD L. RODDAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The proposal of Mayor James A. Curley, of Boston, for a $1,000,000,000 development project in the Mississippi Valley to advance employment and business stability, awakened unusual interest and enthusiasm here today.

The plan submitted by Curley was received at the White House where assurances were given that it will receive the careful consideration of President Hoover. Pending this study, comment was withheld.

In senatorial circles, published reports of Curley's proposal renewed agitation for solution of the great Mississippi problem with the minimum of delay.

OUTSTANDING PROJECT

The general opinion was that the Mississippi project should be made to rank with such outstanding federal developments as the Panama Canal and Boulder Dam.

The plan envisioned by Mayor Curley provides a joint development to include flood control, cheaper water transportation and cheaper electric power. It was considered especially welcome coming from a public official on the Atlantic Seaboard, a region which has no selfish interest in sponsoring it.

Senators expressed the belief that an expansion program on the Mississippi should be undertaken immediately.

EMPLOYMENT BOON

Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, said:

"Such an undertaking would bring employment to those out of work because of business depression and those ruined by the drought.

"It would bring a general prosperity to the great Mississippi region which would reflect itself in the industrial centers of the East. Mayor Curley has shown himself a true friend of those who wish to protect the people of the Mississippi Valley from disaster and aid them in developing the river for commercial use."

Senator Frazier (Rep.), of North Dakota, said:

"I favor expansion and development of the Mississippi Valley. I have a resolution pending calling for the appointment of a board of civilian engineers to consider the Riker deep waterway project and other plans for flood relief in the Mississippi Valley.

"The proper development of the Mississippi will make it the richest valley in the world. Undertaken in the immediate future the project would prove a tremendous aid in restoring national prosperity."

SPEED ADVOCATED

Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, said:

"I have always thought that the government should speed up its construction program, not only along the Mississippi River and its tributaries, but in all parts of the country.

"Mayor Curley's suggestion for greater expenditures on public works in the Middle West is an admirable one."

Senator Glenn (Rep.), of Illinois, said:

"I will lend wholehearted support and active participation toward fulfillment of any plan which President Hoover may suggest to the next session of Congress for development of either or both waterway and flood control projects in the Mississippi Valley."

Detroit Factories Add 3,466 Workers

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Factories and shops in Detroit have recalled 3,466 men this week, James N. Duncan, manager of the municipal employment bureau, said today, making a total of 5,727 in a fortnight.

The work of the Sun-Telegraph in helping those out of jobs to find employment has been so successful that the Sun-Telegraph will continue to run Free Help Wanted Ads for another two weeks.

A typical example of this work is the case of a widow, mother of three small children. This woman's husband was drowned early in the year and she was compelled to seek employment, but was unsuccessful until she read the ad of Mrs. Max Meltzer, of 1870 Shaw avenue. The mother answered Mrs. Meltzer's ad and secured the job as housekeeper.

Mrs. J. Baker, of 5528 Raleigh street, says that she was able to give employment to a girl by inserting a free ad. Mrs. Baker was surprised at the quick response to her advertisement.

Several fur finishers answered the ad of Jerome Wolk and Sons, 916 Fifth avenue, and were employed after being out of work for many weeks.

A maid, now working for Mrs. Riggs, of 412 Montview street, has requested her to thank the Sun-Telegraph for the ad that was responsible for her present position.

These are only a few examples of the progress being made to find work for capable men and women. If you can offer any one a position paying a wage or salary call Grant 5400 and place a classified ad in the Sun-Telegraph free of charge. If you need someone to do repair work about your home, could use a maid, cook or mother's helper, have a place for an office boy, extra stenographer, or porter in your office, make use of this free "Help Wanted" classified ad service.

Remember the telephone number—GRANT 5400. Give someone a job.

Strategy Captures 2; Woman Heroine in Dramatic Escape of Illinois Banker

International News Service.

KEWANEE, Ill., Oct. 31.—A manhunt spreading over four counties was in progress today as more than 200 armed officers sought two remaining members of the gang that kidnaped Earl L. Yocum, millionaire bank president of Galva, Ill., holding him for three and one-half days.

How the gang of four men, at first demanding $200,000 in ransom money, was tricked into releasing Yocum for a bundle of sticks was revealed in a confession made by Vernon Ahlgren, who was captured after a running gun battle with posses who surprised Ahlgren and two companions as they waited to collect $10,000 in ransom money.

WIFE HEROINE

Ahlgren's story, told grudgingly, revealed Mrs. Yocum as the heroine of one of the cleverest pieces of detective work in the annals of Illinois crime. It was her strategy that brought her husband home, unharmed in body and purse, and led to the capture of two of the kidnapers. The arrest of the others was expected hourly.

Ahlgren, following his capture on a farm near here, said:

"We thought Mrs. Yocum was so scared she wouldn't double-cross us. We thought Yocum himself would not dare. We let him go without finding out that the package left for us contained no money. We made a mess of the whole business, but I'll say Mrs. Yocum is a smart woman."

PLAN TO BOMB HOME

Angered at finding only a bundle of sticks near Leland, in return for the banker's liberty, the gang telephoned Yocum early yesterday that they were going to bomb his home. Yocum, pretending he was intimidated, told them a package containing $10,000 would be placed beside Lone Tree road, two miles from here.

Instead of sending a messenger to meet the gangsters Yocum dispatched a squad of armed officers and a running gun battle resulted in which three of the men escaped by ditching their automobile. Ahlgren, one of the trio, was caught later.

Ahlgren described the seizing of Yocum on Saturday night and told how the banker, bound, gagged and blindfolded and partly chloroformed, was carried by automobile to a hunting lodge near Lacon, Ill. He said:

"We thought we would get $200,000 ransom. Then we marked it down to $100,000, then to $50,000 and finally consented to take $10,000 down, with the understanding we would get more later. The idea was to frighten his family into paying anything for their safety."

WORKED WITH POLICE

It was revealed that the banker's wife, while feigning to be terrified and pleading with authorities to drop the matter and allow her to handle the affair "without assistance," instead was co-operating with Inspector George Newell, of the American Bankers' Association, and other authorities.

Mrs. Yocum's statement was intended to reach the kidnapers, and it did.

"It looked like easy money," Ahlgren said.

Another alleged member of the extortionist gang, Harry Whiskers, of Cambridge, Ill., is under arrest. Ahlgren implicated Whiskers in the plot, according to police. The other two, still sought by posses, are Orville Whiskers, cousin of Harry, and Floyd Winslow, ex-convict. Both of these men are afoot and unarmed somewhere near here.

ANTI-VENIZELOS PLOT FOILED

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Police believed today that arrest of Gen. Pangalos, dictator of Greece in 1926, and 27 army officers and civilians had frustrated a plot to depose Premier Eleutherios Venizelos and reinstate Gen. Theodorus Pangalos, former dictator.

Official quarters minimized importance of the plot, and the minister of war described it as farcical.

Most of the arrests were made Wednesday night when police surprised army officers and others in a meeting.

Gen. Pangalos, taken into custody at Eleusis, denied any knowledge of the conspiracy but was brought back to Athens and placed in solitary confinement. Premier Venizelos at present is visiting in Turkey.

Dr. Vargas left Sao Paulo yesterday, after a brief visit during which he was warmly welcomed by an enthusiastic populace. His delay in reaching Rio de Janeiro was due to requests of scores of towns and villages along the route that he stop his special train and speak.

The provisional president complied in each case.

Pending his arrival, Gen. Juarez Tavora, youthful northern revolutionary leader, declared the government to be established by Dr. Vargas will consist of a civil dictatorship maintained by the aid of the army and navy.

Property damage, heavy throughout the region between Ancona and Pesaro, was heaviest at Senigallia, where 80 per cent of all the houses and other buildings were ruined.

The Ancona region was visited by another slight tremblor at 4 a. m., today, but it was so slight that the inhabitants did not feel the shock.

DENY STORY TOLD BY WOMAN

Jefferson County Educator Insists He Was Fishing On Date Named by Aide

By WILLIAM PFARR,
Staff Correspondent.

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Oct. 31.—The trial of Prof. Charles A. Anderson, superintendent of Jefferson County's schools, neared the end today after Anderson had called upon his wife and three children to help him disprove the charge that he is the father of the baby born last March to his former assistant superintendent, Miss Anna Kyle.

The defense rested its case just before noon and rebuttal was begun immediately. Following closing arguments by Margiotti and, for the defense, Attorney Raymond Brown, Judge Reed was to give the case to the jury of nine men and three women.

FAMILY TESTIFIES

There was a night session last night, a session at which Mrs. Anderson, a tiny woman whose green hat barely reached the top of the witness chair, took the stand to verify in part the alibi previously offered by her husband. The three Anderson children—attractive Mildred, 16; John, 14, and Charles, 12, followed her.

They testified that Prof. Anderson was on a fishing trip during the hours of Memorial Day, 1929, which Miss Kyle had testified he was with her in his office in the courthouse.

Prof. Anderson himself came through a stiff four-hour cross-examination at the hands of Special Prosecutor Charles Margiotti in fairly good shape, although he seemed to slip once.

FORGOT LETTERS

That was when he said he didn't remember having corresponded with Miss Kyle while he was taking a special course at the University of Pittsburgh in the summer of 1929.

Margiotti countered by producing four letters which Prof. Anderson then admitted having written. Margiotti made much of the letters, but Prof. Anderson asked Judge Samuel Lemmon Reed for an opportunity to explain their contents.

Margiotti pounced upon an apparently affectionate salutation—"Dear 'Annie'"—which Anderson used in one instance, but this was the professor's explanation of what he offered as his own attempt at humor:

"You notice I quoted the word 'Annie' in addressing Miss Kyle because once we had a school secretary who addressed her as 'Dear Annie' and she seemed to resent it."

Earlier in the day Anderson testified that on three occasions which Miss Kyle charges he was with her, he was really elsewhere. At the time she gave for one of their meetings he was actually at home, tending the garden, he defended.

BRINGS IN SALESMAN

In denying the charges against him Anderson added, on cross-examination, that a salesman of general office supplies who called frequently at the office occupied by both Anderson and Miss Kyle seemed to center his attention on the attractive, sedate 41-year-old assistant. Anderson said he didn't know the salesman's name, didn't know what company employed him and was unable to describe him in any detail other than that he was partly bald.

If the hundred who packed the courtroom, the balcony and the corridors came to see the principals exhibiting emotion they were finally rewarded at the night session. For the first time since the trial started Miss Kyle, seated alongside her aged parents in the front row, wept freely. Anderson was being cross-examined when Miss Kyle broke down, for the moment. Margiotti demanded of Anderson:

"Why should Miss Kyle name you as the father of her baby, if you have been her good friend, even her benefactor?"

Anderson retorted:

"I think I know why. I think it can be adduced from the testimony."

Driver Enrico Caruso, 45, 156 Auburn street, another young man, a mother and her daughter, 12, were injured in this truck. The sedan driver was unhurt in their collision in Liberty avenue, near Thirty-seventh street. The sedan was driving east, the truck west, police said.

Girl Hiker Hurt, Blames Pittsburgh Bootlegger

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—The story of June Arnold, of Hollywood, Cal., pretty 22-year-old daughter of a college professor, brought offers of aid today from many sources.

The girl is in Frankford Hospital suffering a skull fracture received, she said, in a battle with a youthful bootlegger who drove her here from Pittsburgh a week ago.

Left alone by the death of her father and mother, and the disappearance of the administrator of her father's estate together with the several thousand dollars worth of bonds comprising the estate, Miss Arnold said she attempted to find work in Hollywood. Failing, she came to Philadelphia where two relatives were supposed to live. En route she was forced to hitch-hike after her funds ran out. At Pittsburgh she accepted a ride with a young man driving to Philadelphia.

En route she learned he was a bootlegger, Miss Arnold said, and had a bullet hole through a hand, which he told her he received in a battle with hi-jackers.

Upon their arrival here, according to Miss Arnold's story, her benefactor attempted to attack her. In the ensuing battle she was knocked unconscious and her attacker fled with all her baggage.

For a week the girl remained in such a serious condition she was unable to tell her story.

Clara Ready, Richman Says, But He Refused to Wed

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Harry Richman, Broadway songster and night club owner, appearing here in "Sons o' Guns," corroborated a statement made yesterday by Clara Bow, his erstwhile sweetheart, that their engagement had been broken, but he added another view to the affair.

Richman told International News Service that he and Miss Bow had agreed to break their engagement about 10 days ago in New York.

His version follows:

"The engagement is not exactly broken but we put each other on probation for one year and, at the end of that time, if we still love each other, we will get married.

"I took Miss Bow out for dinner at the Ritz and I told her of the impossibility of our marriage with her on the coast and me in New York. At that time she offered to get married right then in New York, but I pointed out that it wouldn't work.

"We then evolved this other scheme and she returned my ring, which I place in a box where it will be at the end of a year, if we renew our engagement.

"Of course, if either of us find ourselves in love with some one else during that time it will be all right to the other party. Clara will go with other men and I with other women."

BOHLEN, CHURCH FLAY PINCHOT AT RALLY

Liberal Party Mass Meeting Addressed by Defeated G. O. P. Primary Nominees

Republican candidates, defeated in the primary for nomination as United States Senator and Governor, were the principal figures advocating the election of John M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee for Governor, at a Liberal party mass meeting last night in North Side Carnegie Music Hall.

They were Francis H. Bohlen, of Philadelphia, professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania, and Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., of Butler.

Other speakers were Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute and former vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; James A. Bowers, former secretary of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers; Attorney J. I. Simon and Capt. Tim Healy.

GRENET ATTENDS

Arthur M. Scully, Allegheny County chairman of the Liberal party, presented Phillips, who presided.

Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet, of the Twenty-seventh Ward, was the only member of the Republican organization of Allegheny County observed in the audience.

Bohlen declared:

"If there is any doubt that prohibition repeal is the real issue of the campaign, the presence of 'Tom' Phillips and I on the same platform, supporting Hemphill, should dispel that doubt.

"Pinchot cannot truthfully say that a governor has nothing to do with prohibition because during his term in that office, he forced enactment of the Snyder-Armstrong Act to enforce state prohibition.

"If every Pennsylvanian voted as they should, for Hemphill, the forces of intolerance in the nation would be faced with ultimate defeat. We are now asking the voters of Pennsylvania, the majority of whom we know realize the evils that prohibition has brought upon us, to defeat Gifford Pinchot because he is the willing and eager servant of the Anti-Saloon League."

CLAIM DEFINITE PROMISE

Bohlen said Pinchot and Hemphill, both have promised to use every effort to obtain passage of legislation beneficial to labor, authorizing old age pensions and compensation for occupational diseases and the elimination of abuses of the coal and iron police.

The speaker explained, however, that Hemphill's promises were specific and definite. He said:

"In Pinchot's case there is no need to guess as to what he will do to carry out the promises which he has been forced to make. 'By their fruits ye shall know them' is as true today as when the words were written into the Bible."

Bohlen declared he responded to a request of Pinchot's and worked for months with New York experts in drafting proposed amendments to the workmen's compensation act which Pinchot later repudiated.

CHARGES GRUNDY DICTATOR

He charged that Pinchot did a right-about-face to insure the support of Senator Joseph R. Grundy's followers in the general assembly to effect passage of the state prohibition law. Bohlen asked:

"Is there any better prospect that Gifford Pinchot's present promises will be carried out? The political conditions are exactly the same as they were in 1922. Senator Grundy is again supporting Pinchot with all the influence and money which the senatorial contest has left him.

"What happened in 1923 will again happen next year. In return for the votes which he can again turn over to Pinchot, Grundy will again be permitted to dictate the labor policy of the Pinchot administration."

Phillips asserted that with Pinchot's defeat, United States Senators from Pennsylvania would see the handwriting on the wall and rather than invite defeat at the next primary election, they would vote for modification of the enforcement laws and for submission to the states of a repealer of the Eighteenth Amendment. Phillips declared:

"Political expediency accounts for the dry majority in Congress and when the political battleship, from which the government is making war on citizens, begins to flounder the tidal wave that is sweeping the country from coast to coast, politicians, big and little, will desert the prohibition bark like rats that scurry from a sinking ship."

SOUNDS LABOR WARNING

Bowers declared:

"Pinchot's promises, if carried out, would mean a reduction of wages all along the line. I want to warn you men and women, whether employes of mill or mine, factory or workshop, that the whirlpool of Grundyism is about to swallow you up."

Attorney Simon said:

"If Pinchot was not a hypocrite, he would have turned down Kline's and Armstrong's support like the churches would turn down tainted money."

Col. Church said:

"The people have won this battle and next Tuesday, Pennsylvania will get the news of this great victory. The only question now is the size of Hemphill's majority."

MUSICAL OFFERINGS

Despite the inclement weather, the auditorium was practically filled and authorities estimated that about 1,200 persons attended the meeting. Miss Martha Atwood, of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, sang solos and Danny Nirella's Orchestra kept the spectators at concert pitch.

FREW SCORES PINCHOT 'GANG'

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, was scored by William N. Frew, in a broadcast last night over KDKA for welcoming the support of Allegheny County Republican leaders while "holding up his hands in holy horror at the so-called Philadelphia gang."

Frew, a life-long Republican and Allegheny County chairman of the primary campaign for the Bohlen-Phillips-Dorrance anti-dry ticket, was speaking in the interest of John M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee for governor.

Arthur M. Scully, Allegheny County chairman of the Liberal party backing Hemphill, has declared that Asa B. Martin, Republican chairman of Pike County, home of Pinchot, has been joined by other members of the county committee in bolting Pinchot for Hemphill.

They are Charles Marvin, vice chairman; Edward L. Banks, secretary, and Edward Wehlberg and Stoll Jagger, members.

Mrs. William Frew, chairman of the women's division of the Allegheny County Liberal party, has added 14 members to the committee. They are Mrs. Marshall Bell, Mrs. John Heron, Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., Mrs. Carroll Miller, Mrs. Julian Burdick, Mrs. Herbert A. May, Mrs. J. J. Brooks, Mrs. Donald C. Bakewell, Mrs. J. Frederick Byers, Mrs. Earl C. B. Gould, Mrs. Thomas J. Hilliard, Mrs. Edward J. House, Mrs. Charles A. Painter, Jr., and Mrs. William Penn Snyder.

following the example of Mayor Charles H. Kline and County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong in supporting the gubernatorial nominee of the party.

The Republican committees of the city and county are expected to present almost a solid front at the final rally of the campaign for Pinchot and his running mates at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in North Side Carnegie Music Hall.

The meeting is demanded by party rules, and was called by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, who, health permitting, will preside. He has invited Mayor Kline and the Mayor's cabinet, in addition to elected county officials and nominees for Allegheny County for Congress, the State Senate and the State House of Representatives.

About 400 Republican workers of the Twelfth Legislative District indorsed Pinchot and the entire Republican ticket at a meeting last night in Hill Shelter House, South Park. Edward Laughlin presided.

Republican women of the Eighth Ward have been invited to a tea tomorrow afternoon in the interest of all nominees on the state ticket in the home of Mrs. Nell Bartley, 405 South Pacific avenue.

262 Names Stricken Off Vote Registers

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Two hundred and sixty-two names today stood stricken from the voting list of Steelton, suburb, following the close of an investigation of registration in the borough in Dauphin County Court late yesterday. The order, striking the names from the poll list, was made by Judge John E. Fox after investigators had presented evidence tending to show that the names were fictitious or those of persons whose whereabouts are unknown.

VOTE MACHINE CASE BEFORE COURT

Completed Device Here, Says Witness; Rival Firm Blamed for Litigation

A final hearing on injunction proceedings to nullify the county's $1,000,000 voting machine contract with the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore, was held in court today before Judge Frank P. Patterson.

Judge James R. Macfarlane several weeks ago refused a preliminary injunction sought by Francis S. Guthrie in a taxpayer's suit against county officials.

Controller Robert O. Woodside was called at the opening of today's testimony to identify original papers relative to the award of the vote machine contract, which were all presented in evidence.

MACHINE REMOVED

Chester Cook, sales manager for the Poole concern, was asked if the company had demonstrated a nine-party 50-candidate machine here. He said such a machine was set up in the commissioners' office, but had not been demonstrated before the commissioners. He said someone had ordered the machine removed.

Clarence Davidson, chief engineer of the Poole company, was asked whether the company actually had built any machines prior to the filing of the Guthrie suit. He said none had been built completely, but machines had been assembled from parts supplied by the American Voting Machine Company, the model of which he said was approved by Pennsylvania election officials.

LEGAL DISPUTE

C. F. C. Ahrensberg, counsel for the complainants, asked permission to amend the original bill of complaint by substituting an affidavit by Guthrie instead of one Ahrensberg had made. Attorney O. K. Eaton, for the Poole firm, objected on the ground that such a substitution changed the status of the case. He contended that Guthrie was responsible for the complaint and was working in the interest of the Automatic Voting Machine Company of Jamestown, N. Y., whose bid was rejected.

A compromise was reached when Eaton consented to Guthrie's affidavit being submitted as an addition to that of Ahrensberg.

Gov. Sproul a candidate for the presidency and his own appointment to the Republican national committee, Pinchot charged Atterbury with "being occupied with an attempt to acquire for himself the political leadership of the state of Pennsylvania by the use of the Philadelphia gang and the money of the stockholders of the road." Pinchot continued:

"The political debts which Gen. Atterbury has paid to the political contractors of Philadelphia at the expense of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad are notorious. That the cost to the road is the respect and good will of a very large and important section of the public in Pennsylvania is equally well known.

"MONEY WASTED"

"During the last 10 days we have seen some money of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad wasted on purely political advertising in the form of placards, form letters and newspaper space, to say nothing of the cost to the road in the time of its officers and men taken from their legitimate duties and assigned to purely political work.

"It is apparent that the good will toward the Pennsylvania railroad which Atterbury's conduct has forfeited is passing rapidly to the competitors of the road.

"As the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad have become aware of the fact, their dissatisfaction has naturally grown. I predict that the Atterbury policies will result within a year either in serious loss in prestige and business for the Pennsylvania Railroad or in the elimination of Atterbury as its president."

The Pennsylvania Railroad is one of the great economic institutions of America, Pinchot said. He added that the "conservative, careful and most effective management" which had been the policy of the railroad for many years was abandoned with the election of Atterbury as president. The standing and success of the Pennsylvania Railroad has been built up on the old policies of the road, Pinchot said.

CLARION POWER HEARING HELD UP BY SUIT

Utilities Concern Protests Elimination of $6,000,000 U. S. Board Disapproves

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Pending final order of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, the power commission vacated its notice to the Clarion River Power Company for a hearing on its complaint against proposed elimination of $6,387,731 from the total investment cost of the company's proposed power project in Clarion County, Pa. The merger was formed by a combining of 13 small companies.

The company has instituted suit in the court to enjoin the commission from holding its hearing scheduled for November 5 in Washington.

OBJECTS TO SCOFFS.

List of proposed items to be eliminated was set forth by the commission as follows:

1. Expenditures of J. R. Paull, which commission said were unsupported by vouchers, $448,722.
2. Unsupported items, $1,121,942.
3. Financing, $1,066,166.
4. Operation, $47,748.

OUTING COST PROTESTED

5. Non-project, which commission said included an item for "Grand Opening," picnic and outing to several hundred persons, $102,081.
6. Services.

The commission said this item was apparently injected by H. D. Walbridge & Co., Inc., for alleged legal services, $21,000.

7. General engineering and supervision. In words of the commission:

"This is a claim of the General Construction Corporation which is entirely unsupported and appears to be the difference between par or face value of $6,000,000 securities to Clarion River Power Company, paid to it for constructing the project under contract date June 21, 1922, and the sum of other expenditures claimed to have been made by it. It covers a portion of whatever profit there may have been on account of the construction contract, but since the contractor (General Construction Company) is affiliated with the Clarion River Power Company by and through control of H. D. Walbridge & Co., Inc., it represents a profit to the Walbridge group and is not a legitimate project cost."

Total, $2,500,000.

8. Land purchases and damages, for which commission said it was denied access to records supporting the item and which, therefore, it proposed to eliminate, $152,799.
9. Equipment, net charge, $150,483.
10. Clarion Water Company improvements, $263,160.
11. Unclaimed wages, $1,612.
12. Unaccounted for, $44,736.
13. Services of H. D. Walbridge & Company, Inc., which commission said all represented profit to licensee and were not items of cost. Total $800,000.
14. Equipment salvage, $28,951.
15. Energy generated, $78,876.

Above items commission totaled and proposed to allow following additions:

1. Lands and damages, $38,676.
2. Interest during construction, $275,554.
3. Energy generated, $39,334, or total of items to be allowed amounting to $274,895. Therefore, total net eliminations which commission proposed to strike from porject cost as set forth by Clarion River Power Company amounted to $6,387,731.

HEMPHILL RAPS PINCHOT ACTS

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Cheered by enthusiastic receptions accorded him in the anthracite regions, John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal candidate for governor, left here today for a tour of Carbon County, heading for Philadelphia and the end of his active campaign for the governorship.

The Democratic nominee left behind him here a vigorous denunciation of his Republican opponent, Gifford Pinchot, as the "hero of the bootlegger and prohibition fanatic" for his stand on the prohibition issue.

Hemphill derided Pinchot for his attitude that "the Eighteenth Amendment must stand for all time because it is already in the Constitution."

Pinchot, Hemphill charged, twice violated the provisions of the state constitution and claimed that "therefore he cannot be very sincere in his argument about the sancity of constitutions."

The violations of the state constitution, according to the West Chester attorney, were made when the state forester resigned in 1921 and the next day was reappointed at an increased salary, and again when Pinchot, as governor, demanded that Supt. of Public Instruction T. E. Finnegan place in his hands an undated resignation.

Vare's Daughter Pleads For Defeat of Pinchot

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—Miss Beatrice Vare, daughter of William S. Vare, leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization, made a plea last night for the defeat of Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor, who, she said, had tried to "crucify" her father.

Speaking before the Women's Republican Club of Pennsylvania, she urged the election of John Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal gubernatorial candidate, and declared that "every widow's little income," and every bank and savings account in the state would be at stake "if we have the business and utility shakeups which Mr. Pinchot has promised in the event he should be elected."

She told the meeting that her father regretted "very much" that illness prevented his being present.

STEELCRAFT Two-Trouser Suits

In a car, a watch or a suit of clothes, it's the insides, the "works," that determine whether it will serve long and well or will doom the owner to quick disappointment.

When you buy a Steelcraft, be inquisitive. Delve into every seam and lining. We like to explain how the collar, the coat-front and all essential points are shaped and sewn by hand. How fine the fabrics. How high-grade every piece of tape and canvas and padding.

Steelcrafts are well made, from the weaving of the cloth to the final pressing. They keep their shape through months of every-day service. Wear one—on our recommendation. Every Steelcraft has two pairs of trousers.

'POLICE CHOKED ME,' GIRL SAYS

Mary Skebo, the 17-year-old chambermaid who twice attempted to end her life when charged with the theft of a $300 diamond ring, this morning at a hearing in Morals Court accused police of beating a confession from her.

Repudiating her alleged "confession," and denying she stole the diamond from the home of Sol Schussett, 2210 Bedford avenue, where she was employed as a servant, the girl said:

"I told police I stole the ring because they beat me. They also threw coats over me to choke me into giving them a confession."

Arraigned with the girl was Abe Schulman, 24, of 2041 Center avenue, for whom, according to the girl's alleged confession, she stole the diamond. He admitted knowing her slightly, but denied she had given him a ring.

Magistrate Thomas Jones continued the case.

HELD AFTER CAR HURTS NURSE

Frank Collura, 21, of 1631 Fifth avenue, was held in Central Police Station today as the hit-and-run driver who seriously injured Miss Dolores Guilfoyle, 23, a nurse at Mercy Hospital, at Fifth avenue and Stevenson street, last night.

Miss Guilfoyle suffered brain concussion. Her home is at 220 Park avenue, Punxsutawney.

About 25 minutes after the accident Collura was alleged to have reported the car stolen to police.

Patrolman Thomas Martin found Collura's car in front of the home of Mrs. Irene Burns, 1939 Tustin street. Mrs. Burns at the police station identified Collura as the driver who "abandoned" the car in front of her home, according to police.

When a truck driven by Enrico Caruso, 45, of 156 Auburn street, sideswiped an automobile driven by Joseph Gastonski, 30, of 3524 Fleetwood street, Ralph Papale, 19, of 156 Auburn street; Mrs. Mary Mazzacavalo, 48, of 176 Shetland avenue, and her daughter, Libby, 12, were hurt.

Clarence Smith, 10, of 527 Lockhart street, suffered a fractured skull when struck by an automobile while riding a scooter near his home last night. Joseph Batham, of 812 Fourth street, Beaver Falls, driver of the car, was arrested.

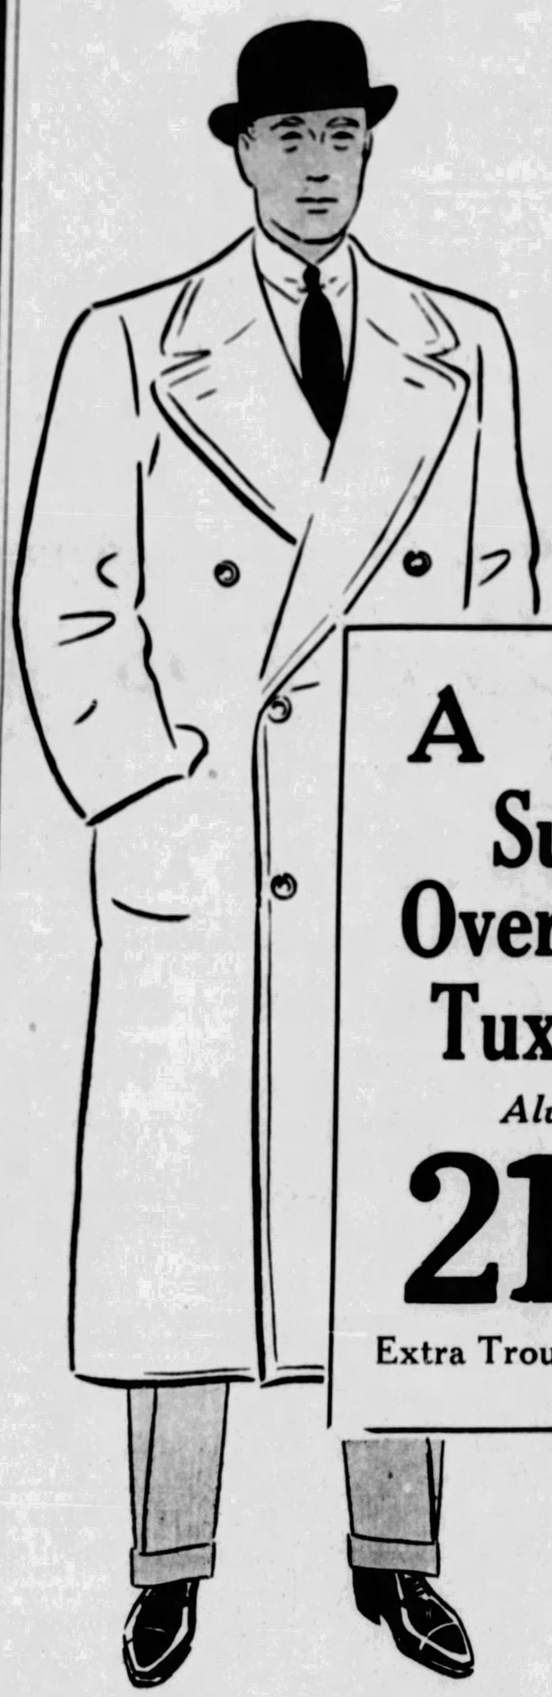
Even the Tailors Buy Plus-Sixes!

This sounds like a fable, but it happens to be fact. A certain tailor—rather well known, too—strolled over our threshold the other day—and bought a Plus-Six Suit, and a Plus-Six Overcoat—for his boy who is going to college. He said, "You fellows have got clothes that I couldn't begin to make up at such prices. I'd be foolish not to take advantage of such a situation—even if it does wound my professional pride. I've surely got to hand it to you, gentlemen."



Well, well! And if you think Mr. Tailor is an isolated example, come in tomorrow and clock the attendance. You'll find lawyers, doctors, and (even) brokers, who have gone Plus-Six—because they know the Kaufmann reputation for value-giving, and because they know good clothes when they see them. A whole storeful of value, surprising, thrilling VALUE awaits you here tomorrow!

LOTTERY RAIDS NET WOMEN

Two women and three men were arrested today as South Side police conducted two "numbers" raids on grocery stores.

Mrs. Pearl Seltzer was arrested when the police squad raided her grocery, 1901 Sidney street. H. Southworth, same address, in the store when it was raided, was also arrested. Police said they confiscated lottery paraphernalia.

The next place visited by police was the grocery of Mrs. Eve Cmilkilk, 43, at 104 South Eighteenth street, where police also took into custody Stanley Bonart, of 5218 Lebanon street, reputed "pickup" man for the South Side lotteries.

Shortly after the raids, Ernest Weiland, of South Twenty-first street, who, police say, was implicated by Bonart, was arrested. The prisoners were released on $2,500 bond for a hearing tomorrow morning.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Nine men, two of them Americans, have their suitcases packed at Altenrhein on Lake Constance, for the takeoff Saturday of the monster flying ship DO-X, on a flight that may end at Lisbon or may land them at the foot of the Battery, New York City.

One more flight is to be made at Altenrhein today, with Capt. Sander, of the German navy department, aboard, and this will be the final test. Then all authorities will have given their approval to the projected crossing of the Atlantic.

Lieut. Charles H. Schildhauer, formerly of the United States Navy, and a noted American pilot, will be one of the Americans to make the trip, and Harvey Brewton, technical assistant and electrical engineer, will be the other. The two passengers, Lady Grace Drummond Hay and myself, will not board the DO-X until it reaches Amsterdam.

SPEED BRIDGE AT RAYSTOWN

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 31.—The last concrete floor span of the new concrete bridge on the Lincoln Highway, over the Raystown branch of the Juniata River at Juniata Crossings, in Bedford County, was poured this week. Work was started in May. The bridge is 487 feet long, 43 feet wide, with three open arches. It will cost about $325,000. It contains about 6,200 yards of concrete and 410 tons of steel. It is expected the new bridge will be open to traffic about December 1.

The old wooden covered bridge a few hundred feet upstream will be allowed to remain as a monument. It is 368 feet long, consisting of two spans, said to be the longest of the kind in the world.

The wooden bridge, built in 1818 for wagon traffic, has been handling present-day traffic without restrictions. Thirty-six buses of transcontinental lines run over the bridge daily besides trucks of all sizes and automobiles from all sections of the country. This bridge was famous a century ago and was adopted as a model for similar structures in Europe where timber bridges were required.

GRACE EXPECTS STEEL UPTURN IN JANUARY

Bethlehem Declares Usual Quarterly Dividends; Men Kept on Payrolls

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation reported net income for the September quarter of $3,783,245, equal to 63 cents a share of common, against $7,691,495 or $1.86 a share in the previous three months period on 3,200,000 shares.

This compared with $4.01 a share on 2,400,000 shares in the September, 1929, quarter when net income totaled $11,384,720.

USUAL DIVIDENDS

Although earnings were less than dividend requirements, directors ordered the usual quarterly payments of $1.50 on each share of common and $1.75 on the preferred.

Eugene G. Grace, president of the corporation, in an informal discussion said he saw no prospect of an upturn in the steel industry before the turn of a new year, but expressed his belief that gradual improvement would be registered after January 1. He said:

"We are not going to the how-wows you can depend on that, and when we come back, we will come back slowly and substantially. There is nothing to be alarmed about. Things are in fine, strong shape. We are just going through a period of liquidation. When the buying power is coming back, however, is a problem for the economists, not me."

The encouraging feature of the present situation, in Grace's opinion, is the greater stability of prices. He added:

"I think you'll get an upturn in steel prices as soon as you get an upturn in business."

During the third quarter operations averaged at 54.6 per cent of rated capacity, against 69.3 in the June quarter and 97.8 per cent in the third quarter of 1929. Current operations are at the rate of 51 per cent. The value of orders on hand September 30, 1930, was given by Grace as approximately $64,000,000, against 59,906,772 on June 30, 1930, and $61,000,000 on September 30, 1929.

Discussing general conditions in the industry, Grace said:

"I hope to see a continuation of the wage rate and the buying power of the workmen. We are keeping all our men on the pay roll and distributing the work. We are not laying off old employes.

"We have not as yet begun to feel any first quarter business to speak of."

Reports that the Eaton interests would drop the suit to prevent merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel were characterized by Grace as "pure gossip." He said:

"I know nothing of any steps toward a settlement, and I would know if any were being taken."

U. S. STEEL HEAD OPTIMISTIC

PINEHURST, N. C., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—An optimistic view of the steel industry's future was expressed here by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, addressing the annual convention of the American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc.

Referring to all industry of the world as passing through a transition period that has affected prices, Mr. Farrell asserted:

"I am confident that in the end, stabilization and recovery will develop from intelligent management.

"Steel production has declined very materially, but I am one of those who like to think that our business has been making for better times, considering the increase in general use and more widely spread demand for fabricated material which has developed during the last several years."

Utility Company Plans Big Program

OIL CITY, Pa., Oct. 31.—Improvements costing $60,445 will be made to the system of the Keystone Public Service Company next year. The expansion program, together with the normal budget of $750,000 for maintenance means spending $1,110,445 in the Franklin-Oil City-Titusville district, including $75,000 in extending small lines to rural communities.

Dr. Kerr Speaks At Church Dinner

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 31.—Five hundred men of the Beaver Presbytery attended the eighteenth annual fellowship dinner in the First Presbyterian Church, addressed by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, Pittsburgh, moderator of the General Assembly, and the Rev. Dr. William P. Weir, director of the department of men's work.

Fire Damages Bank Building at Koppel

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 31.—The rear and second floors of the First National Bank Building at Koppel was damaged $10,000 by fire yesterday, caused by a defective hot water heater, firemen report. By SALLY MARTIN

Can Two Really Live as Cheaply as One—And If So Just How Cheaply?

Is $35 a week enough to marry on?

Would any modern girl be willing to take such a chance?

Phil Allen wanted to know. He was in love, and the girl was as eager to marry as he—but "had he any right to ask a girl to share such poverty?"

"Don't you do it, bo," cautioned his men friends. "These girls today are nothing but a bunch of greedy grabbers. All they want is some big Butter 'n' Egg Man who'll give them a large time. Just tell them they've got to dig in and stand a little punishment with you and see what they say!"

So we put it up to the girls themselves. And did they come back? In mobs! And now we're issuing a special invitation to Cynical Gents who consider Modern Misseys Gold Diggers to read the results.

First comes Nina—

"Say, listen, Phil!" she says, a gleam in her eye. "Let me tell you something! Any girl who really loves a fellow will be tickled to death to pitch in and help him build a home for herself and him. It may not be so easy, but it's all the fun in the world when you're in love.

"I only wish that you men would come out in the open more and tell girls what you're making, and how much you'd like to have a cosy little home with a fireplace and a baby or two, and see how happy most of us would be to pitch in and help get it . . . provided it's the right man talking. In fact, I think that most girls would would rather have things that way, and know that they had a proud share in being a real pal and working for happiness and success."

And then there's Jean—

"I just wish my Bill were willing to take a chance on marrying on that $35 a week!" says she. "We have been engaged now for about a year. And he claims it's wrong to marry on so little. But I'd be willing to take a chance on it, any time. In fact, I'd be proud to help him build up a home. I could work, if it wasn't enough, at least until we had a start. What would I care if I didn't have everything I have now? We are young and very much in love, and I know we could make it go. I know that if Philip loves a real girl, she'd be willing to take a chance. And the only way for him to find out is to ask her! Go to it, Philip!"

But the idea makes Nancy peeved as a pup. Love or no love, there'll be no poverty for her. Not if she knows it.

"I think it's an outrage to expect any girl to get married on a measly salary like $35 a week . . .or even $50. . .in this day and age," she snorts. "You know just as well as I do that money talks. If you can't live in a nice place and dress well, and keep up with things like folks expect you to, what do you amount to?

"It's just terrible when you have no money, and even love doesn't last if you have to stick yourself away in some dark, cheap hole and wear shabby, down-at-the-heel clothes.

"And think of the poor children who are brought up in such terrible surroundings. What chance have they? Having to live in some dark, cheerless place, among wretched, hopeless, dirty surroundings and neighbors. What sort of a life does it fit them for?

"Let that Philip Allen get busy and make more money if he wants any sensible woman to throw in her lot with his. I think he has his nerve to even ask such a question."

That's a dark and dreary picture, I'll admit. But before you take it too seriously, listen to Betty. Betty had the love and the courage and the grit to take a chance on her big adventure. And is she making it go? She is, and how!

"I'd like to say a word to Philip Allen, and all the rest of the young folks who think you've got to be a millionaire before you marry," she cries. "Sally, you're right. If Phil's sweetheart is a Regular Gal, I don't see why she shouldn't be willing to marry him on $35 a week. I married on only $27, and we get along fine. I am helping out just now, but I don't mind that. I make $12. His salary and mine amount to $158 a month. And here's how we spend it.

"$30 a month for rent.

"$45 a month for food, gas and electricity.

"$5 a month for theater, etc., to which we usually go once a week.

"$12 a month for extra spending money.

"That's $95, and it is usually what we need, but some months we don't even spend that much. That leaves us $63 each month that we save. When clothes are needed, we buy them out of that. But we don't need them so very often."

But it depends on the girl, says Frances—

"What sort is she, Phil?" she asks. "Is she one of the thousands of us Poor Working Girls, who know how to take care of our money, and don't expect squab for dinner every night? Or is she some rich man's daughter, who is helpless at housekeeping, and wouldn't know how to help you? Or work if she had to? That's the question to ask before you decide. You can live on $35 a week, but it'll take managing and a love that's stronger than the hunger for luxuries."

And Hyla's idea is that it's all up to Phil himself.

"It's not how much money you're making now," is her answer, "but how much future you've got, yourself. Do you expect her to live on $35 a week just for a little while . . . or for all the rest of her life?"

What do you think, Partner?

'RADIO DOCTOR' TO SEEK NEW TRIAL

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

Vin Drayne is now an advertising man but he is still as curious as when he was one of the town's ablest newspapermen. Thus, when he was driving through one of the Pennsylvania Dutch towns a few weeks ago, he pulled back the brakes when he saw a crowd collected on a corner.

It was an auction sale of beds, and the Pennsylvania Dutch at that moment were bidding cautiously for an old, four-poster, cherry wood bed whose age was indicated by its slats, which were not of wood, nor yet of springs—but rope. Over the cherry wood had been painted an outlandish red.

There were three bids—25 cents, 30 and, finally, 40. A woman took the bed home for 40 cents.

After he had chastized himself for passing up a genuine antique, Drayne drove on. Ten miles later he changed his mind, turned around and drove back to the Dutch town.

He sought out the husband of the bed owner. Yes, the wife would sell the bed fo $1. The wife proved less agreeable. She wanted $2. Drayne bought the bed, had it shipped to Pittsburgh and paid $35 to have the disagreeable red removed so that the original cherry wood might be preserved.

The bed now reposes in the Drayne home. Nightly Vin Drayne lays himself down in it, counts the four posters, counts the slats of rope and falls off to sleep.

Judge Gray is a veteran at the bar and a distinguished jurist, but he has not forgotten those days when he was a struggling law student. In fact, the other day, addressing a group of Pitt law students, he advised them just how to defeat the bugaboo of all students—the final examinations. This was Judge Gray's recipe: The night before you take the examinations, don't look at your books.

We'll pass this on to you as the slang of the soda jerker:

"Paint It Red"—Add a dash of cherry.

"Ninety-nine!"—Here comes the manager.

"Burn one"—Chocolate malted milk.

"Sweet Sixteen"—Bromo seltzer.

"Mack Johnson"—Chocolate eclair.

"Sashweight"—A doughnut.

Dr. A. A. Horvath, of the Bureau of Mines, is an unusual person in his own right, but it is to his two young daughters that we doff an admiring hat and bow low. One is Irene, 11, and the other is Tatienu, 9. Tatienu was born in China. Both children speak and write five languages—English, Russian, French, German and Chinese.

Holdup Shooting Myth, Trio Admits

Wallace Clever, 24, of Natrona, reported to have been shot during an attempted holdup, was shot accidentally, Tarentum police said they learned from Clever, his brother, Robert, 18, and Clark McGregor, 22. The wound was slight. The boys told police they manufactured the holdup story in order to avoid explaining why they had a revolver in their possession. Young Clever was shot when the safety catch on the weapon was accidentally released.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Hot election in New York for governor. I don't know Roosevelt's opponent, but they say he is a fine man. But if you want to find out about Roosevelt, go to a little town in the South, where physical affliction predominates, and ask one of them if Roosevelt would be in any way in favor of Tammany Hall corruption, and for an answer you would be punched in the jaw by a cripple, the same thing that Roosevelt should have done to Tammany Hall. We have two things in this country that get junk with a little power, one is Wall Street and the other is Tammany Hall. Neither one can stand prosperity, and both can beef more when they are not getting it.

Yours, WILL.

Will Rogers.

DANCES, MUSIC, PARADES ON PROGRAM

Elaborate Celebrations Planned by Committees; Prizes for Best Costumes

Halloween, popular name given to the eve of All Saints, will be observed in Pittsburgh and its suburbs with numerous costume parties, parades and dances tonight.

Civic associations, boards of trade, municipalities and various clubs are sponsoring community observance of the event, the outgrowth of the old English custom of marking the vigil of the festival with harmless fireside revelries.

Under the auspices of the Business Men's Association of the East North Side, a street parade of floats and mummers, open-air dance and many prizes for costumes will spread the festive spirit on the North Side. The parade, beginning at 7:45 p. m., will form in Phineas street and move along East Ohio street, Federal street, North avenue, East street and terminate at Middle street.

DANCE UNDER LIGHTS

The dance will be held in Middle street with special flood lights illuminating the scene. More than $200 will be awarded in cash prizes to masqueraders. Loving cups will be given for the best floats.

The South Side Business Men's Association will likewise sponsor a parade over the principal streets of the district, with prizes awarded the largest family in the line of march, and those with the best costumes.

In the downtown section a "no costume" party will be held by the Pittsburgh Lodge, B. P. O. E., and a huge costumed affair will be given under the auspices of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, Center avenue, with a number of parties for children and adults scheduled as part of the program.

'Y' PARTY SATURDAY

In East Liberty the Y. M. C. A. party for seniors will not be held until Saturday. It will be staged in the gym, and will consist of appropriate games and dancing. Prizes will be given for the best costumes. Novelty booths, "A Trip to the Moon, "The Death Chamber" and the "Hall of Horrors" are being arranged.

A Lawrenceville committee composed of educators, business men and representatives of the Goodwill Industries, has prepared a program for one of the largest Halloween celebrations ever attempted there, announcements said. The mummers' parade, led by members of the Board of Trade, a police escort and the band of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club will feature the evening. Churches and schools of Lawrenceville are co-operating.

Two bands, two calliopes and numerous floats will be in the line of march during the parade in Bellevue, when residents of the North Boroughs, Ross and Kilbuck townships, will compete for prizes. More than 100 prizes will be awarded, and after the parade, a costume dance will be held in the borough hall.

EAST BOROUGHS FETE

In the East Boroughs, Wilkinsburg, Swissvale, Braddock and East Pittsburgh will hold similar parades, with practically all of the school children of the various communities taking part. Boards of Trade and commerce bodies are in charge of arrangements.

Twenty-five hundred children and young men and women were expected to take part in the Homewood-Brushton joint celebration. The Homewood and Brushton groups were slated to

Mrs. Sturges Identifies Lost Bracelet; Puts $18,000 Jewels in Deposit Box

A safe deposit vault today was guarding more than $18,000 in gems after the recovery by Mrs. Eleanore Post Hutton Sturges, wife of the playwright, Preston Sturges, of a $10,500 bracelet containing 476 diamonds that had dropped from her arm in William Penn way.

Henry G. Jetter, of the American Bridge Company, Frick Building, found the bracelet soon after it had been lost, a short distance from the entrance to the William Penn Hotel, Wednesday noon. In the presence of an insurance representative and Detective William Sullivan, Mrs. Sturges identified the bracelet in Jetter's office yesterday afternoon.

VALUE UNSUSPECTED

It had been planned to identify the bracelet today, but afternoon news stories on the lost gems brought Mrs. Jetter from her home in 843 Thorn avenue, Elliott, to her husband's office yesterday with the bracelet. They had thought it not very valuable, but Jetter had notified the hotel management of his find early yesterday.

CEREAL HEIRESS

On advice of detectives, Mrs. Sturges deposited the bracelet and an $8,000 ring in a vault until she departs from the city. Mrs. Sturges is heiress to the Battle Creek, Mich., cereal millions.

GROCER VICTIM OF SWINDLE

Two men telephoned the O. K. Grocery at 7403 Penn avenue, and asked Lawrence Morovitz, manager, to send an order of groceries and change for a $20 bill to a Carnegie Place address, last night, Morovitz did, police said.

When Eric Bradshaw, 16, of 214 Thomas avenue, Wilkinsburg, the errand boy, got there, the men took the change, $16.94, and fled. The pair, operating for several months, have victimized scores of storekeepers in a similar manner, police declared.

They were married December 6, 1920, and have four children. Mrs. McGinnis testified she left him in September, 1929, saying:

"I came home from town and he wanted to know where I had been, calling me names, knocking the dishes from the table and knocking me around until I was bruised all over the body and my head was all over bumps. For three months it was one fight after another."

DENY 'BOYCOTT' IN OVERBROOK

The Overbrook Board of Trade, which functioned in the borough before its annexation to Pittsburgh, is not being discriminated against in use of the municipal building, according to Edward Foley, chief clerk in the Bureau of City Property.

Members of the board say they have been shut out of the regular meeting place for three months in succession. Foley said a change was necessary tonight because of a Halloween celebration in the ward, but that the board would get its permit regularly for the last Friday of each month.

According to Richard Owen, president of the organization they have received notice that their permit for the meeting tonight has been cancelled to allow the Thirty-second Ward Board of Trade, a rival organization to meet.

Mr. Owen said the case was an effort by the Thirty-second Ward Board of Trade, which he termed a political organization, to frustrate activities of the Overbrook Board of Trade.

The Overbrook board will meet in a school building tonight, Owen announced.

J. J. Dempskie, president of the Thirty-second Ward board, said today he knew nothing of the old board being denied use of the municipal building. He said his organization, the League of Women Voters, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Council of Republican Women of the ward would hold a Halloween parade tonight, but the plans did not contemplate a meeting in the municipal building that would interfere with the Overbrook meeting.

PLAN APPEAL IN JOHNSTON CONVICTION

Found Guilty of Attempted Fraud in Ether Wave Treatment of Ailments

Found guilty of having attempted to obtain money under false pretenses, Dr. J. E. Johnston, East End's so-called "radio doctor," was at liberty under bond today while counsel prepared to ask a new trial.

Johnston was adjudged guilty late yesterday by a jury of five women and seven men after an hour's deliberation in connection with his activities in purporting to treat patients by ether waves for cancer, tuberculosis and kindred ailments. The conviction carries with it a possible sentence of up to three years' imprisonment and a $500 fine.

Immediately following the verdict, Attorney W. H. Coleman, who was "cured" in court of influenza toxins and sore throat by an expert who conjured with his apparatus on the lawyer, announced his intention of asking a new trial.

LAWYER BELIEVES IN CURE

Not only was Attorney Coleman a patient of Dr. W. H. Bennett, a teacher of the science of "Aetheronics," but Judge Samuel H. Gardner also took a hand in the proceedings, although he professed not to submit himself to diagnosis.

Charging that the science which Johnston professes to practice was "modern magic under the table," and "absolutely ridiculous," Assistant District Attorney James Geltz in his closing address to the jury said:

HITS 'ABSENT TREATMENT'

"No one with intelligence can believe how disease can be cured by the mere formality of emanating radio waves from psuedo-apparatus to the human body without the necessity of that patient being in the attending physician's office."

Johnston contended in his testimony it was not necessary for a patient to visit him to be treated. All that was needed, he said, was a specimen of the patient's handwriting on a small slip of paper. Disease waves emanating from the human body implanted indications of themselves in the handwriting. In that manner, he pointed out, ether waves coming from apparatus in his office collided with disease germs in the human system and caused their destruction. The physician told the court he had patients in South America, South Africa, France, Germany and all over the United States whom he was giving courses of treatment for cancer and tuberculosis.

TELL OF CURES

A parade of witnesses testified to the efficacy of Johnston's treatments. Some told how he had effected cures when all other methods had ended in failure.

Johnston, on cross-examination, denied he ever promised to "cure," saying the word was taboo in his office. The office is located in the Liberty Building, 6101 Penn avenue.

Johnston's arrest, indictment and conviction followed a spectacular raid on his office last May 28. At that time County Detective David Drexler asked the defendant's aid in curing a mythical sister residing in Washington, Pa., suffering from cancer.

Testifying that Johnston accepted $25 in marked money as a retainer fee for a course of treatment, Drexler said his "sister's" ailments were diagnosed by "ether waves" as sarcoma, beef worms, aenemia and pus in the teeth.

Following Drexler's visit to the office, county detectives raided it and reported confiscating a large amount of equipment purported to have been used in giving treatments.

Arrested with Johnston was his secretary-nurse, Mrs. Esther Meising, who was arraigned on a conspiracy charge. The charge, along with one placed against the physician, was dropped for lack of evidence.

Contractor to Pay Injured Employe or Go to Jail

Joseph H. Carlyle, West View contractor, must pay $1,300 compensation to an injured employe or go to jail for two months, under a sentence imposed by Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court. He is to be paroled for three years upon agreeing to make the payment.

Carlyle pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with failure to comply with the state act requiring all employers to carry compensation insurance. John G. Tschannen, 1543 East street, was driving a tractor for Carlyle May 30, when it upset, breaking his leg and burning him. A referee for the State Compensation Bureau fixed $1,300 as the compensation Carlyle should pay.

SPEED, SAFETY SEEN BOON TO BUSINESS

Links Pittsburgh With Chief Capitals and Markets Of North, South America

By AL GOUGH,
Aviation Editor.

Pittsburgh, rejoicing in its aerial triumphs, can well place its new coast-to-coast service for passengers, mail and express at the top of the list.

This new daily convenience brought to the industrial center of the world by Pittsburgh Aviation Industries through its affiliation with Trans-continental & Western Air, Inc., is truly an achievement worthy of the boast. It is a step forward in the progress of aviation and a definite move towards the ultimate centering of industrial activities here.

ADVANTAGES MANY

The advantages of the new transcontinental plane service to this city are untold in number. To business and industry in general, the business traveler in particular as well as the traveler for pleasure, the new enterprise brings many advantages—time saving; safe, practically sure and swift means of transportation.

Pittsburgh is now only a few hours from the East, with connections at Philadelphia and New York for Baltimore, Washington, Boston, or even Florida and points in South America and Panama, along the route of Pan American Airways. To the West, the Southwest or the Northwest planes connect at St. Louis, Kansas City, Oklahoma City, Albuquerque, N. M., and Los Angeles.

COMMERCIAL SIDE

And for those not interested in travel there is the advantage of airmail and express. Wednesday, a floral firm shipped $400 worth of gardenias to New York. Fresh cut blooms of this variety are abundant in Southern California. They are in demand in the East.

ACTION TAKEN AS MEASURE OF RELIEF

Producers Concede 1-Cent Reduction After Hearing Committee for Public

Retail milk prices will be reduced from 14 to 13 cents a quart next month, milk dealers and producers in this district announced. The reduction is made as a contribution toward relief of consumers in the current depression, it was stated. The action was taken after a conference between dealers, producers and consumers at a meeting yesterday in the Mayfair Hotel. The change probably will go into effect tomorrow.

More than 200 milk producers at the conference opposed the reduction until they heard the plea for reduction presented by the consumers' committee. Those on the consumers' committee were David J. Terry, of the Children's Service Bureau; Mrs. J. C. Heckman, of the Congress of Women's Clubs, and Miss Helen Grimes.

Dr. Clyde L. King, milk price arbiter for this district, said farm conditions do not warrant a reduction now, but that the depression would be alleviated by a reduction since consumers ordinarily expect an increase at this time.

'Uncle Davy' Oliver, at 96, Gives 'Moderation' as Long Life Formula

David B. Oliver, who is 96 today and observing the event quietly in his Termon avenue home, North Side, attributes his long life to moderation in everything.

"Uncle Davy," long a manufacturer and student of human nature, said:

"The older I become the more I find myself growing in the belief that moderation in everything is of great advantage. And when I say moderation, I mean to apply that to eating, drinking, manner of living and doing things in a moderate way while enjoying life.

"Be moderate in everything. It always comes back to you."

Just then a little wire-haired fox terrier, Scotty, his constant companion, brushed under his master's legs as he sat seated in his favorite old-fashioned rocking chair.

His interviewer asked him what kind of food he likes and what agrees with him. His eyes glistened as he said:

"Good old-fashioned beefsteak and boiled potatoes. I also like vegetables of every kind. Meat once a day is enough. I enjoy just plain food."

Mr. Oliver talked of the day in 1842 when he landed in Pittsburgh on a Pennsylvania canal boat—the days before the railroads—with his father, Henry Oliver. He said his father came to this city because in Philadelphia some friends told him there were a lot of good Irish in Pittsburgh, the Olivers having come from County Tyrone, Ireland.

"Uncle Davy," who is still an active member of the Board of Public Education, will preside at a family dinner tonight attended by his six children. They are Henry Oliver, Sewickley; Mrs. Charles Shoemaker, Termon avenue; Mrs. John H. Ross, Madison, N. J.; Miss Jessie Oliver, at home; Mrs. Charles L. Doyle, of Sewickley, and Charles Oliver, at home.

As Mr. Oliver has outlived the mortuary tables of life insurance companies, his life policies have been paid to him.

Otis Skinner's Daughter Delights Audience With Monolog Repertoire

By J. FRED LISSFELT.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, American diseuse and daughter of the beloved Otis Skinner, entertained in Carnegie Music Hall last night under the auspices of the University Maternity Dispensary Social Service Department. If the audience was touched, it gave scanty applause for such delicate art.

Miss Skinner has listened well in this land of ours; when we laugh at her mimicry there is a catch in the throat, for pathos, and often tragedy lurks underneath every word of her sketches. Where she might not have listened she has been well informed, for the timid slang of another decade is most apropos. Her stage accessories are but a bonnet, a scarf, a lorgnette, and yet she can quickly create atmosphere, the scene, and its imaginary players through the medium of her monolog.

J. Fred Lissfelt

There were eight pictures. The "Eve of Departure" was a typical but somewhat overworked and not too subtle story of an American tourist, who receives and tries to pack all her Paris purchases. "In a Gondola" is the tragedy of an American husband bored or obstinate about the beauty of a Venetian night. Here Miss Skinner's skill as a writer and actress, also as a commentator on American life was most marked.

The tragedy of Broadway failures is not unknown to this actress, for in her "Snowbound In Iowa" she gave the ghastly truth about those who still have the urge to play and faith in their own meager talents. "Homework" was a nice satire on our home life and told the awful truth of mothers' arithmetic. "Monte Carlo" was more clever mimicry than literature. "Sailing Time on the Olympic" was the banal tourist at her most amusing moment and quite recognizable.

U. S. Neutral in Foreign War, Says Reed

The Camera Question Box

Today's question: Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk says—"Man has three outlets: intoxication, love and work." Which is the most dangerous? Which is the safest?

MISS CELIA NITRESS, Lawrenceville. The most dangerous outlet, according to the series named by Dr. Fisk, is that of intoxication. The safest is work and then as a usual thing I would say love ranks next. In this case, though, disastrous results may follow. Love may be safe, but not always sure.

Miss Nitress

MISS JOSEPHINE BRASCHAK, North Side, unemployed. Man must have outlets for his energy. It seems to me that if he would put forth his best efforts in his work, he would find he will derive from it the best and surest results.

Miss J. Braschak

MISS MARY BRASCHAK, North Side. Love is the most dangerous outlet that man can partake of. It is something that he cannot trifle with, and is, perhaps, a lot more serious than he might realize at first.

Mary Braschak

MELVIN OATES, North Side, student, high school. Not all men indulge in intoxication. This would be the most dangerous and most harmful outlet for a man. Work is safe, on it a man depends and through it earns his living. To me, love seems unimportant, as yet.

Mr. Oates.

ROBERT NEELEY, North Side, student, high school. Work is man's best bet. When he works he is indulging in the safest and surest outlet he has. Love, I believe, ranks next to work in safeness. Intoxication is dangerous and unimportant to any man.

Mr. Neeley

G. D. BURG, South Hills, clerk. Man's safest and most beneficial outlet is his line of work. Intoxication, without a doubt, is the most dangerous to him. Love can be dangerous, also, depending on the people concerned.

Mr. Burg.

PRAISES NAVAL PACT AS AID TO PEACE

Senator Tells Bar Group Treaty Makes Safety Of Nations More Secure

The United States will enforce a more strict neutrality in the event of trouble between France and Italy in the Mediterranean than in the World War and will find Great Britain standing by to enforce the mutual rights of the English speaking people at land and sea, in the opinion of United States Senator David A. Reed, expressed last night at the first meeting of the Alle...eny County Bar Association of its 'all and winter season.

Taking as his topic the naval conference at London this year, at which he was one of the American delegates, Senator Reed declared that the pact approved by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, is "a very decided forward step in civilization." He said:

"I believe the peoples of these nations may rest more secure that their peace is to be undisturbed and they are free to go ahead with their civil occupations, more free in that feeling particularly in this country."

3 POWERS SUPREME

The powerful influence of the three great sea powers, under the naval pact, upon the peace of the world was stressed in the address of Senator Reed. He declared that the United States is impregnable from attack in its home waters, as are Great Britain and Japan in their home waters. He said:

"There are no real battleships in the world today except those owned by the three powers. All others would be worsted in battle by a single ship of the three nations. The three together possess about 60 per cent of the naval strength of the entire world. So long as we three stand together in cordial understanding we would be impregnable against the massed attack of the rest of the world. The only three naval powers have completely resolved the competition in naval armaments in a way that all regard as being fair to each of the three."

The Senator expressed a hope, despite their apparent never-ending altercation, France and Italy may attain some measure of success, in adjusting their conflicts. He said:

NOBODY WINS A WAR

"I have often wondered what will happen in this country if there should be an outburst in the Mediterranean. I am sure our efforts to remain neutral will be even more determined than in the last war. I think America will insist more strongly that its neutrality rights be respected, and it will be much slower to send an Army to Europe than it was in 1917. I think we will be fortified in that by finding a similar attitude on the part of the British. They have learned what we have learned, that nobody wins a war. I feel sure we will find the British standing with us to enforce at sea our mutual rights."

Senator Reed was presented by Arthur M. Scully, president of the association, who also called attention to the unexpected visit at the meeting of Francis H. Bohlen, of the law faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, candidate at the Republican primaries for nomination as United States senator on the anti-prohibition ticket.

CAMPAIGN FOR $1,520,248 OPENS NOV. 12

Corporations Informed Gifts To Charity Are Deductible From Income Tax Returns

Nearly 8,000 volunteer workers, serving in five divisions, will canvass the county during the Welfare Fund campaign November 12 to 25, it was announced today. The divisions are the special gifts, central, employe, city neighborhood and county neighborhood divisions.

As announced recently, all workers in the campaign will pay for their own lunches at campaign meetings. The goal this year is $1,520,248.

PLEA TO CORPORATIONS

Corporations need not hesitate to make contributions to charitable and community welfare activities, it was announced at the fund headquarters today. Not only are such gifts permissible, it was said, but recent court decisions indicate that, if properly designated, they are deductible from income tax returns.

Last year corporations and business establishments in Pittsburgh contributed 15.1 per cent of the total amount raised by the fund.

HOPE FOR MORE

This year the total budget includes an increased estimate for family relief, and it is hoped that the local corporations will be more generous.

A department for finding jobs for fathers and mothers of needy families in the community has been added to the activities of the Woods Run Settlement House, a member of the fund.

Recently the settlement sent out requests for jobs of all kinds, part-time house work or anything to provide work and income to families facing a winter of privation.

THE OLD DEPTH GUAGE—AND THE NEW!

RIVER TOO LOW, GAUGE USELESS

The present drought is no respector of person—it has now taken a blow at Weather Forecaster William S. Brotzman.

It is part of Forecaster Brotzman's duties to have a river observer report on the river stages daily. This is not particularly difficult when the rivers are normal, but this year a difficulty was encountered by Samuel Hildebrand, observer at the Point. The river gauge at the Point proved useless because it could not record stages below 10½ feet, while the water basin at the Point fell to a low level of nine and a half feet.

In order that he could furnish the Weather Bureau at Washington, D. C., with readings, Mr. Brotzman installed a temporary gauge. The bureau in Washington knew what the Point gauge stopped at 10½ feet and asked Forecaster Brotzman how he was securing his low readings. All this he explained in detail and the Washington officials gave consent to erect a new permanent gauge and forget the old one, which was cut into the stone pier of the new Point Bridge by order of the County Commissioners.

The new gauge will record a stage as low as nine feet.

The lowest level reached this year was nine feet four inches, the lowest since 1923, when the Emsworth Dam was erected.

POLICE PREPARE FOR REDS

Police made ready today to frustrate the announced meeting of Communists at noon tomorrow on the steps of the City-County Building, a permit for which was refused by Police Supt. P. P. Walsh.

Despite the refusal, leaders of the Communist party and the Council of Unemployed Workers of Pittsburgh declared an attempt to hold the meeting would be made. The demonstration, according to handbills distributed downtown, will be headed by a delegation of the unemployed.

In Central Police Court today, Anthony Wanacheck, 40, of Suismon street, North Side, was fined $5 with the alternative of five days in jail, by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, on a charge of violating a city ordinance.

Police testified he had been passing circulars announcing tomorrow's meeting in Grant street, without a permit. Inspector Albert Beebe ordered arrest of anyone passing such circulars.

4 LEAP, ESCAPE FIRE TRAP

Four members of the family of Joseph Mierziva, of Seavy road, Shaler Township, were forced to leap from a second-story window of their home when it was swept by fire early today. Two others, sleeping on the first floor, also escaped.

Mierziva, his wife and three children—Sophie, 9; Albert, 11, and Violet, 16—were awakened by smoke, and found their way cut off by flames when they attempted to flee down the stairway.

The father took the children and his wife by the hands and dropped them out of the window. He was the last to jump.

Two other daughters—Elizabeth, 18, and Anna, 19—were sleeping on the first floor.

Firemen from two Etna Companies, and one in Cherry City, fought the flames more than an hour, but were unable to save the house, situated on a hill and difficult to reach. Chief Alex Andrews, of Etna, estimated the loss at $6,500.

Overheated Furnace Blamed for Blaze

Damage estimated at $1,000 resulted from a fire last night in a two-story frame and stucco dwelling at 1412 Mellon street. The blaze, caused by an overheated furnace, broke out during the absence of the family of Albert Delessio, who occupied the first floor, and Miss Sarah Fisher, who lived on the second.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Princeton Play Here Jan. 2

Always a signal for hostesses to start planning dinners and suppers and tea dances is news of the date of the Princeton Triangle Club. This year the date is January 2, and the club will give its play in Syria Mosque.

The general chairman for the Pittsburgh appearance is M. S. Quay. And in charge of publicity is R. H. McCague.

Another interesting event of the Christmas holidays, particularly for the debutantes and other members of the younger set, will be the Yale Glee Club's annual concert to be given December 27 in the Twentieth Century Club.

Society folks can always be depended upon to patronize a benefit no matter how numerous their social duties, no matter how many concerts or notable actresses may come to town. Last night a brilliant audience, socially and sartorially, attended the performance Cornelia Otis Skinner gave in Carnegie Music Hall. Proceeds were for the University Maternity Dispensary.

Patronize Benefit

All summer we've been hearing tales of the monopoly black was to have of the mode, and last night I saw these rumors confirmed. Never have I seen so many black crepes and black velvets and black laces with an occasional brilliantly colored gown in the audience for accent.

Among the early arrivals was Mrs. William D. Hamilton, dignified in black velvet and sequins. Mrs. A. W. McKeldowney, wearing black lace and chiffon with a black velvet wrap with a black fox collar, was with Mrs. David L. Gillespie, who wore black lace and an exquisite wrap of orchid velvet, and Mrs. Gillespie's daughter, Miss Mabel Gillespie, who wore a wrap of gold lame with a lynx collar.

Mrs. W. J. Holland also chose a black costume. Her gown was of black satin, with the long skirt ending in a brief pointed train, and her wrap was of black velvet and ermine. Mrs. Henry Meyer, wearing a black velvet wrap with a fox collar, was with Mrs. Dudley Liggett, who also wore a black velvet wrap.

Black Dominant

A striking gown of black velvet with white lace at the decolletage was worn by Mrs. Samuel Harden Church. Her coat was of gold and black lame, with a collar of sable.

Mrs. Grant Dibert and her sister, Mrs. Stewart N. Pool, and Mrs. Mortimer Miller were there, too. Mrs. William Maclay Hall wore a black velvet gown, caught with a large chou of red velvet at one side. Her wrap was of the same shade of red velvet.

Others I noticed were Mrs. William Watson Smith and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Heinroth, and Mrs. James C. Rea, who wore a black lace gown.

The Richard Beatty Mellons were there, with their daughter, Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, who wore a black velvet wrap with a deep, pointed cape collar of ermine, and a black velvet gown. Mrs. Mellon wore black velvet and ermine.

As she was leaving the concert I caught sight of Mrs. Clinton Childs, wearing a gold lame wrap.

Dark Hues Prominent

Mrs. Howard Hale McClintic wore a black Russian carracul coat, and her daughter, Mrs. George H. Love, had a gown of deep purple, with the popular off-black suggestion, and a wrap of gold lame and rose velvet, richly furred. Mrs. Howard Hale McClintic, Jr., wore deep brown lace, and Mrs. Walter C. Carroll, there with her daughter, Florence, wore a metallic wrap and black velvet gown, and her daughter had a wrap of twilight blue velvet.

During intermission I saw Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland wearing a coral crepe gown, and Mrs. H. G. Carey Williams in a green and gold wrap and a black lace frock, and Mrs. Marjorie Gethoefer in a black crepe gown and a short black jacket. Mrs. William S. Masten chose daffodil satin and Mrs. Vaughan Horner, a black ensemble.

JANE REGNY PRESENTS LATEST MODE IN EVENING GARMENTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Straphangers have things all their own way this season. We mean, the strap-hanging frocks that are content to confide their all to two frail straps that begin in the region of the shoulder and terminate somewhere in the region of the waist. And so you see by virtue of this mode we are not likely to lose any back interest for as far as the decolletage is concerned, the wide open spaces continue to flourish and the suspender age seems to be with us once again. The princess line has been tampered with and the pleasingly softened effect that is a feature of so many frocks is obtained by the bodice being fitted to the figure with tiny tucks and gathers. We can be in the mold of form now without a severely molded bodice.

JANE REGNY has had an unusual success with her evening clothes this year, although her particular domain lies in the direction of the sports field. She is making some of her best models in both black and white as well as in the best evening colors and some of her clients are ordering one favorite frock in more than one hue. We are showing today two views in two hues of one of her most admired evening creations. Madame Regny makes it in crepe romain, an excellent compromise between the sheer and heavy fabrics, both of which are in demand. The back, as you may see, has a highly interesting strap effect that suggests somewhat the suspender arrangement used by this house for its smart sport clothes. The bodice is fitted to the figure by means of curving empiecements which dip in a graceful line behind. At the front they edge a shirred center panel which forms the top of the skirt. There is a group of fan-pleats which end in trailing points and are stitched throughout in the back.

Is Your Fortune Safe?

FORTUNES amassed after long struggle often melt away quickly.

Eagerness to build them faster or the inexperience and lack of ability of those who succeed to them usually bring disaster.

It is a familiar story in every community.

Wise business men and women today are making safety certain by creating living trusts for themselves and those they seek to protect.

They are appointing strong institutions like The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh as Executors and Trustees, confident that their estates will be conserved.

At the quarterly meeting of the Congress of Clubs yesterday a motion was adopted that a committee be appointed to procure information from the County Commissioners and City Council concerning the use of money granted in the last bond issue, with the suggestion that the unemployment question be considered in using any amount remaining. Reports from committees and department heads filled an interesting morning session and among the resolutions adopted was one upholding enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

A gift of a silver coffee urn, tray, candelabra and flat silver was accepted from Mrs. Sherman Massingham. Elsie Breese Mitchell, chairman of music, who led assembly singing, announced that the department will award two scholarships by competition this year.

In the afternoon Eda Schaffer Kreiling, contralto, was the soloist, and Nellie Risher Roberts her accompanist. The chief program feature was a fashion revue staged under the direction of Miss Adelaide C. Hunter, of Kaufmann's.

A splendid 'cello recital by Samuel Kliachko, with Therese Kroll Pergament at the piano, and an eloquent address by the Rev. Jonah B. Wise, of Central Synagogue, New York City, were the outstanding features of president's day as observed yesterday by the Rodef Shalom Sisterhood. Mrs. Saul Lavine, president, introduced the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, who presented Rabbi Wise.

The gist of the latter's talk, which was at times shot through with a most delightful humor and rich anecdote, was that Judaism is not a religion so much as it is a crystallization of an idea, and there is nothing more characteristically human than an idea, he said; the Jew colors life, whether he will or not, wherever he lives it, and the world needs to be colored by Israel's traditions and experience today, not by proselyting, but by making Judaism through the Jews more powerful and more cultural.

For Cascarets are made from cascara, which any doctor will tell you acts not only on the lower bowel but the upper one as well. And it actually strengthens the muscles of the bowels. So the quick, pleasant relief Cascarets bring when you're bilious, dizzy, headachy and constipated, is lasting relief! Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how that coated tongue clears up; how your breath is sweetened; eyes are brightened and your entire system is strengthened. 20 million boxes used yearly is proof of their popularity!

REVIEW OF NEW FILM, HOLLYWOOD CHAT AND GOSSIP OF GREAT WHITE WAY

Barthelmess May Make Picture Concerning Newspaper Life

By HARRISON CARROLL,

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.

Newspaper film stories have not fallen completely from grace, for one is being written at First National to submit to Richard Barthelmess.

Dick returns to Hollywood about November 24. By that time his wife, Jessica, will be entirely recovered from a recent appendicitis operation.

The star rides on the crest of a new popularity wave, following "The Dawn Patrol," over which Howard Hughes, producer of "Hell's Angels," sued First National. This picture also set Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., on a new pedestal.

As is usually the case in the movies, there was talk of following "The Dawn Patrol" with another Barthelmess air picture, but First National apparently has thought better of it. And it thereby wins the gratitude of this department. The savor of so many fine pictures has been ruined by subsequent imitations.

Hollywood's newest star, "Mickey Mouse," will be preserved for posterity in Madame Tussaud's wax-like figure museum in London.

Walt Disney, creator of the world's most famous rodent, has cabled permission to the museum to make figures both of Mickey and his sweetheart, Minnie.

Emperors, queens and dictators have agreed to be immortalized in the famous collection. The recognition of a fictitious character of the screen is due to the great popularity of "Mickey Mouse" cartoons in England. British exhibitors feature them on a par with the screen's best known stars.

When an unknown player lands a good part, Hollywood is apt to dismiss it as a "break," or something worse.

The case of Jane Keith shows that resourcefulness and a gambling spirit help a lot.

Some time back, Miss Keith was a stenographer at Paramount. She decided to try extra work, and finally won a bit in Marion Davies' "The Florodora Girl."

One day, at Fox, Al Santell saw her and was impressed. He told her he was looking for a girl to play the lead in "The Sea Wolf," and asked if she had a certain kind of suit that would have to be worn in the test.

"Yes," she replied, "I believe I have one just like that."

The next day she showed up and made the test. When it was almost through, Santell asked her to take off the coat. She protested that her blouse was not just the right kind, but he insisted.

Finally, she took off the coat, revealing that it was unfinished inside.

When Santell had talked to her the day before she had recognized a break, and had had a tailor work day and night to make the suit, which she did not have in her wardrobe.

She got the part and now she has a five-year contract.

Ann Harding and Harry Bannister are digging out part of their hill-top to put in a tennis court. Underneath will be a projection room. Humphrey Bogart, who played the young man in "Up the River," is able to essay a screen career, because his father, a well-known surgeon, performed an operation to remove a disfigurating shrapnel scar from his lip. The scar didn't show up on the stage, but the camera caught it. . . Bill Rasmussin, an old character man, makes his office on a fire-plug opposite the Paramount studio. When he is not working elsewhere, he always is to be found on the hydrant, ready in case of an unexpected call. As a result, Paramount frequently uses him. . . Eric von Stroheim is writing the talkie version of "Blind Husbands" at home. On the occasion of his recent trip to Vienna, Von Stroheim wore a false mustache and a wig to keep from being recognized. What a shock if he had taken them off and still hadn't been recognized.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

That Edward Van Every spellbinder, "Sins of New York," is grand . . . So that was what the old town was like 17 years before I was cradled? . . . I wouldn't have liked to have lived then . . . It is interesting reading and all that, but everything happened on 6th Avenue . . . Or on 14th Street . . . Or on the Bowery—the smelly Bowery . . . Hmmmm—no like . . . What! No Broadway? . . . No Tungsten Territory? . . . No George M. Cohans or 42nd Street ??? . . . And Sammy MacKeever managed to do a swell column for the Police Gazette with none of This? . . . Aw!!! . . . Samuel MacKeever, columnist extraordinary—dramatic critic, contributor to numerous magazines weekly, author of tomes, night-life reporter ace, and dead from teebee at 32! . . . Poor MacKeever dead when most fellers are in their prime . . . Wonder if he would have lingered longer if he also did microphoning? . . . Wonder if he ever wondered what he was going to write about tomorrow? . . . Wonder if he took it so seriously that he returned to his desk at dawn to do it, to make sure that it would be done? . . . 32! . . . It is better to be lukewarm than to boil over.

Well, that just goes to show you . . . When you are a Somebody like Vallee you must be careful . . . I've hurt him when I never meant to . . . Because of that line how we laughed about the "dopes" who took me seriously and him to heart . . . The "dopes" being mine, of course, and not Vallee's, but his invisible audience wouldn't understand that . . . "I wish you would say something about it," Rudy telephoned. "They are bombarding the broadcasting station officials with letters, some from admirers who say that the public can stand a lot, but it won't stand being ridiculed" . . . Well, I'm sorry . . . I'm sorry his sensitive and sappy admirers have pounced upon Rudy "for not standing by us after the way we have stood loyally by you when you were attacked by those fiendish newspaper writers" . . . It is too sad . . . Mencken understands the type better than any of us . . . The next time I see Rudy I shall ask him if he remembers his challenge to one

GOOFY GAL, LIGHTNER, IS ROWDY RIOT IN STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Winnie Lightner, goofiest gal in the pictures, is in the Stanley in her latest talkie, "The Life of the Party." Rowdy, but funny—that is the film. There's no sense to it. Yet, it is real comedy.

Winnie is a gold-digger again. Get your pick and shovel ready, she tells her girl friend, and away they go to Havana on quest of a couple nice millionaires.

They meet a big stable man direct from some asylum—at least, he must be. He munches peanuts, because he likes the noise of the breaking shells. He also offers something new in toupees—one that has a barren spot in the middle to create the illusion of baldness.

CHASE THE CATS

But even the horses are crazy in this movie Havana. There's one that gets hysterical every time it sees a black cat. So there is a movement under way to chase all the black cats out of town.

And Winnie! She is so sane as a comedienne that she is absolutely insane in her part. She trips up a man she thinks is the big soft drink king and drags him into her apartment. She rides in a big horse race and eats from a mantelpiece. And she spills the wise-cracks with every turn of the projecting machine.

A supporting cast, including Irene Del Roy and Jack Whiting, help out with the fun. And Charles Judels, as Monsieur Le Maire, mustn't be overlooked. His weakness is women and the smashing of furniture.

On the stage is Ed Lowry, with three songs and a show titled "Black and Silver Revue." Mr. Lowry's singing gets a big hand. But he should see himself from the third balcony as he goes through his song antics! The revue's lineup includes comedians, dancers and that sort of thing. Bernie Armstrong and David Broudy are on the bill.

Halloween Show For Club Mirador

A Halloween program has been arranged for tonight in the Club Mirador, Homestead night club. William Snyder continues as master of ceremonies. Isabel M. Stewart, professor of nursing education at Columbia University, and Dr. George M. Wright, psychiatrist at the St. Francis and Mercy hospitals, Pittsburgh, were the speakers.

Camille B. Pulpeer, director of nurses at the Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital, Pittsburgh, led a discussion on group nursing.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Chas. McClure, Inc.)

Midwest reporter—that the pen isn't as mighty as the voice over the mike . . . The pen, perhaps, but syndication?

It must be awful to be sitting on top of the world one minute and then find yourself in the provinces the next . . . Wonder how Jay feels about his resignation—now that it is too late? . . . Poor kid—he had been growling for months about Broadway irking him. . . . That his job of reviewing flickers was getting on his nerves. . . . That it bored him . . . That it was all a great big bother . . . They ribbed him the other night in front of a crowd of movie "names" . . . "You're always talking about how your job bores you," they prodded. "If you mean it, why don't you quit it?" . . . So he wrote a letter to the editor, resigning . . . A letter he tried to stop, they say, when the hooch died down and he was in his right mind . . . They say, too, that it is a legend—a myth—that he didn't do anything of the sort . . . That he was weary—that's all—and that they gave him a leave of absence . . . I hope so, but the other tale is probably no legend . . . He has sald it over and over—that he detested the job, which ten out of every ten men or women would beg for—sans a wage . . . You never miss Broadway until you discover that Broadway hasn't missed you . . . Yes, indeedy—the smell of the bread is sweet to everyone—but the baker.

We are told that Cupid would not rank among the gods if he could not perform miracles . . . Love is a terrible, terrible thing, though . . . But not as terrible as some of the "torch" songs written about it . . . Etting, however, would make Bobby Dolan's melody popular in a week . . . The one accompanied by Walter O'Keefe's punch-line: "Something away down deep in me died—maybe my love—maybe my pride" . . . What a hush there is when a "torchy" tune is sung in most Broadway places . . . So many of the spectators, of course, are intensely interested because sometime or other they have played the leading roles in scenes from which "torch" tunes are fashioned . . . We listen because we feel sorry for ourselves . . . The pleasure in love, Moore said, is in loving, not in being loved . . . And some other able thought that the desire of the man is for the woman, but the desire of the woman is for the desire of the man.

Amazing what a couple of hot towels in a barber's will do . . . At 11 last night when he shaved me I didn't have the power to pick up the paper . . . That's another feature about Broadway—banks that keep open till 10:30 and barbers till 12—anything to oblige loafers like me . . . 11 o'clock practically dead, and here it is morning and I'm not sorry . . . If I get out of here by 8:45 maybe I can catch Gloria before Mrs. Belmont takes her to school . . . She will look so alive! . . . The average length of life of civilized man has been estimated to be 33 years . . . Christ was 33! . . . Shelley died at 30 . . . Keats kicked off at 25, Lucan at 26, Poe in his 30's and Byron at 36 . . . Oh, yes, I almost forgot—Jack (of all tricks) Donahue at 38, and that adroit columnist, dramatic critic, book and magazine article writer, Samuel MacKeever of the Police Gazette—at 32.

When my childhen become 11 or 12 I will get them jobs as critics . . . And, of course, remind them that they never must explain their notices to actors . . . To explain, as the saying goes, is to be damned . . . When you write mean things for the papers you must never tell your victims when you meet them in night clubs that you didn't mean to hurt their feelings . . . Because that is what the world is too full of—people who never mean to hurt your feelings, but invariably do . . . It was too sad the other night observing a youthful reviewer trying to square himself with a player with whom he shouldn't have tried to square matters . . . The fun will commence later when the player advertises the critic's feeble fable . . . On the ground that we are commanded to forgive our enemies but nowhere our friends . . . The most vindictive enemies, of course, are those who were once the best of pals, which is what the critic and the player were . . . For the good of the craft, I hope the brick-thrower will take his ton of brick gracefully.

Paul writes a blind line: "Heard in a night club: What tab columnist will be knocked off in six months?" . . . Dozens of intimates inquire: "Is that meant for you?" . . . I like that . . . I like knowing whenever it is written that way—no names—just "tab columnist"—that the first tab columnist that comes to their minds is me . . . Well, I've worked hard for that form of reward, I deserve it . . . Of course Paul didn't say: "What Broadway columnist?"—just to give the numerous sports columnists a shudder, the sports columnists being the incorrigibles, at that . . . There are also radio columnists and editorial columnists on tabloids in New York, and I am afraid the whole lot of them do not exploit the night clubs so much as I do . . . I'm a press agent, that's what I am, by golly, and they're gonna shoot their best press agent? . . . Is Paul hearing things or seeing them . . . We Of the Underworld Never Talk! Boo!

WEBER, FIELDS AMONG BRILLIANT STARS IN RADIO SKY TONIGHT

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Weber and Fields, Winnie Lightner, Gene Austin, Billie Burke, Jessica Dragonette, Tad Jones make the radio calendar tonight read like a Broadway first night. For old times' sake, Weber and Fields turn "Mike and Meyer" for WJAS at 10 in the Kappel Radio Follies. Gene Austin does his first program with the Henkel Velveteers on WCAE and WJAS at 7:30 in a program direct from WTAM, Cleveland. Whether a woman should continue in a career after marriage is part of Billie Burke's talk for KDKA fans at 10. Excerpts from "Show Boat" are part of the tribute to Mrs. Flo Ziegfeld in this program.

Jessica Dragonette opens the Cities Service Concert, WCAE at 8, with Herbert's "Sweet Mystery of Life." Later in the program she does another favorite, Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The Nestle program, KDKA at 8, has Winnie Lightner, Tad Jones talks football for 10:30 listeners at WJAS and the RKO Hour celebrates the day of ghosts and goblins on WCAE at the same time.

DEAR MR. MARTIN:

Reading the Sunday Sun-Telegraph radio page I noticed an item mentioning Radio Station XFW. As you know it states that it is doubtful whether it can be picked up in this country or Canada. I have received programs from Station XEW several times in the past week. Last Monday, October 20, 1930, it came in as clear as a bell.

The announcer spoke of bullfights that the tourists will never forget, and of wine and beautiful women. I waited for about an hour for the announcer to give the program in English. The orchestra played a medley of songs of Stephen C. Foster, and the Maine Stein Song.

This broadcasting station is located in the Saint Regis Hotel, Mexico City.

Yours sincerely,

J. W. BONZER.

Thanx, Mr. Bonzer.

DO YOU KNOW—

THAT Glenn Riggs received more than 50 bouquets recently when he was sick for a week? He sent the flowers to hospitals and invalids.

THAT Herb McGee, WCAE, is a southpaw? He autographs photos with the flourish of a court secretary.

THAT the SOS signal was first used on January 23, 1909? By the S. S. Republic in crash with S. S. Florida.

THAT Sir Oliver Lodge was credited with the idea of "tuning" a radio receiver?

THAT Dick Bower, WCAE operator, made a big hit as stage manager at the Veterans' Hospital in Aspinwall last night? Cousin Lora, Ford Miller, Tampa, Virginia Harmon, Lawson Sisters and others entertained at the direction of Mrs. Goldsmith.

THAT Kay Kyser, the NBC dance' maestro playing daily over WCAE, prefers George Arliss to any other movie actor?

THAT radio signals travel 186,000 miles per second, or seven and one-half times around the earth in a second?

THAT ships are compelled to carry radio transmitters?

THAT Ted Husing, the sports announcer, flies around in a camel-hair coat said to be a special pattern? Also wears a peaked cap that reminds one of the man at the klaxon in early auto days.

It had to be good...

PHILCO leadership has not been attained by good fortune. It had to be good. Exceptional performance and exclusive features at a moderate cost have consistently developed the demand for Philco until it is today the fastest selling radio in America. First to develop Tone Control; first to perfect Automatic Volume Control; first to utilize Balanced Units and Screen Grid-Plus—Philco is now recognized as the Standard of radio quality.

only PHILCO radio combines ALL of these features . . .

PHILCO TONE CONTROL
NOW YOU can have your choice of four tone qualities—Brilliant, Bright, Mellow, Deep. Great artists of the air come to you YOUR way. It is the outstanding improvement in radio reception this fall.
A single knob on the front of the set offers you a new, fascinating way in which to regulate the tone quality to suit your taste.

BALANCED-UNITS
Philco engineering has achieved a perfect balancing of all units, which produces a pure, clear, undistorted tone, so lifelike it will amaze and delight you. Philco radio is absolutely free from all blur or hum. These balanced-units, which made Philco famous, are yours in every Philco cabinet model.

AUTOMATIC VOLUME Control
With all its power and distance and selectivity, Philco would be just another radio set if it were not for Automatic Volume Control. Power and distance are useless unless you can maintain reception at a constant level. Automatic Volume means that you can hold programs when you get them. No radio which lacks this feature can be called a "Super Set."

SCREEN GRID—PLUS
PHILCO'S Super Set is deliberately built to give greater performance than the average owner needs. In the big cities it separates crowded local stations so accurately that the listener can enjoy any program without cross-talk. And in cities without broadcasting stations it reaches out and makes enthralling programs available, often for the first time.

BABY GRAND CONSOLE

Overnight popularity greeted the Philco Baby Grand. Now this big-performing, full-fledged 7-tube Screen Grid Radio has been built into a new Handsome Cabinet of Walnut and Birdseye Maple, trimmed with African Zebra Wood. Such Value! The LOUDSPEAKER

Hands Across Sea. Shy at Prohibition. | McNamee Synthetic. Accordions' Day.

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Radio made its most breath-taking leap this week. It crossed 12,000 miles of international boundaries, quicker than you can say "Barnoff," and brought you the voices of the three chief naval powers.

Louis Reid.

No governmental subjects in the history of radio has had the airing that has been given to naval parity. Last winter, for four continuous months—it seemed like 14—it splashed against the loudspeaker from London. Words fell into the radio sea by the tens of thousands.

The pact has furnished the most spectacular chapter in the history of radio—a chapter that began last January with that ghastly daybreak rendezvouse with King George and ended last Monday with an ear-cupping to Premier Hamaguchi in Tokio.

Radio Still Shushes At Prohibition

The subject of prohibition, however, remains unsung, unhonored on the microphones. On everybody's lips from Gotham to the Golden Gate, it still meets the shushing, the speak-ever-so-easy of radio. Broadcasters shy from it as motorists shy from a powder wagon.

Returns Jay Halprin, of Staten Island, with pen still poised at McNamee:

"So you call it 'synthetic,' eh, when an announcer lets his imagination run riot at a sporting contest and gives a fiction account of the play?

"Then why not be consistent and speak of him as 'Ersatz' McNamee?"

Because "ersatz" signifies hundred per cent synthetic. McName'e excitement, it seems to me, becomes synthetic only when he senses that the armchairs are yawning. It's that broadcasting sense that has put him at the top of the announcing heap.

And right here seems as good a place as any for Julius Joffrey, of Mount Vernon, to talk out loud and pointedly at Mr. Roosevelt's managers:

"The Roosevelt-Lehman committee in charge of the broadcasting of the candidates' speeches, will probably take the tip from your column that their radio campaigning could be immeasurably improved if they would insist that local chairmen with an outworn stock of unfamiliar adjectives, be kept off the air on the condidates' time."

Accordions Come To Microphones

Radio, they say, is largely responsible for the revival of the accordion. Dance maestros are using the instrument more and more as a substitute for horns to give more volume to their harmony. Radio, however, cannot take all the credit. The Argentine bands of the Paris night clubs have played a big part in popularizing the accordion.

These bands are composed almost entirely of guitars and accordions, and, alternating with the customary jazz orchestra, they provide an effectively rhythmic contrast. The Argentine music-makers are now invading American cities, which means that they are invading radio.

The best accordinist we ever heard on or off the air, however, is not an Argentinian. As a manipulator of the instrument no one, in our opinion, is in the same class with Phil Baker. Strange the broadcasters do not hunt him down with a pen and a dotted line. They could with little effort make him a sort of Broadway Will Rogers.

Harlem's music rolls regularly out of the loudspeakers. Harlem's outstanding personalities—Bill Robinson, Miller and Lyles, Noble Sizzle, Rubie Blake, Ethel Waters, Deacon Johnson, Countee Cullen—to mention only a few—are seldom heard on the microphones. I wonder why. A rich field, practically atapped by the broadcasters!

Harlem, today, is more than merely an institution of American life. It is a nation in itself, a world spectacle, a never-ending lure to the curious and world-weary, a permanent exhibition of gaiety and variety and inexhaustible rhythm in the international midway plaisance.

Hurt by Fall Over Pipe, Seeks $10,000

A suit against the City of Pittsburgh, seeking to recover $10,000 damages, was filed in Common Pleas Court by Patience Berg, of the West End, who claimed she was seriously injured by tripping over a water pipe concealed by snow on an unpaved sidewalk on Ringgold street, near Steuben street, January 30.

The company also received an order for 8,000 tons of steel for a bridge across the Ohio River at Evansville, Ind.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

Gloucester is probably the oldest fishing village in America and it has a rich heritage in heroism, seamanship and ready-to-fry codfish.

As ancient as the town, the fishing trade for which it is famous has had to learn many tricks to survive the ways of modern business. It has had to take the route from fish fry to fish freeze. While the ice age may be some thousands of years away, the frozen food era is hard upon us. Not that the icing of fish hasn't been in practice for years, but an entirely new method of food freezing is now fast becoming a part of all the fishing business.

Milady need no longer worry about her fish course. Electric refrigeration retains all of the tasty virtues of the fish and removes only its wiggle, whereas the old icing methods really meant that you had to journey to the nearest coast if you wanted a really good fish dinner!

Now, if you concentrate on crab, the canned crab which hails from the icy waters of Japan is canned there in factories as modern and spotless as any in our own United States, and is sent swiftly across the ocean for distribution to millions of homes over here. You needn't do any particularly heavy worrying about the icing of fish at all! Canned crab is good any time.

I have some new and altogether delightful crabmeat recipes for you; you'll like them!

CRABMEAT CHOPS—Two cups canned crabmeat; 1 cup thick white sauce; 1 teaspoon chopped parsley; ½ teaspoon chopped onion; ½ teaspoon salt; cayenne pepper.

Make a thick white sauce, and mix it with the rest of the ingredients. Cook all together and cool. Make eight separate heaps of this and let stand an hour in the automatic refrigerator. Take each heap and form into a chop shape; dip in beaten egg, dredge in cracker dust and fry in deep, hot fat. Serve with hot tartar sauce if you like; but personally I demand tomato catsup with my crabmeat.

CREAMED CRABMEAT—Put into a chafing dish these ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter; ½ cup bread crumbs; 1 cup cream; ½ teaspoon dry mustard. When it boils, stir in a pint of the canned crabmeat 2 yolks, beaten, salt and cayenne pepper to taste. Serve very hot on toast.

Years ago when the country was young, wheat intended for porridge was simply crushed and cleaned. Then, of course, it required long slow cooking and was not at all convenient for those who did not keep a fire all day.

American women were eager for their families to have sufficient amount of whole wheat in their diets for they knew it was recognized as the most perfect solid food known to science. But they realized their time was too precious to spend long hours with one eye carefully glued to the slow-cooking porridge pot. Their demands caused manufacturers to partially cook at their mills the wheat which is to be served for the family breakfast.

Some cereals are roasted and toasted in the process of manufacture so that they are not only partially cooked, but are also filled with delicious toasty nutlike flavor that adds greatly to one's enjoyment of the food.

The roasting also makes it possible to keep in the cereal the embryo or heart of the wheat so seldom found in commercial products. This heart is necessary if we are to give our families all the goodness of the sun-ripened grain.

Moreover, a roasted wheat cereal, in addition to being more delicious and more nourishing, is also more easily digested. The action of dry heat in the roasting process changes a part of the starch to dextrin, thereby completing the first step of digestion even before the food is taken into the body. Served with orange juice and milk such porridge is a complete, well-balanced breakfast suitable for the entire family.

SCALLOPED SWEET POTATOES AND APPLES—Two cups boiled sweet potatoes cut in ¼ inch slices; ½ cup sugar; 1½ cups thinly sliced sour apples; 4 tablespoons butter; salt.

Put one-half the potatoes in buttered baking dish, cover with half the apples, sprinkle with half the sugar, dot over with half the butter and sprinkle with half the salt. Repeat. Bake in a moderate oven one hour.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES—Drain a can of tomatoes from part of their liquor. Season with

Necessary Elements Found in Vegetables

The cellulose in vegetables act as a 'regulator' for the human system. In addition, the minerals and vitamins found in vegetables are needed for one's well-being.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

Why do all doctors advise eating more and more vegetables? Regardless of what ails you, there will always be contained in the doctor's diet list, "eat plenty of vegetables."

The answer to this question is simple. In vegetables are contained all the necessary elements which aid the body in growth and repair.

All vegetables contain cellulose. This cellulose acts as roughage to the intestines after digestion. In this respect it has the effect of a laxative, hence a vegetable diet is strongly recommended to individuals suffering from constipation.

The body at all times requires certain minerals. Their source is mainly the food and water we drink. The red blood cells in the blood require a supply of iron. Phosphorus in certain quantities is necessary for the growth of the body. The bones that make up the frame work of the body require at all times a good supply of lime. This is particularly important in growing children.

Vegetables are the most important source of these minerals.

The greatest role played by vegetables is their abundant supply of the various vitamins. However, all vitamins necessary for growth and health are not contained in vegetables. It is for this reason that fresh fruits are also to be considered a vital part of the daily food.

Vegetables that are in season are the vegetables of choice. In addition to being cheaper, they are superior in quality. Where fresh vegetables cannot be obtained canned vegetables may be substituted.

Buy vegetables that are handled and displayed under clean and sanitary methods. Always wash vegetables before using them. If one has storage facilities certain vegetables may be bought in quantity.

Potatoes, onions and squash keep well if stored in a cool dry place. Never buy over-ripe tomatoes. If buying them in quantity it is always best to buy them underripe. They may be wrapped in paper and kept in a dark cool place. When needed they may be ripened by placing them in the light.

If you live in a hot dry climate do not buy vegetables in quantity. They do not keep well under such conditions and it is more advisable to make a daily trip to the market.

But wherever you live, I beg of you to eat plenty of vegetables. They are vital to your well being.

Annie Feels That She Must Give In to Goldie

CHAPTER XX.

Back in his cell, Chimp had both arms extended through the bars, waving them frantically at the seemingly sympathetic but bewildered and uncomprehending keeper.

Chimp's face was seamed with deep lines; his eyes were bulging, his hair was disheveled, and he was badly in need of a shave.

"Poor fella. Now, just be calm a few minutes; the boys are bringing your shoes now," the keeper admonished.

"That's what you've been tellin' me for years," screamed Chimp, tears running down his tough cheeks, "and, for the love of God, be human an' bring a guy a cigaret he can smoke."

A beggar errand-boy came up with a package of cigarets. Chimp tore them open, then threw them on the floor.

"Cuban!" he screamed. "Oh, my God!"

Still the keeper apologized.

"Here come your shoes," he said.

Chimp, unable to see down the corridor, quivered with excitement. But before the shoes arrived the two familiar detectives arrived to take him up the 42 steps of red hot, fine pointed steel needles.

The man with the shoes arrived simultaneously.

"For the saints' sakes," begged Chimp, weeping unrestrained, "gimme a break. Leave me just put them shoes on."

The two detectives conferred a moment.

"I guess we can wait, Old Timer," agreed one of them.

Breathing a deep sigh of relief, but weeping all the harder, Chimp sat on his bunk and started to put on his shoes.

"My God," he screamed, "they ain't my shoes. They're three sizes too small."

Chimp Squeals

The keeper started again to apologize profusely.

Chimp cut him off. He was blubbering like a baby.

"For the love of God," he implored, "tell the captain I'll tell him anything to get out o' here."

The detectives smiled. They helped carry the stocking-footed prisoner over the 42 steps. He appeared to be dangerously on the verge of collapse.

"He's ready, Cap," they told their superior.

But Chimp had regained a little, though not all, of his self-control.

"I won't rat—I won't squeal," he protested bitterly.

"Ah," agreed the Captain. "I can't blame you, but what I want to know now won't hurt a soul."

"What is it?" and Chimp flopped into a chair.

"All we want to know is where the Gorio mob is hanging out now—their new headquarters," replied the Captain.

Chimp hesitated a moment. He knew the mob was in the country and would be there for some time. To give away the new headquarters wouldn't mean anything—not to would mean more unendurable torture.

"All right, Cap," he said. "But my ol' mother'll turn over in her grave."

That was when he came through. A Gorio gangster, a squealer!"

Goldie took one of Annie's delicate hands in both of his hairy huge paws, as they sat together on the deep upholstered couch in front of the living room fireplace. Several logs were crackling merrily and the room was illuminated by the soft red glow of the burning wood

Gives Her Revolver

"You know, Annie," Goldie whispered huskily, "you are the only woman I have ever loved."

Annie appeared startled. Her limpid eyes turned quickly on Goldie and she gently withdrew her hand.

"I—I've heard that line before," she observed cynically, moving further from Goldie.

Goldie rested his elbows on his knees and his head sank into his hands. Annie leaned over and ran her hand through his massive black hair.

"I didn't mean to hurt your feelings," she said tenderly. "You certainly have been wonderful to me."

Goldie caught her hand and pressed it to his lips. She recoiled again.

"Ain't it about time you went along and met them other fellows?" she asked with a distinctly cool smile.

"I'm not goin', darling," and Goldie leaned over suddenly and kissed her. Annie sprang up and walked slowly away. She stood before the fire and looked at the burning logs.

Goldie reached in his pocket and drew out something. He arose and walked beside her.

"Don't be sore, Kid," he said, standing near her. "I can't help the way I feel—here's a little present for you."

He handed her the object and she listlessly took it.

"A gat?" she exclaimed, holding it at arm's length.

Goldie laughed, a forced, hollow laugh.

"A gat for a gal," he said.

Goldie's Hunch

He took the miniature gun from her, a golden object about half the size of an ordinary weapon. He broke open the chamber and showed her a small compartment with powder and a puff. The muzzle concealed a small lipstick and the handle a small mirror on the butt. This opened, too, the end working on little hinges, and inside was a perfume bottle. The little gun was carried by a small gold chain, with a ring on it.

"Gee, that pretty," Annie said softly. She sighed and walked back to the couch.

"Come on, Babes, let's eat," said Goldie. "I had the cook fix us up a regular supper before he left."

He took her by the arm and led her to the dining room. He switched on the light and then walked out into the kitchen. He served her himself—first the soup and then he brought a bucket of ice in which nestled a bottle of champagne.

"I used to be a waiter," he grinned. The cork came out with a pop and he poured the golden liquid into her gilt-rimmed glass, where small bubbles squirmed up through the stem.

He stood beside her when he had filled his goblet, and said:

"A toast, Babes—you know I got a hunch today that Goldie ain't goin' to be with you long. I ordered a forty-t'ousand-dollar gold coffin, with all the trimmin's—flowers and everything. Will you come to my funeral?"

"Don't go on that way, Goldie," begged Annie, sipping from her glass. "I—I like you too well to like that kind o' talk."

"But my hunches have always been right," insisted Goldie. "I'm a seventh son."

Pleads With Her

"Then stay clear o' town—you're safe out here," and Annie poked her soup spoon into the plate.

"But what've I got to live for?" said Goldie as he took his seat at the opposite end of the table. "I ain't got no family, no friends. Them guys only kowtow to me because I make 'em—because I've got somethin' on everyone of 'em. You know the racket. But if I had a real woman—like you, Babes," and Goldie narrowed his eyes as he peered down the table at Annie, "I'd have somethin' to live for."

"Goldie, don't go into town tonight," begged Annie, not daring to look at him, "not when you feel like that—"

"But I ain't got no reason to stay out here," insisted Goldie.

For a moment both were silent, then Annie looked up warily.

"Well, I'm out here," she said finally.

Without a word Goldie arose and, dragging his chair behind him, he walked around the table to where Annie sat. He put the chair down beside her and grabbed up the champagne bottle.

"Let's drink on that, Babe," he prefaced, huskily.

Polack Annie was not keen for alcohol. Once the Edgewater Kid had made her drink several shots of rye when she had a toothache, and she recalled the sensation—a certain pleasant feeling had stolen over her, she had felt a tingling of her nerves. Now she drank because she wanted to forget. She felt that the inevitable was upon her—that she would have to give in to Goldie. He had something on her, just as he had something on all of his mob.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Thinning out the long bob, so that the coil at the back will not be heavy and unmanageable, requires skill. Little dollies who snip out tresses with a straight-across cut here and there ruin their topknots for the time being. The proper procedure is a system of tapering.

Breathing exercises wash out the lungs, removing stale air from the lower lobes, but they are not as effective as active, muscular exercises. Callesthenics in the bedroom freshen one in the morning, but they don't cause the blood to pick up oxygen as happens when one walks briskly and breathes deeply.

Formula for hand lotion: Soak thirty grains of whole gum-tragacanth in seven ounces of rosewater for two days; add one-half ounce of glycerin and one-half ounce of rubbing alcohol. Marvelously healing for chapped skin.

Too much cannot be said in favor of stretching. Before getting up in the morning, the muscles should be tensed, arms thrown above the head and lengthened, legs pulled out, even toes stretched and fingers spread. When fatigue is present, stretching has a stimulating, vitalizing effect. Starts engines going again.

Fay King Counts Beard Among Bygones of Days Ne'er to Return

By FAY KING.

In spite of what any professor of whiskerology may say, I for one, do not believe beards will ever make a comeback.

In this automobile and airplane age, it is hard enough keeping the windshield clear without having a chin-vine blowing up into your eyes.

The beard belongs to the war mask era. Many a meek, mild man trained a fierce, hairy hedge to frighten his neighbors and hide his amiable face.

In the days when men wore ruffs and frills, the laundry bills for cleaning them must have been considerable. A nice long beard was an economy, indeed, especially in circles where tying one's napkin around the neck was beginning to be a social error.

Beards are more extinguishing than distinguishing!

Love's Reawakening

Continuation Of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Urges Marion to Get Mother's Permission

There was such unconscious misery in Marion's voice as she put her query to me concerning her mother's possible anger that all rancor against the child for coming to the city without her mother's knowledge left me. But for the moment it was impossible to answer her. Carolyn's voluble lamentations left no room for any other speech.

"Oh, Pats!" she said, and I jerked to attention at the name, evidently the one by which, in schoolgirl fashion, Marion was known to her mates. That Carolyn had a similar cognomen I guessed, but also surmised that Marion had not used it, in deference to what she no doubt considered my stilted ideas.

"Oh, Pats!" Carolyn wailed again, still in her soft little voice, "you can't mean your mother wouldn't let you come tonight! Oh, I can't imagine anything more deadly. I simply shall die if you aren't there with me. And can you imagine Ron? Poor boy! He'll be sunk without even a belt washed up to show where he went down! Say it ain't so, Pats! Say it ain't so!"

She finished her burlesqued quotation with a deep sigh which appeared to come from her toes, while her worried little face reflected the misery in Marion's.

"Perhaps," Mr. Owen put in softly, "perhaps, Carolyn, if we were to go to see Mrs. Underwood and plead our cause——"

"No," I said explosively, for I knew that if Lillian's consent to the evening's expedition was to be gained she must have no sight of Charles Owen beforehand. Then, with a flush, I explained.

"Mrs. Underwood is not very well," I said. "Oh, nothing serious!" as Marion started forward with an exclamation. "But she is exceedingly nervous, and any trifle may upset her. She will be disturbed enough over Marion's leaving school without her knowledge. I cannot risk her seeing anyone else. I think, therefore, it would be wisest for Marion to come to the hotel with me now, and then we can telephone you later how matters stand."

"As you wish," Mr. Owen said suavely. "But let me propose an amendment to that. My car is outside with the luggage of the young ladies. We have only been in the city for a couple of hours—just long enough for luncheon and the beginning of a last minute shopping tour. Let me run you up to the hotel and then Carolyn and I can come back and finish our shopping. We will be back at Helena's new apartment in plenty of time for your telephone."

"You know very little of New York shops at Christmas time," I said with apparent lightness, although I was actually shivering at the idea of accepting any courtesy from Charles Owen, "or you would realize how altogether Quixotic and unnecessary your offer is. If you will just take us to the car and help transfer Marion's luggage to a taxi we won't need to trouble you further. And please let me thank you for her mother for taking care of her."

My glance met his keen one steadily, and I saw that he recognized my challenge. I wanted to shout at him that I was strictly "on guard" where Marion was concerned, but I think he got my meaning as effectually as if I actually had spoken the warning.

"I yield to your wish, of course," he said with elaborate courtesy, "but please believe it is under protest. But if you won't reconsider, please come this way."

He led the way to the elevator and out of the store to a point half way down the block, where his car was parked. Before e reached it I had signaled a taxi, and the business of transferring Marion's luggage was quickly over. The last thing we saw as we drove away was Carolyn's disconsolate little face looking after us.

"I shall be dancing on darning needles until I hear, Pats," she had said just before turning away from the taxi door, "so telephone me the second you know."

"I will," Marion promised in an equally doleful voice, and as soon as we had left the street I picked up her hand, lying inertly in her lap, and pressed it warmly.

"If it is humanly possible, Marion," I said, "you shall go to that dinner tonight. I'll do everything in my power to compass it."

"Oh, Auntie Madge!" she caroled joyfully, but prudence compelled me to temper her optimism a bit.

"But remember, I can't promise definitely until I see your mother," I hedged. "I'm afraid she's going to be terribly hurt. Suppose you tell me now just how you came to leave school without letting her know."

Her voice was low and abashed as she answered. But there was an honest ring in it which heartened me.

"I didn't think, honestly, Auntie Madge," she said. "And then—Mr. Owen said—but—I ought to have known better than to listen to what anybody said. I'm the only one who is to blame."

"We'll discuss that later," I said encouragingly. "But I want you to tell me now what Mr. Owen said."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Married Friends or Enemies?

The quantity of love it takes to make a happy marriage depends a lot on its quality, still more on the kind of person you are, and most on the kind of person you elect to marry.

It requires an inordinate amount of blind infatuation to live with a temperamentalist, an egotist or a human firecracker.

Yet some men have been martyrs for years to the tantrums and caprices of a highly-strung, self-centered woman and still continued to be "in love" with her.

And some women have been slaves to a human crab, a faithless Don Juan or a gay Bacchanalian with — chronic thirst, and continued down to the grave to prefer their chains to freedom or a peaceful life with any other man.

It takes a lot of patience and affection to live with any human being. But these self-elected martyrs are so fascinated and enthralled by the author of their sorrows that they would be infinitely more miserable away from him or her than they are on their chosen bed of thorns.

On the other hand, if you are lucky enough to be married to a good-tempered, congenial, generous-hearted man, or to a serene, sweet-natured, understanding woman, you can get along quite happily with very little of that physical infatuation or psychological passion called "love."

There are married friends, married enemies and married strangers, but very few married lovers, in the erotic sense of the word. When the glamor and novelty have worn off there remains either an abiding tenderness and comradeship or an everlasting misunderstanding.

Married friends are the happiest people in the world, because they know each other's ways, are generous to each other's faults and sympathize with each other's moods and troubles.

They enjoy the same pastimes in the same way and are working together for the same aims and ambitions. They need no transports of adoration, no grande passion to hold them together.

They love each other tenderly and sanely, but not blindly—and LIKE each other with their eyes wide open.

On the other hand, it takes a magnificent infatuation on one side or the other for "married enemies" to go on living together. You've got to make an idol of a man or a woman to be able to go right on worshipping him or her after the morning scrap, the evening row and the Saturday night battle.

Yet "married strangers" have often managed to pull through the years quite amicably on the strength of a woman's love for a man's pocketbook or a man's love of a comfortable home.

It all depends on what you mean by "LOVE." With love, as with perfume, the finer the quality the less you need.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, November 1

The planetary configurations dominant on this day point to very interesting and propitious developments. Employment is under excellent prospects for advancement, preferment or favors. Steadiness and hard work are also in line for recognition, although there may be need for unobstrusive or undercover methods of accomplishing the ends desired. Some wariness against intrigue or treachery is enjoined. Change is probable. Personal affiliations may not be harmonious or flourishing. Overactive sociability may prove hampering.

Those whose birthday it is are under a splendid augury for success and advancement, during the year. They should push for promotion or favors, although being on guard against some secret or underhand menace if making arrangements through connivance or expediency, which may be advisable. Personal activities may have an element of frustration through frivolity or overindulgence.

A child born on this day may be jolly, lively and pfonc to social and personal indulgences which may react on its success in some measure. However, there is sight of promotion and honors in employment and gain through hard work as well as through stratagem.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Presenting the Bride in Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is the bride's father supposed to give the bride away at an informal church wedding? The wedding is to take place this month. M. K.

It is the usual custom for the bride's father to present his daughter in marriage, and the fact that the wedding is formal or informal does not make any difference. However, if the bride wishes to omit this part of the ceremony, and if it is not required by the denomination to which she belongs or in whose church she is to be married, she may do so.

Presenting a Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please help me settle a question. I work with twelve ladies. We were invited to dinner to the home of one of the ladies who has a very sick husband. As we wished to give him a gift, it was bought by me and I sent it. Most of the ladies think I did wrong and that we should have taken it. Which was corect?

A Reader.

It was quite correct for you to send the gift. As a matter of fact, I think that it was a bit more graceful to have the gift sent than to take it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Use Care in Adopting Exercise.

Not long ago it was my pleasure to be a spectator at one of the intercollegiate boat races. At the close of the race my joy changed to a feeling of concern and anxiety for the rowers. The splendid athletes, trained to perfection and who, undoubtedly, were the very symbol of perfect health, appeared utterly exhausted. In fact, it was necessary to revive three of them with water. Rowing is without doubt the most severe of all sports and severely taxed the heart.

Mothers often ask me whether it is safe for a child to play baseball, or to run on the school track team. I always answer that if the child's heart is perfectly normal, he should be allowed to indulge in such sports. Good sense must be used, of course, and indulgence must not be to excess. In this age of competitive sports carelessness often leads to serious damage. But such damage is unnecessary.

Young boys and girls should be examined as to the ability and strength of their hearts before they are allowed to compete in any strenuous sports. The preliminary test should not be the end of the examinations. Repeated tests, particularly after athletic games, should be made to see how well they stand the exertion. Upon the first sign of actual strain of the heart, the amount of exercise should be diminished and, where necessary, entirely eliminated.

In persons who have been trained to increase their athletic activities gradually, the heart stands the strain. Under these conditions no harm results. Much harm is done to the heart in individuals who assume with great suddenness the life and activities of an athlete.

If you are desirous of doing athletic work first make sure that your heart is capable of doing the excessive work that such exercise demands. Secondly, increase the amount of exercise slowly and gradually. This is important in adults and particularly important in children.

The competitive athletic fever in grammar school, high school and college is great. In the desire to win, all too often the individual is forgotten.

The most frequent advice given by physicians to elderly people is to get into the open and to take exercise. This is particularly true as regards the business man, who has either retired from his business or whose business no longer requires all his time. Such sports as mountain climbing, hiking, rowing, golf or tennis are often advised. Before undertaking any of these sports any man beyond the age of 40 should have a careful examination made as to the condition of his heart, blood pressure and kidney function.

You may have a perfectly normal heart according to all the tests and yet not be in condition for suddenly adopted exercise of moderate severity. There must be preparation by gradual increase of activity.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. J. P. T. Q.—What are the symptoms of high blood pressure?

A.—Pain and general disturbance in the head. Dizziness and flushing of the face are among the symptoms.

Mrs. J. A. F. Q.—What causes a person to grit their teeth while sleeping?

A.—May be due to worms, nervousness or some intestinal disturbance.

A. O. N. Q.—What will strengten very weak wrists?

A.—Massage and exercise should prove helpful. It would be rather difficult to make suggestions along these lines without knowing just what condition exists.

Buying Will Put Me Back to Work . . . .

We believe we have the solution of the present economic depre People everywhere have been urged to buy, but either fear of rele the money they have or lack of employment has been too gre restraining influence.

Billions of dollars that should be in circulation are being pile in one way or another. In spite of the apparent unemployment, of the people of Pittsburgh are working every day and earning m Collectively, the payrolls of the city represent a fabulous sum, what is true of Pittsburgh is true of the entire nation. What is requi then, is that the public make a start somewhere in their buying. minute any one store, or one industry, or one city, gets busy, factor will resume operations and re-employ their people. Our plan, there fore, is as follows:

Placing Our Resources Back of You . . . . . .

We want the public of Pittsburgh to set the nation an example. Ma Stern & Co. likewise want to set other stores an example. We offer t people of the city of Pittsburgh an opportunity to come in and buy a the furniture they possibly can, everything they can use at the prese time or plan to use within the next several months, and GIVE N THOUGHT TO THE MONEY. We will finance them. We place all our resources back of this gigantic plan to start distributing mercha dise so that plants can resume manufacturing.

Whatever is purchased can be paid for some time in the future wh fear no longer strangles commerce and when unemployment h reached its lowest level.

To be a bit more specific, we invite every Pittsburgher to make the purchases now and arrange with us to start paying for them only wh they earn the money.

Pittsburgh Sets an Example

The theory is this: If May-Stern & Co. win a ready response to thi announcement, we will give employment to more people—more sale men, more office help, more cabinet makers, more finishers, more set up men, more stock men, more truck drivers, etc., etc.—then othe stores will follow suit, and if all Pittsburgh stores combine in this grea effort and likewise place their resources at the disposal of the buying public for this purpose, Pittsburgh will be a busy town.

Other cities will follow our example, and one by one factories wil start to work and thousands by thousands of men will begin to earn and then they will buy furniture, stoves, wearing apparel, shoes— in fact, everything in normal quantities—and, perhaps, like magic the whole country will rise out of the depression into which it has fallen.

Let's Start Tomorrow

This is a great nation that will not long endure a depression that is purely based on fear. We have faith in Pittsburgh. It is one of the greatest cities in America and it is no more than right that the ignition spark that will set the wheels of the country humming should be ignited by this dynamic city.

ANCE FOR PANTHER-PLAID DOUBLE WIN

HOUGH THE DOPE indicates that both Carnegie Tech Pitt are facing hard fights, there is reasonable ground for e that the football returns tomorrow will show a double for the local teams. The Skibos, at least, appear likely to prove superior to New York U. in the home game at the Stadium, and the Panthers have a good fighting chance to follow up the setback at Notre Dame's hands with a rally that will enable them to take the decision over the Nebraska Giants in Lincoln.

Jerry Nemecek

After the let down game against Western Reserve last Saturday, conditions look to be about right for the Tartans to swing into a stride that will bear out the early indications of their being entitled to a ranking among the most powerful elevens of the year in the East. At that it is by no means an easy job that confronts them in the tilt with Captain Jerry Nemecek and his mates. Though not equal to the extraordinary team Were two years ago, which had such standouts as Strong, ee and Lassman, the New Yorkers have an outfit of the ank that will not be turned back without a struggle.

DENCE OF THIS is to be seen in the fact that in the first es of the season the Violet defeated Hobart, 35 to 6, West Wesleyan, 41 to 6, Villanova, 20 to 6, and Missouri, 38 to 0. last Saturday's defeat, which resulted from an unfortunate uick Meehan's gridders were impressive in holding Fordham -0 score. Fordham is rated one of the season's greats and y big Eastern team that has not been scored on.

ver, the Steffenites look equal to the tough contract they to tackle. The decisive defeat they suffered in South Bend ilered the opinion that the Scots this year have one of the ms in their history, and if they are back in their form of the Tech game they ought to win convincingly. The Skibos have captured only one game out of four with the Violet. New York won 6 to 0 in 1926, 20 to 0 in 1927, and 27 to 13 in 1928, while the locals registered their only victory last year in Gotham, 20 to 0.

NO PITT TEAM coached by Jock Sutherland has ever lost a game to Nebraska. The Cornhuskers' lone victory over the Panthers, 10 to 0, was scored against a Warner eleven at Forbes Field back in 1921, when Swanson made his memorable run. In three games played since, the Panthers won here in 1927, 21 to 13, got a scoreless tie in Lincoln in 1928, and won 12 to 7 in Lincoln in 1929.

With Jimmy Clark developed into a dependable fullback, Warren Heller and Paul Reider improving from game to game, most of the cripples recovering, and a helpful planned that will take Jim MacMurdo from end and put him again at tackle, e of the early substitutions, the ers look good enough to hang up er victory in this year's game.

Jimmy Clark

TRADITION WILL FAVOR the anthers from another angle in the Lin- in tussle. For if beaten it would be eir second defeat in succession, and losing two games in a row is something that Pitt hasn't been doing for a long, long time. Such a thing has not happened at any time during the last 64 games, to be exact. The Panthers lost 11 of those 64 games, while winning 48 and tying five, but no two of their defeats were suffered consecutively. They have not dropped two games in succession since midseason in 1923, Pop Warner's final season here as coach.

DURING THAT SKIDDING spell seven years ago, the Pittites lost three straight before they succeeded in stopping the slide. On October 20, they were beaten by Syracuse through the medium of a field goal, 3 to 0; on October 27, they were defeated by Carnegie Tech for the first time in ten meetings, 7 to 2, and on November 3 they dropped the only game they ever lost to Penn, 6 to 0.

At no time since that year has a Panther defeat been followed by another. It has never happened during the Sutherland regime. No Pitt team coached by Jock has ever been defeated twice in succession. During his first year here, 1924, his charges lost three games, while in 1926 and again in 1928 they were beaten twice, but always the Panthers managed to win one or more contests between defeats.

IT IS DOUBTFUL if any similar area elsewhere in the country had as many baseball products filling managerial roles in various leagues this year, or with an equal measure of pennant success, as Pittsburgh and environs.

Leo Mackey

Apart from Bill McKechnie, of Wilkinsburg, who headed the Boston Nationals, no fewer than seven men who are natives of this district, or grew up in the game around here, served as managers during the 1930 season. They were scattered over six different leagues.

MARTY BERGHAMMER managed Milwaukee in the American Association. Leo Mackey piloted Chambersburg in the Blue Ridge League. Wilbur Good directed Johnstown in the Middle-Atlantic League. Jake Pitler steered Elmira in the New York-Pennsylvania League. Ray Kennedy bossed Pensacola in the Southeastern League. Joe Scheppner led Greenville in the South Atlantic Association, and George Spiers was in the driver's seat at Asheville in the same circuit. Three of the seven were pennant winners, Mackey, Good and Scheppner all leading their clubs to the championship of their respective leagues. Quite a record for this region in results as well as in managerial representation.

THE REPORT THAT Atlanta promoters have offered Jack Sharkey a guarantee of $50,000 for a bout with Young Stribling in January is denied by Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager. He says no proposal of the sort has been received, and accuses the Striblings of having started the rumor as a bid for publicity at the sailor's expense, feeling that Willie needed some new advertising to build up his drawing power after the cancellation of his scheduled match with K. O. Christner in Newark.

"The reason for that bout's being called off on the last day was not an injury to Christner, as given out, but the fact that there had been an advance sale of only $200," declares Buckley. "We have been trying to smoke out Stribling for a match, but neither Willie nor his father wants any part of Sharkey. They showed that by refusing a flat guarantee of $50,000 for a fight in New York. That offer still stands. Sharkey will agree right now to fight Stribling in New York for the coal fund on December 8. Stribling will get $50,000 for the bout, and that's better than this bunk about a fight in Atlanta. Besides, Stribling would be doing something for a worthy charitable cause."

SOME OTHER FOOTBALL teams may embrace more nationalities than Fordham's, but Frank Cavanaugh's eleven is a standout

Cubs to Extend Training Season

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby and his Chicago bs plan to extend their spring ining season, leaving for Catalina Island, Cal., February 12, or week earlier than a year ago. A long schedule of exhibition games will be planned, Manager Hornsby said as he established his winter headquarters here.

RIDES THREE WINNERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Danny McAuliffe hasn't been setting the world afire this year with brilliant exhibitions of horsemanship on American tracks, but yesterday the veteran little jockey was at his best as he rode three winners past the judges' stand at Latonia.

BELLEFIELDERS MUST WIN TO STAY IN RACE

Coach O. H. Burton's Westinghouse High School eleven entertains Coach Walter Gross' Schenley eleven in the feature battle on today's scholastic football schedule. Both teams are in the race for the city championship, which is no surprise, inasmuch as they have been sharing the honors for the past seven years.

The two elevens have been pointing for this contest for more than a week and will take to the field in the best of condition. The Bellefielders must win today to remain in the running for the title as one defeat already is charged against them. In the other Section I contest, Fifth Avenue appears on the Allderdice gridiron.

PERRY AT OLIVER

In the third City League game today, Perry appears at Oliver. One non-league fray is listed for City League members, Langley playing at Crafton.

The night battle between Swissvale and Scott at North Braddock tops the schedule outside of the city. These two teams have been rivals for years and they seldom fail to play their best ball when opposed to each other.

Other good games in the section find California at Charleroi, McKees Rocks at Dormont, Freeport at Kittanning, Mt. Lebanon at Carnegie, Karns City at Evans City, Edgewood at Oakmont, Etna at Stowe, Waynesburg at German Township, East Pike Run at Masontown, Erie at Ford City, Farrell at Grove City and Strong Vincent at Westfield.

Arnold Prep School meets Columbus (O.) Day School at home tomorrow, while Shady Side Academy also entertains an outside team in University School, of Cleveland.

An important Western Pennsylvania contest brings together Johnstown and Altoona at Altoona tomorrow. Other leading Saturday games are: Peabody at Wilkinsburg, South at Ambridge, Greensburg at Clairton (last year's W. P. I. A. L. champion), Beaver Falls at Butler, Braddock at Norwin, Aliquippa at Jeannette, Rochester at New Castle, and Turtle Creek Union at Washington.

The Kiski Prep team stages its annual homecoming game at Saltsburg, with the University of Pennsylvania freshmen furnishing the opposition.

The Shady Side Academy eleven, under the coaching of Jimmy Robertson, will be fighting for the Cleminshaw Trophy, emblematic of the Tri-State Prep League championship, when it battles University School of Cleveland here tomorrow.

PLAY TO 6-6 TIE

Carrick and Allegheny High schools played to a 6-6 deadlock in their City League battle yesterday on the Oliver High Field, the South Hills eleven halting a stiff aerial attack by the North Siders.

Allegheny scored first in the opening quarter when Len Phillips received a forward pass and stepped over the goal for the North Siders' lone touchdown. The try for extra point, a line plunge, failed.

After Carrick had worked the ball to within scoring distance in third period, Hahn carried the ball around end for a nine-yard run and a touchdown. A pass failed in the try-for-extra point play. The lineup:

Carrick—6.		Allegheny—6.
Hirt	L.E.	Korch
Petrenes	L.T.	Gibson
Carapellucci	L.G.	Folmer
Vershaven	C.	Riley
Linhart	R.G.	Korvawes

Kelly	R.E.	Hirsa
Lewis	Q.	(C) Flemming
Sieman	L.H.	Leonard
Weber (C)	R.H.	Phillips
M. Hahn	F.	Vaughan
Carrick	0 6 0 0—6
Allegheny	6 0 0 0—6

Substitutions—Carrick: Chandola for Hirt, Fassinger for Sieman, Kelly for Chandola, E. Hahn for Weber, Wilson for Hahn, J. Lewis for Linhart, Metz for Hirt, Burg for J. Lewis; Allegheny—Murphy for Leonard, Napier for Folmer. Touchdowns—Phillips, Hahn.

Altrock and Schacht Partnership Ended

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Two famous comedians of the baseball diamond, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, are reported to have quarreled and broken up the famous combination which inspired many a laugh for baseball fans, according to rumors prevalent today.

"It is just a case of professional jealousy," said Earl Mack, coach of the American and National League baseball stars now on tour.

Altrock said he would not take part in several one-reel motion pictures which were being planned for the pair. He said he was going home, while Schacht declared he would remain and do singles for the movies.

Sharkey Offered Stribling Bout

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Matchmaker Nate Lewis, of the Chicago Stadium, yesterday wired an offer of $60,000 to Jack Sharkey, of Boston, for a bout with W. L. (Young) Stribling on January 8. Lewis said Stribling already has accepted terms for the bout.

Believe It Or Not By RIPLEY

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Robert L. Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE FAMOUS FORGER—Prices paid for rare signatures have tempted many swindlers and the operations of the famous Spring are very notable. Spring, who died in 1876, had been so busy forging the names of Revolutionary patriots and Confederate leaders during his lifetime that he seldom wrote his own name. Today his autograph is a more valuable collector's item than the autographs from which his forgeries were made.

TOMORROW—THE PITCH LAKE.

PITT READY FOR 'HUSKERS

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 31.—It is in the book that Nebraska, out of four attempts, has defeated Pitt in football only once. The Huskers have taken one victory, lost two decisions and tied one. Tomorrow, at Lincoln, where visiting elevens hesitate to arrive until the day of the ball game, due principally to the antics of Nebraska rooters and enthusiasts the night before the game, the Panthers and Huskers will clash for their fifth meeting.

Pitt's cohorts arrived in this town at a very early hour this morning, coming over here from Chicago, where they spent yesterday. The club indulged in a very thorough workout on Stagg Field yesterday, and then, boarded a C., B. & Q. train at six bells, traveling all night and detraining here this morning full of pep and vinegar and hungry as a flock of bears.

THIRD INVASION

This year's invasion of Nebraska is the third in a row for Pitt. Next fall the Huskers come to Pittsburgh to meet the home club Thanksgiving Day, taking the place of the Penn State Lions, who for years and years have shown off before Turkey Day crowds, first at Forbes Field and, in recent years, in the Pitt Stadium.

The Panthers are being touted hereabouts as 10-to-7 favorites to take the Huskers this year. The defeat suffered last week by Pitt at the hands of Notre Dame has failed to dim interest in tomorrow's game, and the contest will be staged before a sell-out crowd. The pugnacious snoot of the Panther still is a bit tender following the wallop the Irish hung on it last week, but the morale of the ball club is fine, if one may judge from the pep displayed in yesterday's drill in Chi and the noise and wise-cracking in the washrooms in the Pullmans this morning.

It finally got so bad that Rip Collins wound up brushing my

F. & M. PLAYS GENEVA

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 31.—Franklin and Marshall College is going to try tonight to do what no other football team has done this year—to beat Geneva on the latter's home field. Four times the locals have been victorious in Reeves Stadium and each time over a worthy foe.

The Lancaster school's backfield worked very well in a snappy signal drill last night, evincing that degree of balance which marks only an experienced quartet of ball toters. Saltzman and Britton are hefty boys about whom most of their team's plays are centered.

Coach Howard Harpster's starting lineup will be the same that defeated Grove City last week. On paper the Covenanters appear a mite stronger than their opponents.

It will be the first time F. & M. has played in Western Pennsylvania since its game with Carnegie Tech 21 years ago. Franklin and Marshall alumni will be on hand to root for the Blue and White. The probable lineup:

Geneva.		F. & M.

A. A. U. BANS FIGHT CLUBS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—Official announcement has been made here by Dr. H. A. Heise, Fayette County commissioner of the A. M. A., A. A. U., that licenses of all amateur clubs in Fayette County will be revoked. This order becomes effective immediately with all boxing shows now scheduled to be abandoned. No resumption of amateur boxing will be permitted in Fayette County until responsible parties have assumed control of the various clubs and have signed agreements to adhere strictly to amateur rules as they pertain to boxing.

Charges of professionalism have been made against many boxers and many of the clubs, and the blanket order came as a general housecleaning. Eight amateur boxers already have been suspended in Fayette County for accepting money for their services.

Boxers Injured, One Fatally, in Bouts

OMAHA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—One boxer was injured fatally and another suffered a concussion of the brain during two separate bouts on an Omaha club fight program last night.

Sammy Dissalvo, Council Bluffs, Ia., middleweight, died today from the effects of a solar plexus blow delivered by Chuck Patterson, of Wisner, Neb.

The other victi mwas Joe Parizek, of Crete, Neb. He was knocked out by Louis Dunkak, Nebraska freshman football star, and was carried from the ring with a brain concussion.

N. Y. U. PRIMES FOR BATTLE WITH TECH

The New York University Violets are here for their battle with Carnegie Tech at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Arriving over the Pennsylvania Railroad before daybreak, the players were routed out of their berths shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, and after breakfast in a downtown hotel, were taken to the Chartiers Heights Country Club, where they will make their headquarters tonight. They came into town early this afternoon for a workout in the Stadium and returned immediately to the country club for the night's rest.

General headquarters for the N. Y. U. delegation, as two years ago, are at Webster Hall, near the Stadium.

Forty-two players, Head Coach John F. (Chick) Meehan, three assistant coaches, three trainers and seven student managers were in the Violet's party when it hit Pittsburgh. This is the only game of the season the Violets will play away from home and virtually the entire football organization has been brought to Pittsburgh. Graduate Manager Al Nixon arrived yesterday and went into a huddle with Graduate Manager Clarence Overend, of Tech, on last-minute plans for the game.

LOCALS ON SQUAD

Three of the New York University players are Pittsburgh district lads, Joe and Herman LaMark, backs, from Coraopolis, and Ernie Vavra, tackle, from Universal. All are likely to get into action in tomorrow's game. The complete list of N. Y. U. players here for the game follows:

Ends—Capt. Jerry Nemecek, Charles Marshall, William J. Duss and Joseph J. Higgins.

Linemen — Ernest Concannon, Meyer Firstenberg, Richard Murphy, Thomas Arnowitz, Harry Decker, Jackson Diamond, Franklyn Learned, James Lynch, Ernest W. Vavra, Herman Kahloff, George Chalmers, Ross Grant, Hugh M. Greenblatt, Jack Bassman, Sidney Bechtil, Harold Freedman, Harry Schneider, Murray Arenstein, Louis Klotz and Martin McNamara.

Backs—Albert Gandel, Sanford Roland, Edward Bella, Sol Beres, Vincent Ciavarelli, Victor Connor, Herman LaMark, Sherman Marger, Paul McNamara, Maurice Rogers, James Cerbone, Joseph LaMark, John S. MacDonald, Robert McNamara, William McNamara, Patrick Ryan, James Tanguay and Morris Raymen.

Special cars bearing the New York rooters will arrive tomorrow morning.

N. Y. U. DETERMINED

The New York players were a grim and determined bunch when they arrived today. The hard-luck defeat at the hands of Fordham last Saturday still rankles in their breasts, and they are determined to get back into the race for the eastern championship tomorrow, and also to obtain revenge for the 20-0 setback that the Tartans handed them before a huge crowd at the Yankee Stadium Thanksgiving Day.

Meehan reported every one of his regulars ready for the stiffest kind of action. His sophomore

SCHMELING WILL DEFEND TITLE IN U. S.

MAX TO FIGHT IN MILK FUND BOUT

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion, has decided he will defend his title in the United States in 1931 for the benefit of the New York milk fund.

It was the milk fund, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman, which sponsored the bout in which Max was fouled into the title by Jack Sharkey.

Schmeling approved the stand taken by his American manager, Joe Jacobs, who has just arrived in Berlin. In stating that he will fight only under the auspices of the milk fund, and in refusing to extend the option on his services held by the Madison Square Garden Corporation, Schmeling declared:

"I will fight wherever the milk fund stages the championship bout. If the Madison Square Garden people make it impossible to defend my title in New York, I'm willing to go to Chicago.

TO REMAIN LOYAL

"Like Jacobs, I feel that the Garden's option is unfair, and anyway, it is because of the milk fund that I'm where I am today. It was the milk fund that made me the outstanding contender through the Paolino Uzcudun fight, and champion through the Sharkey scrap.

"I intend to remain loyal to the milk fund and it is for its benefit that I will be ready to fight the challenger who is outstanding next May.

"If Dempsey intends to return, he'll get first crack at me."

Max laughingly remarked that evidence of his being in the best of condition is the fact that he is entering the Berlin ping-pong championship next week.

CAMPBELL ICE TRAINER

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Jack Campbell, who served as trainer of the old-time Yellow Jackets when they were winning championships in amateur hockey circles, has been signed by Roy Schooley to train the Yellow Jackets who will represent Pittsburgh in the International League, the president of the local ice club announced today.

Campbell is the second official to be signed this week. Schooley signed Charles Reid as coach of the Jackets two days ago.

Campbell probably will have several skaters on whom to work out next Monday. Local officials report progress in their efforts to straighten out a tangle with United States immigration officials, and it is probable that the Jackets will be permitted to advance on Pittsburgh early next week. The local puckmen have been working out on Toronto ice for the last few days.

All seats at Duquesne Garden are to be reserved this season and the ticket prices are to be slashed to a new low of $1.50 and $1. Schooley is determnied that the ice sport shall regain its former popularity here even if his club has to operate at a loss for a season or two.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

JONES ON AIR

TAD JONES, former Yale coach, member of the All-America Board of Football, will be interviewed on the air tonight by Christy Walsh over the Columbia circuit (WJAS).

SPORT VIGNETTES

It is not generally known, but Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, who attended the Pitt-Notre Dame game at the Stadium last Saturday in a coonskin coat, as shown in the accompanying picture, himself is a former football star and thus comes naturally by his love for the game. . . . The records have it that he captained the Yale freshman team in 1885 and also played on the Eli varsity in the several seasons that followed immediately thereafter.

Gifford Pinchot

If the Pitt-Notre Dame football game of last Saturday had been a professional event, with the loser rallying at the finish as Pitt did, what would have been the result? A return match, as sure as shooting. . . . But they don't do things that way in college athletics. . . . And why not, aside from the fact that schedules are made up intact a full season in advance?

How often do we hear the old familiar crack that a team that beats another on a certain Saturday couldn't do it on another week-end? . . . You know the theory that a team almost invariably is up to its best form one week and down in the dumps the next and that it is almost impossible to keep an eleven pepped up from one week to another throughout the season. . . . A team that is "on" one day may take a team that will turn the tables on it any other Saturday in the season, and vice versa.

Under these circumstances, wouldn't it be an interesting stunt for a couple of major teams to do a bit of experimenting to determine whether or not this is all balderdash or the real McCoy? . . . Say, have them schedule three games across a season, the first on the second Saturday of the schedule, after each has been able to get a tuneup contest under its belt, the second in midseason and the third at the end of the campaign. . . . Granting that the teams are well matched at their best, the series should prove highly illuminating as well as having an educational value for coaches, players and just followers of the sport as well.

The greatest obstacle to getting two teams to try this noble experiment would be the "gate." . . . There would be a real question about whether the public would pay to see the same two teams meet three times in the same season. . . . Or it might split up its patronage across the three games or wait for the climax of the series. . . . And if one of the teams won the first game by a large score or took the first two games the last game might be a dud. . . . Leading to the question of just how "amateur" college football really is.

This proposal probably will not get anywhere, but the fact remains that here is something new, at least, in college football, and it has its possibilities. . . . The Pitt-Notre Dame situation is a good case in point. . . . It is unlikely that Notre Dame could be as "hot" against Pitt and get such a jump three times in a season as it was and did in their single contest last Saturday. . . . And Pitt, with the experience of having played against the Rockne system once, should be better able to handle itself in two subsequent games, and, with the knowledge of what it did in the closing stages of that first meeting, would go into the later battles with more confidence. . . . The Irish might win all three games, in which case the proof would be that a superior team will win every time out against an inferior team; on the other hand, if Pitt should be able to break through and win at least one of the games in the series, we would be certain that the long-held notion about teams being "up" and "down" from week to week is no myth.

He prepped at Shady Side Academy and Choate School, Wallingford, Conn., so that the name Wallingford must be fairly familiar to him by this time. . . . The Fordham eleven, which defeated New York University last Saturday and meets West Virginia University in New York tomorrow, appears to be on its way to its second defeatless season. . . . No team has scored through its line last year or this and the team has not been scored upon in any manner so far this season. . . . Its line, which averages 191 pounds, with the biggest man Walter Tracey, right guard, scaling 223 pounds, is being hailed as the stoutest forward wall in the East, if not in the country.—HARRY KECK.

MARA TESTIFIES AGAINST TUNNEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Timothy Mara, politician, bookmaker and sportsman, opened the testimony today in his $500,000 breach of contract suit against Gene Tunney with the statement that the former heavyweight champion offered him 25 per cent of his share in the gate receipts and 25 per cent of his future earnings for Mara's help in arranging a match with Jack Dempsey in 1926.

Mara testified he told Tunney that the time of the year in which he discussed the matter with the boxer was his busiest period.

"Why, Tim, there is enough money in this proposition for all of us," Mara testified Tunney answered. "If I am able to get the Dempsey match I will give you 25 per cent of my share of the gate and 25 per cent of what I make subsequently in pictures and other activities."

GENE MAKES TERMS

Mara said he told Tunney he was willing to take only 10 per cent of the purse, but, if Gene won the title, he wanted 25 per cent of his earnings from that time on, and would give up his race track interests to work entirely for Tunney.

"I will give Billy Gibson, my manager, 25 per cent, as I have no contract with him," Mara said Tunney answered, "and I will make up the difference from my own end to pay you."

Gibson is a co-defendant in the suit.

Mara identified and testified to the contents of letters and telegrams that passed in April and May of 1926 between himself and Tunney, then in Hollywood making a moving picture. Mara said Tunney met the late Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, in Fort Worth, Tex., shortly thereafter and signed a contract to fight Dempsey for the title.

Mara testified he kept cautioning Tunney against Rickard in the Fort Worth negotiations, insisting that the contract be in writing. Once he said he wired Tunney: "Please don't be hoodwinked," and Gene replied that he was sure Rickard was sincere.

"This is my great opportunity," one telegram from Tunney to Mara said. "I am positive Rickard is on the level with me."

Tunney fought Dempsey in Philadelphia in September, 1926, after the bout had been shifted there from New York, and won the championship.

MOOSE TEMPLE FIGHT DATE SHIFTED

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The Moose Temple Boxing Club will shift its date next week, operating on Thursday instead of Friday night to avoid conflict with the Dukes' night football game with North Dakota University at Forbes Field. In the main bout of this show, Tom Malco, of Soho, meets Larry Madge, hard-hitting welterweight, of Cleveland. The pair originally were booked for tonight, but Malco suffered an infected hand and asked for a postponement of a week.

Thursday night for years has been the regular date of the McKeesport Club, but Promoter Jim McGirr is ushering in an amateur tournament there next Thursday, so that there will be no real conflict on this score. Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Club, announced today that all future shows at the downtown arena will be held on Fridays, the regular night.

The card has been completed for the Moose show with the exception of securing an opponent for Marcus Noll, formerly of Detroit, and now of Pittsburgh, in the second bout. He is a 150-pounder and holds a knockout victory over Walter Majeske. Billy Brent and Jimmy Taylor, the latter of Cleveland, box the semi-final, and Jackie Wilson and Georgie Annarino, of Newark, O., are in the opener.

Between Rounds

Joey Thomas writes from Chicago that the two cuts he received on his eyes in his recent bout with Soldier Dombrowski here are rapidly healing and that he would like to box the winner of the projected Eddie Shea-Andy Martin bout here, as he fought two decisions over Martin, scored in Toledo.

Louis Severo and Jackie Corgan box the main bout of a show at Meadville Monday night. Jimmy Thomas, of Sharpsburg, welterweight, of the Hill, meets Pete Massaro, of Cleveland, in the semi-final.

Phil Goldstein's Y. M. H. A. amateur boxing team will participate in its first meet of the season in the Y. M. H. A. gymnasium on the night of November 19, competing against a team from the Willow A. C. Eight bouts are carded.

Archie Bell, of Brooklyn, is due to arrive Sunday morning for his 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden Monday night with Willie Davies, of Charleroi, marking the latter's debut in a bantamweight. He may work out in the Garden gym Sunday afternoon.

Joe Glick, who is to meet Tony Herrera in a return bout at Motor Square Garden soon, boxes Henry Perlick at Toronto next Monday night.

A match is in the making between Jim Maloney and Paulino Uzcudun for the Milk Fund in Boston, December 8. Maloney recently defeated Primo Carnera in Boston and Carnera ran out of a match with Paulino in Paris.

Pinky Kaufman boxes Ignacio Ara and Jimmy Slavin meets Pete DeGrazo in 10-round supporting bouts to the Kid Chocolate-Fidel LaBarba bout at Madison Square Garden, New York, Monday night.

Pal Silvers boxes Vincent Forgione at the St. Nicholas Rink, New York, tonight, Silvers taking the place of Ben Jeby, who has a bad ear. Nick Palmer and Larry Marmionni clash for 12 rounds in Brooklyn. Tuffy Griffiths boxes George Nemo, Larry Johnson faces Natie Brown, Charley Retzlaff takes on Andy Shanks and Paul Pantaleo battles Harry Dillon in eight-rounders making up a heavyweight show in the Chicago Coliseum. Young Stribling and K. O. Christner go to it in Boston with Big Bill Hartwell and Arthur DeKuh in the semi-final. Canada Lee and Jackie Brady are the headliners at Erie.

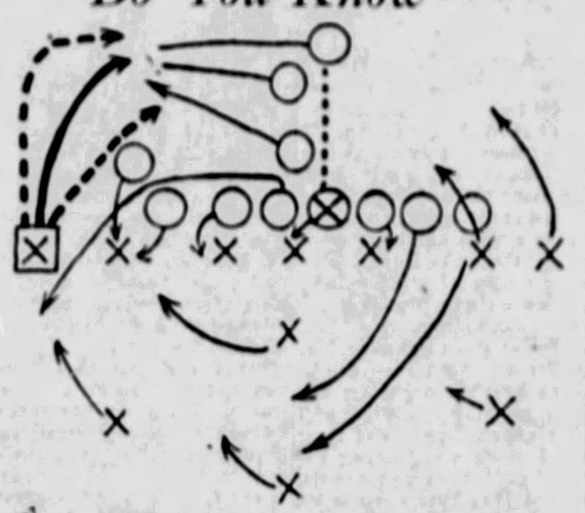
Do You Know - - -



THAT On the defense the position of end is one of the most difficult on the entire team?

The end, being at the extreme flank of the line, necessarily must guard the outside, for, if the opponents once get around him, it is almost impossible to prevent them from making a gain.

But, if guarding the outside were all the end had to do, his position would be comparatively easy, for then he could charge in straight on every play and thus drive the play inside of him.

However, he must not allow a play to be made just inside of him, either, and that is where the catch comes.

If he charges in too sharply the opponents will run around him, while, if he charges in straight, the opposition will run inside him. Those two directions for charging are shown in the above diagram by the broken lines.

The heavy ling shows the best way for the end to charge. From this position he is able to play either way, the inside or the outside.

JIM O'DONNELL JOINS DUKES' SICK LIST

Head Coach Elmer Layden, who directs the gridiron destinies of the Duquesne Night Riders, is determined always to have an ace in the hole. He is now working four fullback candidates on the Bluff training grounds to take the place of Kass Kovalcheck, one of a trio of stars out for the season. Joe McCarthy, veteran quarterback, is one of the quartet, along with Joe Sepsi, converted halfback, and Val Trambley and Big Ben Pawlina.

Jim O'Donnell is the latest first string man to join the severely injured. O'Donnell, tackle star, is now out with an injured leg. Sammy Pratt has a knee injury and, with Kass Kovalcheck limping about on crutches, his right foot in a cast, the outlook for the Dukes against the huge North Dakota University gridders on Friday night of next week, the last Duquesne night contest of the season, is not the brightest.

Roth Layden and Joe Bach, line coach, will check into the sleeper tonight bound for West Point to see the Army play the North Dakota big boys.

Western Reserve, Ohio on Navy Card

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Duke, which beat the Navy this fall, is not on the Middies' 1931 schedule of football games announced today. Western Reserve was named in place of Duke, but it was announced the defeat had nothing to do with dropping of Duke. University of Delaware was substituted for George Washington, the other games remaining the same as this year.

The game with Notre Dame next year will be played in Baltimore on November 15, and the Navy will go to Columbus to play Ohio State.

At last I became desperate.

"If you will sign a contract right now I will give you a good-sized bonus besides the salary," was my double-barrelled shot, the last I had.

It brought down the possum, as for the first time Ty said:

"What is the bonus and what is the sum in the contract?"

REMEMBERS FRIENDSHIP

When I told him the figures, Ty looked at me a second and then said:

"All right, I will sign with you and I now want to say that from the start I wanted to be with your club for the reason that you were the first man to come to me in the lobby of the Congress Hotel in Chicago and say: 'When you are ready I would like to talk to you about joining our club.'"

These remarks must have sunk deep in Cobb's mind. This was the occasion when Judge Landis had exonerated him from the foolish charges that had been made.

Ty asked for my fountain pen, and with the train pitching and rolling like a ship at sea, he slowly and carefully wrote "Tyrus R. Cobb" on the dotted line and gave me the specimen of his handwriting that I was so eager to get.

You may be sure that I was very happy when Ty turned over the signed contract to me.

My mission had been a success and I now could apply my energies to other things.

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 47.

As I mused over the situation in my hotel room in Augusta after Ty Cobb left me, one man who I was afraid might defeat my plans was Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, who was on the ground in Augusta ahead of me.

Connie Mack

That night I had the pleasure of dining at Cobb's home. Howley also was there and any talk of Ty's future was necessarily taboo.

I always have been a warm admirer of Howley and knew that he always had been an intimate friend of Ty. I wondered how far Howley would go to get him.

Such speculations as were running through my mind quickly vanished shortly after I entered the home.

I was instantly impressed with his home circle. Ty has a wonderful family. Mrs. Cobb is a charming hostess and others in the family were two pretty daughters and two healthy looking and rugged boys. In this home circle the true family spirit prevailed, while the surroundings were ideal. It was furnished in the best of taste and I never spent a more agreeable evening.

A real Georgia dinner was served and the Cobb kitchen was not the least bit of the harmony in the general scene.

VISITS COBB'S HOME

The home of the baseball star made such an impression on me that I was determined more than ever to get him. I felt that I ought to get a man of his character in our organization.

Before I made my adieus, I learned that Howley was going North with us. I slept at the hotel that night and the next afternoon we three boarded a train for the North. I found that my stateroom was in another car from the one where Cobb and Howley had joint possession of one. That made me feel that with the two together talking in the same stateroom my chances of signing him were not of the best.

Late that afternoon, Ty sauntered in my stateroom. I pushed the latch that locked the door and immediately got busy with him.

"We might as well fix this matter up now as waiting until later on," I started. "I do not like the idea of getting off this train without your signature."

COBB FINALLY SUCCUMBS

Still Cobb demurred:

"I want to wait a few days longer. After I get through in New York, I'm coming to Philadelphia to attend the Veteran Athletes' dinner, and then I will give you my answer."

That did not satisfy me and I repeated my importunities and always received the same answer. Cobb would give me his answer in Philadelphia.

MAX CAREY RELEASED BY BUCS

PIRATE COACH OUSTED IN SHAKEUP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Max (Scoops) Carey, Pirate coach this year and formerly captain and a star outfielder of the Pittsburgh Club, today was released outright. In making the announcement of the disposition of Carey, Pirate officials stated that the management desired a change, but they stated that so far nobody had been secured for the post held by Max during the part campaign.

The other coaching post is held by Oscar (Spin) Stanage, who was a famous catcher for the Detroit Tigers. Stanage came to Pittsburgh with the advent of Donie Bush, and after Bush left, Manager Ens was eager to keep Stanage on the job, especially as a coach for the pitchers. So far as is known now, Oscar will remain, Pirate officials stated.

Carey's passing will be quite a surprise to many, but when a club finishes out of the first division, changes often occur. There was no friction of any kind between Manager Ens and Scoops, whose coaching throughout the year was fine.

Carey has been mentioned as a managerial possibility on several occasions and Scoops has friends everywhere who would like to see him get the opportunity to pilot a club. It is likely that he will remain in the sport in a managerial or coaching capacity.

Max was one of the ranking outfielders of the league for almost 15 years as he performed for the Pirates. The club dissension of 1926 brought Carey's departure; the Bucco owners asked waiver on him and he was claimed by Brooklyn where he remained as player and coach for several seasons. He was appointed a Pirate coach last Spring.

Accompanied by his wife and two small children, Jewel Ens, the Pirate pilot, all signed, sealed and delivered for next season, is on his way toward West Palm Beach, Fla., where the Ens family will make its home for the greater portion of the winter.

The Pirate manager and his family left this morning by automobile for the Florida town. He expects to make a leisurely trip. Ens probably will return north in about five weeks. The annual December meeting of the National League will be held in New York Tuesday, December 9, and it is likely that Jewel, as well as President Barney Dreyfuss and Vice President Sam Dreyfuss will attend that important pow wow.

New York U.'s Violets Arrive to Play Tech Tomorrow

Coach Chick Meehan, of New York University, and his squad of husky gridders as they detrained at Union Station this morning. The Violet party arrived within the portals of the Steel City during the wee hours of the morning, but stayed in their sleepers until breakfast-time. They will make their headquarters at the Chartiers Heights Country Club until time to depart for the Stadium to battle Carnegie Tech tomorrow.

N. Y. U. SQUAD ARRIVES HERE

backfield of Jim Tanguay, Joe LaMark, Bill McNamara and Bob MacDonald is in great shape, and the youngsters learned many valuable lessons under their first severe fire last Saturday. The kids will work behind a veteran line that includes men who have all played against the Plaid before.

Carnegie's famed running-passing offense will not bewilder the visitors, and they are confident that they can stop Dutch Eyth and John Karcis, who do the bulk of the ball carrying for the Skibos.

There may be a change in the New York backfield that will send Bob McNamara in at one of the halfback positions. He is a brilliant kicker, and if the game develops into a rugged defensive battle, excellent punting will be absolutely required.

There is hardly a chance, however, that the struggle will settle down to a pull and tug proposition. Carnegie is strictly an offensive team, and Quarterback Harry McCurdy will be instructed to open up from the start with everything in the Steffen-Waddell repertoire. Meehan says that he has been working all week with his own offense, so tomorrow's battle is likely to see some scoring by both outfits.

Carnegie's final workout was held yesterday afternoon. There will be a warmup drill for the entire squad late today, but Waddell's offensive and defensive plans were given their final checkup last night at a blackboard session.

George Kavel, Irwin boy, who grabbed off the right halfback job when Slats Flanagan was hurt late in fall training period, will definitely not start tomorrow, Waddell announced this morning. Kavel will hardly see any action at all, as he is still in bad shape from the injury he received in the Notre Dame game.

It is fortunate for the Carnegie coaches that Flanagan has regained perfect physical condition and the playing form that made him such a valuable man in his sophomore and junior years, for he will be at right halfback—the mop-up position of the Tartan backfield.

Alex Ducanis, the other Notre Dame game casualty, has recovered completely, however, and will be in there at center, steadying the team on defense, and feeding accurate passes to the backs.

The remainder of the team will line up as it has for its big games, except that there has been no decision made yet as to the starting of Sample or Burzio at right guard.

PITT READY FOR 'HUSKERS

teeth by mistake. The brand of tooth-paste he uses is awful.

A long drill is carded for the Pittites this afternoon on Creighton University's field. For the last two years, Pitt has attempted to use Creighton's gridiron for training purposes, but it either has rained so hard or snowed too heavily that the local college's grid has been in such bad condition that a team of ducks would have been slowed up.

PANTHERS DRILL

As a result, Pitt always has used the Ark-Saw-Ben auditorium, a huge barn-like affair, with a tanbark floor. It's a pip of a spot, and is well hidden away from the prying eyes of young Omahaians who wish to watch the antics of the Panthers as they put on their final act before meeting the vaunted Huskers.

The Panthers drilled yesterday with only one change in the lineup. Jimmy Clark worked out at fullback in the place of Franklyn Hood, with Josh Williams and Warren Heller at the halves and Eddie Baker at quarterback. On the line, Rip Collins and Jim MacMurdo were at the terminals; Charley Tully and Jess Quatse at the tackles; Mike Milligan and Ernie Lewis at the guards and Daugherty at center.

Late in the drill, Bulldog Reider, who played so well against Notre Dame, was inserted into the backfield in the place of Williams, but the low-down is that Williams will be at right half tomorrow for the initial kickoff.

Omaha tendered the Panthers its usual reception on their arrival here, which consisted of a flock of taxi drivers shouting loud and long in an effort to carry the ballplayers to any hotel but the one at which they are booked to take up their abode, the very home-like and satisfactory Fontenelle.

as a perfectly balanced diagram of Irish, Poles and Italians. On the right side of the line are Elcewicz, end, Miskinis, tackle, and Wisniewski, guard, all Polish on the left are Conroy, end, Foley, tackle, and Tracey, guard, all sons of Ireland.

Between these Polish and Irish contingents stands Capt. Tony Siano, the Italian center. Directly behind him is the Polish quarterback, Bartos. Behind Bartos is another Pole, Pieculewicz, at fullback, and balancing the Italian-Polish succession from center to fullback are Murphy and McMahon, Irish halfbacks.

Johnny Shaffer

JOHNNY SHAFFER, Greensburg High School backfield star, is being hailed by football fans of that section as another Brown and White player who will make a strong bid for a place on the mythical W. P. I. A. L. team this year. Shaffer, who directs the eleven from his quarterback position, has been using excellent judgment in selecting his plays against opposing teams. In addition, he is one of the main cogs in the interference for the other Greensburg backs, while he has also been taking his turn at running with the ball this year for the first time and is showing plenty of power. Shaffer has always been a good defensive player since his first game three years ago. The Brown and White star stands 5 feet 11 inches in height and weighs 177 pounds. His all-around work as an individual player and as a team worker has been one of the features of practically every game played by his eleven.

"You Will Be Sent To The 'Chair' Unless!"

FINANCIAL ruin came to the fascinating but spendthrift Dangerfields. The invalid father makes light of the calamity—and his elder son and daughter set out to acquire money by the only way they know—to marry it.

Handsome and supercilious Grayson marries a rich widow much older than himself. Emily, his beautiful, sophisticated and selfish sister announces her engagement to a nerve-shattered war hero—but does not intend that her marriage shall interfere with her love affairs.

Brook, their seventeen-year-old sister, recalled from a French convent—disapproves of the family's mercenary spirit and throws herself into the reckless gaiety of a wild, younger crowd. And then begins a stirring story of tempestuous love and hate—exceptionally frank and astonishing situations in the successful fight of a girl for love and happiness, all told in

Haunted by the Spell of African Witchcraft

Queer things happen in this world, especially in Africa. Lady Dorothy Mills, the intrepid explorer and traveler, tells of her travels through dark swamps and forests of the West Coast, and throughout the burning length and breadth of the Sahara. She recounts curious experiences with a ferocious Arab Sheik, who first tried to charm her, then kill her and now pursues her with black magic. She describes in detail how the "wise men" concoct spells—how great a part witchcraft plays in the lives of wild men, black and brown. It is a vivid picture of mysterious Africa—Next Sunday in The American Weekly.

Are we Going to Live in Windowless Buildings?

Is the age of windowless buildings at hand? Far seeing engineers and architects say that windows have become superfluous for ventilation and illumination. Science points out that windows are useless and expensive—that purer air and more satisfactory light can now be artificially provided—even the "health rays" of sunshine. Science says that windows may be common in homes, but that they will disappear from office buildings, stores and factories. What do you think about it? Read the details next Sunday in The American Weekly.

STOCKS RETURN TO LOWS OF 10 DAYS AGO

Decline Appears to Meet Resistance—Bears Seek Soft Spots—Sales Slow

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.) — The stock market slipped still lower today, bumping the bottom levels recorded 10 days ago.

The decline appeared to meet resistance around the recent lows, but trading was too sluggish to give a clear indication as to the character of the resistance offered. Bears seemed to confine their activity to seeking out individual soft spots.

Bethlehem Steel actually broke into new low ground with a 2-point drop. Radio did likewise, selling off 1½ to 19¼. It had previously held firmly at 20. Other shares reaching new bottom levels included Du Pont, Kennecott, Childs and Missouri, Kansas, Texas, off about 2, and Gillette, American Metals, Auburn, General American Tank, Crucible Steel and Canada Dry, off 3 to 5. U. S. Steel sagged 2, to within a point of its low. Coca Cola was again heavy, losing 5, and Corn Products dropped 4. Ingersoll Rand, an erratic issue, broke 11.

BETHLEHEM DROPS

The drop in Bethlehem was in response to its quarterly earnings statement, showing net of 63 cents a share. It regained much of its loss as shorts covered later, however. Earnings were about in line with expectations, as it has been widely believed that the corporation had earned less than half its quarterly dividend requirements. President Grace's statement that improvement was not yet in sight, only confirmed recent analyses by steel trade publications.

The steel industry in these slack times has had large overhead charges in the maintenance of its vastly expanded and modernized plant, but President Farrell of U. S. Steel, in an address at Pinehurst last night, said the millions spent in modernization would be justified by future demands upon this basic industry, save in those lines where capacity had outstripped potential demand for some years to come.

The weekly mercantile reviews stated that retail trade appeared to be maintaining its volume of earlier in the month, although wholesale trade and manufacturing seemed a trifle quieter.

CALL RATE HOLDS

Call money held at 2 per cent, having set a record by remaining stationary at that level for the entire month. Although call money has averaged lower, as recently as February, 1916, this seems to be the first time the official rate has remained unchanged for so long a period. Last October the average was above 6 per cent. The official rate has been somewhat artificial, however, with outside offerings of funds as low as 1 per cent.

The further decline of $101,000,000 in the weekly brokerage loan figures carried the total to the lowest since 1926, in which year the tabulation was started. The New York banks' loans to brokers for their own account dropped $80,000,000, against a decrease in all security loans of only $50,000,000, indicating an increase of $30,000,000 in security loans to others than brokers. Some observers interpret an increase in these loans as showing that there has been accumulation of stocks by strong interests. A gain of $120,000,000 in the New York bank loans under the classification "all other loans" was a little puzzling, as there had been little indication of increased commercial borrowing.

SEPTEMBER OIL OUTPUT OFF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Production of petroleum in the United States during September was estimated by the Bureau of Mines today at 70,977,000 barrels, a daily average of 2,366,000. This was 49,000 barrels a day less than August and 549,000 under the daily average production for September last year.

The decline was reflected in a contraction in stocks on hand of all petroleum products. These were estimated to be 678,508,000 barrels on September 30, a reduction of 7,349,000 in a month.

September's demand for gasoline was 37,823,000 barrels, an increase of 9 per cent over September, 1929. Gasoline stocks on hand at the end of the month declined to 38,254,000 barrels, 3,370,000 less than one month previously.

Most of the decline in crude production took place in Texas. The output in California, Oklahoma and New Mexico was unchanged.

Public Keenly Dissatisfied With Leaders

By B. C. FORBES

SO MANY readers are desirous of expressing what is on their minds that the writer feels it is best to stand aside and give them a chance—a course readers doubtless will indorse.

Mr. Forbes

The American public is doing more cogitating these days than at any other time in the writer's quarter-century experience. Our foremost financial, industrial, mercantile and other leaders probably have no adequate conception of the widespreadness of discontent, not merely among the unemployed and among many workers, but among small business men as well as small investors. Unless ways and means can be devised to modify this hostile attitude, we may experience disturbing agitation and political action by and by.

Two species of criticism are especially rife: First, that our largest men of affairs have failed to prove effective leaders in time of trouble. Second, that "Wall Street" has contributed unduly to the spread of pessimism and losses.

J. D. Shatford, chairman of the Railroad Owners' Association, writes:

"Your recent articles are timely and to the point. It appears that our leaders have failed signally in their duty. I have just returned from a three months' trip through the West and Northwest and down the Pacific Coast, making inquiries regarding economic matters as affecting the railroads. No matter with whom I spoke, in almost every instance the stock exchange was mentioned as the greatest deterrent to a return to prosperity, for the reason that the Liberty Bond campaigns made million of investors.

"Since then these same individuals have bought smaller or larger amounts of industrial stocks. They are outright holders, of course, but, seeing from day to day the raids by destructive forces on the exchange reducing the value of their holdings materially, they expressed themselves as fearful that their investments might become worthless or so depreciated as to affect their position; therefore, their purse strings were drawn and as little expenditure as possible made, whereas if a cheerful situation had existed on the exchange, it is my opinion, based upon my inquiries, that we would be now well on the way to prosperity.

"Regulation of the exchange, preventing destructive forces from operating, I found was demanded on all sides.

"If our so-called leaders would act more and talk less, and our so-called economists would not constantly parade before the people the evil in our economic system at the moment, people would soon forget that any such thing as so-called hard times existed. Of course, it is largely a state of mind, and as soon as some comfort is given in the way of an advance in securities, we will assume our march upward."

M. G. Peek, commenting on the railway executive's letter recently published here, says:

"In slack times it is always the interests of stockholders that are given first consideration—men are laid off right and left to make sure the stockholders receive their dividends regularly. Assuming that owners of railroad securities must be fairly comfortably fixed or they wouldn't be owning securities, it would seem reasonable to suppose that, in times of depression, they are in somewhat better shape to stand a tough break than the average railroad employe."

Samuel Horowitz, manufacturer of wearing apparel, writes in part:

"Your comment on Mr. Swope's suggestion of the small dealer not doing his share, struck the right pitch. What can the small dealer or manufacturer do but follow the example set by our mighty corporations? The amazing lack of co-operation by our largest department stores strikes me as touching a vital spot in this depression . . .

"Here is a typical example that occurred a few days ago: A buyer for a large department store who had placed an order for holiday merchandise came into our showroom with this wail: 'What do you think of ————, who is worth thirty million dollars, not letting me confirm the order I placed with you? How can I do business without stock? All they do is yell at us to meet certain figures, but will not let us buy merchandise to fill the customers' needs. Here I go and buy half of last year's amount and he tells me not to confirm the order, as I would be able to get all the goods I need later.'

"All the consumer propaganda of 'buy now' will avail nothing if the large stores do not themselves 'buy now.'"

EVIDENCE ACCUMULATES that many merchants persists in scrimping their purchases. You can't sell until you first buy. This elemental truth may shortly be driven home.

GILLETTE POOL DEAL CHARGED

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Minority stockholders of the Gillette Safety Razor Company had on file in Supreme Court today a bill in equity for more than $20,000,000 against the directors of the company asking to hold them liable for $3,566,869 alleged damages by sales to the company of 214,171 shares of its stock at an alleged excessive price and the alleged impairment of its capital to the extent of $17,000,000. The action was made returnable November 7.

The bill alleged that a "pool" had the company buying 420,000,000 to purchase its own stock so that the price of the stock was run up on the market from 58½ to 85½ in 21 days during July.

Further the bill charged that some of the directors were in the pool and that King C. Gillette sold the company 20,000 shares at a high price, making, it was alleged, more than $1,000,000.

Textile Industry Shows Improvement

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Activity in the domestic textile industry showed a substantial increase in September for the first time since January, according to the Textile Economist. Indications are, the bulletin states, that the textile industry is in relatively better position to stage an advance than is business in general, based on the corresponding levels of production.

The Culmination of a Half-Century of Progress

THIS EVENING as desks are closed and office lights turned out, The Edward A. Woods Company will have passed through its first half-century. Since 1880, it has grown from very humble beginnings to a mighty force. To measure this force is difficult; the figures one would have to use are beyond the grasp of most men.

The Agency has, in this year of business readjustment, increased its sales in the twelve months just closed approximately 33 per cent over last year, exceeding its quota of $100,000,000.

There are in America some 260 good life insurance companies. The Edward A. Woods Company has for twenty-five years led in sales not only all the agencies in the world but all but some twenty-four national companies.

Insurance in force in this Agency totals $724,676,010. Some idea of the immensity of this amount may be had when we say it is sufficient to buy 90 per cent of all the real estate and buildings in Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle at the valuation used for tax purposes.

As we attempt to fittingly celebrate what is really a great achievement we take this opportunity of thanking our friends of other great companies who have helped foster the public recognition of the value of life insurance. We acknowledge our indebtedness to our policyholders past and present who expressed in a substantial way their faith in our organization, to our sales and office force who with rare courage and energy devoted themselves to the spread of life insurance coverage, to our leaders of the past who brought to bear a genius, energy and faith rare in the annals of any business.

When one thinks back over the intervening years, the business depressions, labor disturbances, fires and wars, only then can we get a correct picture of the exceptional leadership and vision possessed by Edward A. Woods who was largely responsible for the building of this organization.

As we celebrate tonight our Golden Anniversary we look forward with confidence to the future. We will continue to protect the family and the home; to provide life incomes for wife and children, to pay for the education of boys and girls; to strengthen the business and credit of individuals, firms and companies; to settle estates, safeguard mortgages, to extend protection to families of employees; and to support men and women in old age. These are activities which require not only energy but ideals. We pledge to the public and our policyholders continued adherence to those ideals which have made this celebration possible.

PROFITS SHOW GAIN DESPITE DEPRESSION

More Than 60 Important Companies Improve Net In First Half of Year

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—In Pullman smokers it has been fashionable of late to dwell upon the troubles of the business world. In spite of the depression of 1930, there have been individual successes too, this year.

More than 60 important companies, whose securities are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, improved their net profits for the first half of the year, and some of them continued their gains for the nine months. Success, in the face of prevailing obstacles, constitutes distinguished business achievement. The public is entitled to hear about the successes of the exceptional performers as well as about the more widespread setbacks.

M. S. Rukeyser

C. M. Chester, Jr., a lawyer by profession, who heads the General Foods Corporation, has done a fine job this year in consolidating the gains of a long series of mergers. Operating profits for the company for the first nine months of the year were larger than operating profits in the corresponding period last year. The reason why should be of general interest to executives and investors.

SALES STIMULATED

Mr. Chester ascribes the improved performance of his company to intensive stimulation of sales throughout the corporation's many lines, increased distribution efficiency and improved purchasing and manufacturing conditions.

In stressing additional points, Mr. Chester told me:

"Introduction of new products, improved packaging, and lowering of prices have helped to maintain the volume of our case sales.

"Our sales organization has instituted a system of monthly inventories of our distribution which shows just where extra sales effort is needed.

"Sales territories have been reduced in size to enable salesmen to do more intensive work, and sales schools have been developed to keep salesmen properly instructed.

"The integration of recently acquired companies has resulted in more efficient methods in various departments."

Since the beginning of the year, Mr. Chester was quoting policy, he decided to increase advertising efforts, on the theory that he would get greater return per advertising dollar in dull times when there was less intensive competition from other advertisers.

GAIN SHOWN

The Industrial Rayon Corporation showed gains in profits for the first two quarters over 1929, and reported virtually the same profit for the third quarters of the two years. A person in position to explain the success of the company under adverse trade conditions informed me:

"The gain in net earnings was certainly due to an increase in gross volume of business, as well as operating economies, together with a more intensive selling program, and in the face of a substantial reduction in the market selling prices of the company's product, but no bookkeeping adjustment have been made that would in any way enhance the earnings. On the contrary, any adjustments that have been made in the obsolescence in equipment, depreciation, etc. would tend to reduce the earnings."

Promoters are in a quiescent mood at this time. Better business bureaus and law enforcement officers have been increasingly vigilant, but even more important has been the effect of the depression in cutting down "investable" funds of suckers.

I advise those of my readers, who want to put money into stocks, to eschew wildcat schemes, and to place their funds in securities of the strongest seasoned companies, which are sufficiently depressed to allure the bargain hunters.

Action of Market List Proves Discouraging To Followers.

The action of the market is again proving discouraging to the rank and file of its followers. Once more it develops that the leaders have not been able to "follow through" on the rally. In other words, the latest upturn has seemingly encountered enough fresh selling, in the absence of aggressive demand, to bring about fresh reaction. This marks the third time in the past fortnight that the market has developed rather substantial rallying tendencies which, however, have proved to have been short-lived. Among chart followers the opinion held now is that the market will probably make a fresh test of the low levels reached about a week ago before again developing evidence of much in the way of further rally.

The market yesterday did not appear to be in a position to respond to the spirit of confidence contained in the remarks of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his radio address. While he was engaged in making a political address, the head of the treasury devoted at large part of his remarks to analyzing causes leading up to the present situation in world trade. Expressing the opinion that it would be only a question of time when this country would take the lead in a recovery from the depression, he attributed the slump to post-war overproduction of commodities and other raw materials. He called attention at the same time to our strong position compared with most of the rest of the world in facing the task of overcoming its effects.

The demand for Continental Oil has improved slightly since the publication of its statement for the nine months ended September 30 because of its good balance sheet. The company had as of September 30, $18,400,000 cash and marketable securities, in addition to approximately $38,000,000 inventories and notes and accounts receivable, making a total of $56,400,000. In addition, investments and advances totaled $25,076,000 and fixed assets $107,253,000. Liabilities, aside from a funded debt of $29,545,000, were current liabilities of less than $7,000,000. The market value of Continental's 4,743,103 shares of stock at $13 a share is $61,660,339.

A number of big traders have turned their attention to the wheat market. Most of them are buyers because they believe developments from now on will be favorable to that commodity. One hears that mills have no wheat inventories; that farmers are feeding lots of it to cattle, and that later Russia will be a buyer instead of a seller. Buffalo, a city that knows grain, has been a large buyer of wheat.

Many believe that attempts will be made to have a stable market with a rallying tendency for election. The underlying support in leading stocks evidenced during recent efforts by bears to start another reactionary movement has been the subject of considerable comment. Many believe that some of the buying has been for the account of interests that desire to see the market display a firm tone until after the balloting next Tuesday.

The tendency of the times is toward larger industrial units. They have reduced production costs and paid the highest wages in history. They are the largest employers of labor. A quarter of a century or so ago, one heard "competition is the life of trade." But, carried too far, it eventually proved the death of trade, causing plants to be idle and wages to be reduced to as low as $1 a day. Competition was at its height at about the time of the organization of the United States Steel Corporation. United States Steel planned to stabilize conditions, and it has been highly successful. That Steel did not become the octopus some had claimed it would, is evident from its percentage of growth, which has been less than that of the independents.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

By FRELING FOSTER

All Construction But Residential Is Having a Fairly Active Year

This is a four-year comparison of the volume of contracts awarded for all kinds of construction work except residential structures. Residential work comprises about one-quarter and all other kinds of building represent the other three-quarters of all construction. Figures below are for the first nine months of each year and cover 37 States. Source: F. W. Dodge Corporation.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS

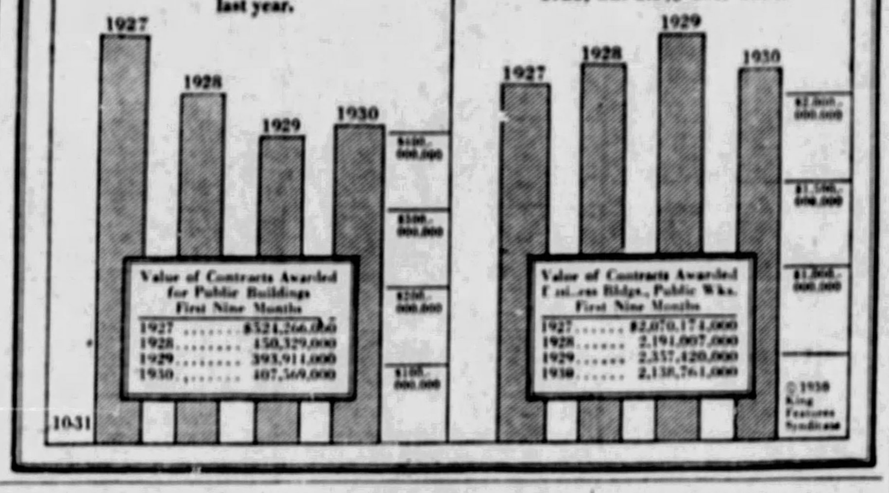
Comprising educational, hospital, institutional, public, religious, memorial, social and recreational structures.

Although there were serious declines in the construction of public and semi-public buildings in the good years of 1928 and 1929, 1930 shows a definite upturn which amounts to a 3.5% increase over last year.

BUSINESS CONSTRUCTION

Comprising all kinds of commercial and industrial buildings, and public works and utilities, etc.

The value of the contracts awarded for the construction of commercial and industrial buildings and public works and utilities is a fair index to the attitude of Business toward expansion and development. 1930 is 9.3% under 1929, and 2.5% under 1928, but 3.3% over 1927.



Blaw-Knox Selling On 6 Per Cent Basis

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

IN ANALYZING STOCKS, which appear to be attractive investments at present prices, Blaw-Knox must be considered among the outstanding Pittsburgh companies.

Production was at a high rate during the first half of the year. It has since declined to some extent, but net profit for 1930 will be slightly greater than in 1929 when $2,838,735 was reported. This was equivalent to $2.17 a share on the stock outstanding at that time and would be equal to $2.14 a share, 1,322,325 shares outstanding at present.

The stock is selling on the New York and Pittsburgh exchanges in the vicinity of 25. This is about 11.5 times the average earnings for 1929 and 1930. Average earnings per share have not been taken for previous years since consolidations which took place during 1929 make previous statements not comparative.

Pays $1.50 a Share

THE STOCK IS ON a regular dividend basis of $1.50 a share. In 1929 dividends were paid which totaled the same amount. At the present quotations the stock is selling to yield about 6 per cent.

Dividend requirements are being earned by a liberal margin. If profit for the present year is equivalent to $2.20 a share, which seems to be a reasonable estimate, 70 cents a share will be added to surplus. In the first half of 1930, net profit amounted to $1,694,002 which was equivalent to $1.28 a share and was not far below dividend requirements for a full year. Earnings for the six months compared with $1,392,366 or $1.05 a share on the present capitalization in the first half of 1929. Profits of subsidiaries acquired during the year have been included to make the figures comparative.

Production Diversified

A WIDELY DIVERSIFIED line of products has been an important factor in maintaining earnings during the present year. Research is being constantly employed to improve equipment made by Blaw-Knox and to further increase the range of products manufactured.

Road building machinery and steel forms for concrete work have yielded a large share of the revenues this year. The company also makes electric transmission towers, steel castings, steel gratings, rolls for steel mills, equipment for open hearth furnaces, and a wide range of special machinery. The next addition to the products will be a new type of concrete mixing wagon.

Foreign Expansion

FOREIGN BUSINESS is being increased by the expansion of production in European countries. A plant in England was recently completed. Last April a plant was bought at St. Quentin, France, and an addition to this is being considered.

In July, 1929, Blaw-Knox acquired the Union Steel Castings Company, Lewis Foundry and Machine Company and National Alloy Steel Company. These organizations materially added to the company's operating facilities.

There is no funded debt or preferred stock. Current assets at the end of September amounted to about $8,300,000. They were 10 times current liabilities. Inventories were at a low level.

Willard Expects To Earn Dividend

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Daniel Willard, president of Baltimore and Ohia railroad, questioned as to prabable B. and O. earnings for 1930 said, "I expect we will earn our dividends." Although Mr. Willard made it plain that he could not speak for the board in the matter of dividends. Declaration of the regular rate at the December meeting is looked for in well-informed quarters.

Officials Silent On C. & E. I. Sale

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Officials at the headquarters here of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, railroad magnates, refused to deny or confirm the report sent from Wall Street that the Cleveland railroad operators had exercised the option they had secured on the controlling block of stock of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad last March from the estate of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan. Good Yield Assured

Investors Realize an Immediate and a Continuing Benefit

Impatience and too much patience are both apt to be disastrous to the man or woman who attempts to invest saved dollars to maximum advantage. Some try to "double their money overnight"—with dire results all too frequently. Others entirely overlook the factor of current income (which may be 3%, 2%, or even less) in the expectation that eventually they will have opportunity to sell their security at enough more than its cost to compensate them handsomely for the long wait.

The more discerning and cautious investor need take neither the one course nor the other. Rather, having first satisfied himself as to its intrinsic soundness, he will insist on an investment that yields him a good return from the start—and assures him an uninterruptedly good return.

Such an investment opportunity is afforded in

Producers Would Speed Oil Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Independent oil producers of the Southwest today urged the tariff commission to speed its inquiry into the comparative costs of production of American and Venezuelan crude oil, left on the free list in the 1930 tariff act after six attempts to make it dutiable had failed in the Senate.

Following the brief hearing, the third in four days in which the commission has listened to an airing of dissatisfaction over the Hawley-Smoot act, individual members indicated a report might be expected as early as December. The hearing today was authorized under a resolution by Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Dishwasher

John Fleming came down from the Hercules Construction Company's offices occupying the twenty-first floor of the Bradford Building, and glanced about for a sign that would indicate a place to eat.

Fleming was pretty well tanned from three years of Mantanzas tropic sun. He had arrived that morning on the company's own steamer, well satisfied with the completion of an immense dam and power plant in that far-off South American country.

He saw a sign. The restaurant seemed to be quite ordinary but neat. He crossed the street and entered the place. There was considerable clatter and bustling about. He was given a table rather close to the wide, leather-covered doors swinging in and out between the big dining room and the ever-mysterious kitchen.

John was fairly well pleased with himself. He had made good and was now a member of the big company, a firm member, or partner. No telling where he would next go or what the next big job would be, but before that there was to be a vacation.

Just as soon as he could get away, which would be within a week, John was going straight west to the little home town and find out why he hadn't received a letter from Bertha Loring for nearly seven months.

After three years of green and red-pepper omelettes, tamales, tortillas and such, good old U. S. A. food tasted mighty good to him.

To Visit Bertha

He eyed the waitresses, trim and pretty, the girl at the cashier's desk with the corn-silk hair, the working girls about him.

Well, he thought, some people might rave over the Spanish types of beauty, but the vivacious, starry-eyed American girls were good enough for him.

At least, one of them was good enough for him—Bertha Loring.

He had left her on his visit home, three years before, at her morning-glory covered veranda, left her quite hopeful, for while she had not formally promised to become Mrs. John Fleming, on his return, she had confessed that she thought he was just a "perfectly wonderful" young man, and by the time he came back she would be old enough to know her mind.

There was just one worry drifting around in Fleming's mind—that Bertha might have found a more "perfectly wonderful" young man, which would explain why he had received no letters from her for several months.

John wasn't the type to sit and guess. He would go out to the little home town within a few days and find out the truth.

A trim appearing young chap came out from the kitchen with a sign in his hand. John caught sight of it. It read:

DISHWASHER WANTED

"Probably some poor devil will be glad of the job," he thought.

Another Treat

John finished his steak. He had had what he called "imitation steaks," down in Mantanzas, but not the real thing, like this.

And now he was going to have another treat—apple pie!

Bertha's mother made perfect apple pies. No restaurant pie could ever be as good as that—but then, Bertha had been with them at the time. Just the same, restaurant apple pie was going to be good when a chap hadn't seen an apple for so long.

One of the waitresses came halfway through the door with her tray and paused to stare back.

A very fat and dark man, with a once white apron, appeared and scowled at her.

"Go on—didn't you ever see—"

The girl rushed in, the door swung back in place and John wasn't able to guess what it was that the girl was staring back at. As if anything in a restaurant kitchen could interest a waitress.

The apple pie came.

A second cup of coffee came with it.

The pie was better than John had expected, much better. He started to enjoy it.

Another waitress came through the door with a heavy tray. Someone from the inside held the door for her until she could get through.

John Fleming could see a long sink and a mammoth pile of dishes. No wonder a dishwasher was wanted, he thought.

The third time that John Fleming could look through the wide swinging door he saw the dishwashing girl's face.

He caught his breath and stared.

He couldn't be mistaken — Bertha! Bertha Loring.

What could have happened back home? She hadn't written because she was broke and—

He got up and pushed open the big door again.

A very fat and greasy man was standing close to Bertha then. He was scowling and berating her, telling her to hurry. Bertha shrank back, fright in her eyes.

It took John Fleming about four quick strides to cross that kitchen and place himself between Bertha and the big greasy fat man.

The greasy fat man, evidently Spanish, or at least John believed him to be Spanish, reached out to grab John.

John knocked his hand aside and started to tell him, in fluent and excellent Spanish, what sort of a low-down so-and-so descendant of a lower-down so-and-so he was.

Then he turned to Bertha Loring.

"John! Why John Fleming!" Bertha cried.

She began to laugh.

But just then two men took hold of John. Both were very well dressed men. One of them seemed to be a man of around 50. He was sarcastically polite.

"If you don't mind, young man," he said, "would you just postpone your little social chat with Miss Lamonte for a few moments?"

"Lamonte? You mean Loring," John said and then he was sorry. He thought that perhaps, after going broke, Bertha had used another name.

Movie Scene

"Oh, John — you dear — you silly dear." Bertha said, "they are making a picture—don't you understand? A movie."

"What?" John said, dazed.

She turned to the sarcastic man.

"Don't be offended, Mr. Gooldson," she said. "This is Mr. Fleming, from my home town. He has been down in South America for years, building dams and things—he thought—he thought——"

Bertha began to laugh.

Mr. Gooldson nodded slowly. "A great compliment, Mr. Fleming. You thought it was the real thing. Now, if you will kindly get back there in that corner until we finish—er—"

John did as directed. He found that the fat, greasy man he had talked to in Spanish was one Terry Riley, movie comedian. The few more shots needed were taken. A young man came back with the "Dishwasher Wanted" sign. It had been put in the window solely to be photographed as Bertha stood and stared at it before going in to get the job—according to the story.

One of the cooks, a real employe, came over and asked John where he had learned to use such wonderful Spanish profanity. He was a Spaniard, he had even driven burros down the Andes and worked on docks, but he had never acquired so colorful a vocabulary. John shamefacedly explained that one had to use plain talk with building a dam and bossing several thousand swarthy Indians, half-breeds, Spaniards and others.

He drove back to the studio with Bertha, who had become "Beth Lamonte" on the screen, and this was her second picture. She wasn't a star. She did character parts. She rather liked it.

However, after the picture was finished Bertha decided to sign up a new contract, for life, under the name of Mrs. John Fleming.

He's Brave and Honest

Some Additional Reasons Why Gifford Pinchot Should Be Elected Governor.

It was suggested yesterday that Gifford Pinchot should be elected governor because he, and he alone, offers hope of relief from extortionate public utility charges, and because he showed, during his administration, that he is an excellent business manager. Here are some other reasons:

Pinchot is uncompromisingly honest, absolutely incorruptible. There is not a chance that he will give sinecure state jobs to gang politicians or anyone else, at the taxpayers' expense.

Pinchot is frank and open. There is never any doubt as to where he stands. He advocates what he believes to be right, regardless of whether it is popular or unpopular. He will not "pussyfoot" to win votes.

Pinchot subordinates his personal interests to the welfare of the people. He is a forester, and he would have liked nothing better when he was governor than to add extensively to the state forests; but he curtailed appropriations for this purpose, because the state was in debt and he insisted on stern economy.

Pinchot is a humanitarian. Born rich, he might have been expected to take his ease and ignore the sufferings of the masses, to take the side of the wealthy and privileged, the predatory corporations and exploiters of labor, and be indifferent to the poor, the oppressed and the under-privileged. Instead, he has always fought, heart and soul, for social justice.

Pinchot is independent. The fabrication, circulated by his opponents, that he will be dominated by Joseph R. Grundy brings a smile to those who know the forester and who recall the ineffectiveness of Grundy's efforts to influence Pinchot eight years ago. Pinchot will take orders from no one.

Watered Stock

Clarion River Case Calls Attention to One of the Ways by Which Utilities Companies Victimize the Public.

The unfairness of the rates charged by some of the public utilities companies is not always so obvious as in the case of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company's 25-cent fare for a 10-cent bus ride. Often the rate charged for light, power, heat or transportation will seem reasonable enough, since it will appear to yield the company a return of only six, seven or eight per cent on its investment. But if the investment is not nearly so great as the company represents it to be, the return will, of course, be really much higher than six, seven or eight per cent, and the rate charged for service may really be outrageous.

And that brings up consideration of the Clarion River Power Company case, to which Gifford Pinchot referred the other day when challenged to give a specific example of wrongdoing by a Pennsylvania public utility.

The rates charged by the company are based on a valuation of $11,032,000. But the Federal Power Commission charges that the real valuation is only $4,645,000, and that the company inflated the amount of its investment nearly $6,383,000 by entering on its books at $100 a share stock that was actually sold at only $31 a share, and by representing as having been invested in its plant money that was actually spent for neckties, cigarets and entertainment.

Pennington 'Ostracism'

Administrator's Embarrassing Position Is Significant Commentary on Status of Prohibition.

Somewhat of a stir has been created by the public statement of Dr. V. D. Beckett, pastor of a United Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia, that Commander John D. Pennington, federal prohibition administrator, and Mrs. Pennington are being ostracized "by those with whom they should rightly associate by reason of their high official position."

A spokesman for Pennington calls the statement "rot" and says the commander has been too busy to mingle with Philadelphia society, and has noticed no coldness.

The situation in Philadelphia is probably what it was here when Pennington was stationed in Pittsburgh, and there is no secret about that. Commander and Mrs. Pennington stayed away from homes and golf clubs and other places that they would have liked to visit and would have visited if he had not been prohibition administrator. Invitations were not sent them, or they refused invitations, because they were fearful that their presence would restrain, or fail to restrain, the hosts from serving liquor, and they were unwilling either to be "wet blankets" or to wink at violations of the law. The Penningtons' friends in Pittsburgh were, therefore, almost exclusively church people in whose homes they could be certain cocktails were never served.

What a commentary on prohibition!

Caution in the Woods

Hunters Should Guard Against Forest Fires, and, Still More Important, Against Careless Shooting.

The hunting season opens tomorrow, and before it is ended almost a million armed men will have taken to the woods of Pennsylvania.

To protect the forests from fire Gov. Fisher has issued a proclamation forbidding smoking, or the building of campfires, or the burning of brush in the woods, or within 200 feet of woodland. The penalty for violation will be $100 fine.

Since the ban on smoking is an alternative to the plan first considered—to forbid hunting altogether—hunters should obey it good-naturedly. There is no doubt of the genuineness of the need for caution. The long drought has made the timber inflammable, and a burning cigaret end is all that is necessary to start a conflagration that may cause a vast amount of damage and even loss of life.

There is another precaution, and an even more important one, that hunters should take, and that is to handle their firearms carefully and not pull the trigger until they are absolutely certain what they are shooting at. Every year many persons are shot by hunters who blaze away at everything they see indistinctly moving through the brush.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Giving the Boys the Air

The light fall political campaign is loose on the horizon. Radio programs are all words, and there is no spot on the dial that is quarantined.

You can't tune the politicians out with a hoss blanket. They out-bellow the SOS calls so much that a boat has to sink without advertising.

It's a question whether the modern spellbounce is preferable to the oldtimer and his poisonal appearance.

The Mid-Victorian candidate tore around the suburbs in a lopsided buggy, howled long and loud from the turret of a soapbox, gave the babies cigars and kissed all the men. He promised prosperity, bigger bribes and told his constituents everything that wasn't nailed down.

The broadcasting officegrabber does the same thing. So we guess the whole business is like a grapefruit. You can eat it either with a spoon or a fork.

But your short-wave speeler has turned the university of the air into a sanitarium.

And we never see him. At least, we knew what the oldtimers looked like. They used to stand up there on platforms with their prosperous silhouettes and Babylonian terraces of chins. If you didn't like their speeches you could tune out with an old tomato or a baseball bat.

They looked honest even if it was a strain on the eyes.

Let us go back to the days of personal contacts, the hearty handclasp and the man-to-man campaign when the candidate grabbed you by both lapels and did the giant swing.

How do we know who is talking on the air? We may vote for a big, bass voice and discover that the next President of the United States is a midget. Congress is all master of ceremonies and the cabinet is a double quartet.

In the old days we saw our judges before they were elected and then started to hide. They left their footprints on the sands of time and Bertillion had not yet perfected the thumbprint.

We concede the modern electioneer sounds very plausible on a one-tube set. But we will believe all they say when Rudy Vallee sings the Maine Stein Song with foam on his chin.

What we want on the air is melody. Good singing, effervescent trombones and dance music that will heat up your rubber heels. We don't think the average politician is getting anywhere on the air, but it's better than yelling out the window.

And after these politicians have stopped making us prosperous we can hope for a speedy recovery.

Isn't It So?

A broken promise isn't all it is cracked up to be.

It's a good plan to always tell the truth, provided you don't do it out of pure cussedness.

It costs a lot to keep the kids in college, but it's worth that much to shift the responsibility for four years.

THE NEW DIRIGIBLE

By Archibald Henderson

Many people still regard with mistrust the lighter-than-air machine. Some even go so far as to speak lightly of the dirigible, as the most expensive of toys.

During the World War, the Zeppelin raids over England created a horror there which did not find expression in the press, greatly hardening the British in their resolution to defeat Germany. But when all was said and done, estimates showed that the damage done was not at all in proportion to the magnitude of the menace. Several Zeppelins were shot down by anti-aircraft guns; and the tangled mass of burning wreckage showed the helplessness of one of these huge monsters, once a vulnerable spot was found.

Since the war, there has been surprisingly little dirigible construction. It is probable that the dangers of this type of aircraft, as well as the essentials of its construction, are as yet only imperfectly understood. The mystery of the horrible disaster of the R-101 only tends to deepen this feeling. As compared with the monumental achievements of the airplane and the almost countless number of successful flights, the record of the dirigible, with a comparatively few flights of imposing success, can scarcely be termed impressive. The potentialities of the airship are not yet clearly defined. Much is yet to be learned about both their construction and guidance.

It is to be expected that the new lighter-than-air craft, notably the ZRs, in process of construction for this government, will surpass in fundamental respects the Graf Zeppelin and the R-100 and R-101. Many factors are being kept in mind in the construction of dirigibles of the new type. In the effort to ensure greater safety, both speed and buoyancy may undergo slight reduction. But on the whole the gain in safety, stability and steadiness will be more than worth the slight sacrifice in non-essentials.

It is far from accurate to term these huge motor-driven confined balloons, which we call dirigibles, merely immensely expensive toys. They are, potentially, enormously effective instruments of transportation and weapons of both offense and defense in time of war. They are, potentially, superb passenger carriers; although the expense of carriage is quite out of reason, in proportion to service, at the present time.

One unbroken flight of almost 7,000 miles stands as an impressive record. A vessel with a steady average speed of more than 70 miles an hour is not to be scorned. It has been demonstrated that, under varying conditions, dirigibles can cross the ocean in either direction, more or less at will. Japan and America have been united by a flight of only three days' duration.

The dirigible of the near future will contain many details of improvement over the few models now in use. The outer coverings of rigid airships will be much improved, without great increase in weight. The structural factors of safety will be increased, so that in the case of failure of some parts, there will be others left to carry the stress and strain. These new airships are designed to be several times as strong as those of only a few years back. The girth of the cigar-shaped envelope will be increased without increasing its length. The engines will be mounted inside the airship hull proper, materially reducing the drag of the airship. The engines will be oil burners, and hydrogen will be replaced by Blau gas or non-inflammable helium.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

Lon Chaney is dead. Clown, crook, mystic, monster—and in private life a quiet, somewhat melancholy gentleman—for years he played his "thousand faces" parts. And now he has gone. But, in reality, Lon Chaney still lives on—in each one of us. For every soul has a thousand faces and could taste the thrill and delight, the power and despair of a thousand lives if it had the courage.

Always you have known that this was true of yourself. To the world you have shown one face. It was not the face you most preferred. When you started as a youngster, you certainly didn't plan to look or live as you live now. You planned to show quite a different face—a dramatic, beautiful face—the face of a poet or an adventurer or a great leader. For the seeds of these other lives lay within you. And when you were a child, you did show those other faces. All the sides of your soul came and went in your dreaming eyes. But as the years passed you learned to mask your eyes. You learned, slowly and painfully, to show only one of your faces—that rather dull and stupid Bill Jones or Maggie Smith face which you now wear.

It was, as I've said, far from the favorite face of your fancy. But—it seemed the most expedient countenance. Your family expected it. Your boss expected it. And what would have happened if you had refused to wear it? Suppose, instead, you had worn one of your other secret, amazing faces? Or—worse still—had insisted on being all your different selves in turn? Then what? Then certainly you would have been laughed at, or talked about, or probably despised. You didn't dare to run the risk. And so, instead of showing your "thousand faces" you showed but one . . . until the world has come to believe that you are but one person, that dull, stupid Bill Jones or Maggie Smith person.

But you, yourself, have always known that you weren't just one. You know that other selves come and go within you, clamoring for expression. Often, when others think that you are satisfied with your humdrum lot, you are in a fury of rebellion. Often, when they boast of their exploits, your sealed and secret selves yammer and hammer to be off and away. But you dare not show those secret selves . . . . for fear—

And with the passage of the years it becomes harder and harder to show them, even if you had the courage. For faces harden on us like shells, walling in the living spirits that pluck and peer through their eyes.

You've known that your face was becoming a shell and you've hated it. In countless ways you've tried to find expression for those other selves. You've read detective stories, adventure and confession stories, stories of great, successful men; beautiful, compelling women. You've read poetry and books on farming. Played pee-wee golf; thought your waistline was a bulging 46! And you went to see Lon Chaney—LON CHANEY WHO DARED TO SHOW HIS THOUSAND FACES.

You like Lon Chaney, even though he horrified you at times. You felt a queer nearness to him. Secretly you envied him and had a sneaking notion that you could jolt 'em, too, if you had the breaks. You HAVE the breaks—if you'll use them. You, too, can show your other faces, live all sides of your thousand lives, IF YOU HAVE THE COURAGE. But people may laugh at you or talk about you? Well, what if they do? Could any amount of ridicule or gossip be worse than this slow smothering of your soul? What if they do think you're queer? You ARE queer, thank God! Make the most of it.

But . . . . . there are furtive, dark faces in you which you wouldn't want to show? There are indeed. And if you're civilized you'll hide them, but you won't deny them. It is well to know ALL your faces . . . . IF ONLY THAT YOU MAY BE MORE TOLERANT TOWARD THE TWISTED, TERRIBLE FACE OF YOUR BRITHER.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Songs Unsung

When the night-wind, blowing down from starry places,
Tells strange stories to the lilies, white and tall,
Something touched with the dim splendor of far spaces
Holds me silent and enraptured in its thrall.

Luring voice of wistful dreams,
Pure and fresh as mountain streams
In whose depths a mirrored star
Leads where ocean sings afar.

I have heard it in the South Seas' lonely reaches,
Welling up from palaces of porphyry,
Where great Neptune's daughters
sing on sunken beaches
And the Sea God croons again his melody.

Luring voice of songs unsung,
With sweet words in sequence strung,
Fair as pearls that found their rest
On frail Helen's fairer breast.

Text For Today

I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins: return unto me; for I have redeemed thee—Isaiah, xliv:22.

Contortions of the Sibyl

But the Inspiration Is Lacking.

HERR ADOLF HITLER, GERMAN FASCIST LEADER IN ACTION

In this picture you see the energetic Adolf Hitler, who recently got up an enormous vote among the young people of Germany. He makes them wear BROWN shirts, in imitation of Mussolini's BLACK shirts, and queer breeches that look a little like an exhibition of Italian brigands on the comic opera stage.

These pictures show Hitler in action, telling what he is going to do.

The picture at the bottom shows his expression and gesture as he said: "Heads will roll in the sand."

He was promising to set up a guilotine, and chop off the heads of important Germans that had betrayed the Fatherland, by paying indemnity to Allies, and otherwise.

The fact that the Germans COULDN'T HELP IT seems to make no difference to Mr. Hitler.

You see in these pictures interesting reminiscences of Italy's Mussolini, and our own Theodore Roosevelt.

But the energy of Mussolini, and the gnashing teeth of Roosevelt are missing.

In ancient days, the Sibyl, or soothsayer, would foam at the mouth, and, with violent contortions, twistings of the body and rolling of the eyes, prophesy things about to happen.

Prophets that also twist and turn, but DON'T TELL WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN, are referred to as possessing "the contortions of the Sibyl, without the inspiration." Mr. Hitler, probably, is a Sibyl of that kind.

That little face on the left is working itself up nicely to a fit of anger. But it has not one per cent of one per cent of the power that is in the face of Mussolini.

Mr. Hitler, at the top of this picture, stretching his arm toward the clouds, is far inferior as a mental contortionist to Billy Sunday, or Theodore Roosevelt.

You have to do more than gnash your teeth, wave your fist and scowl to be a great man.

Theodore Roosevelt himself proved that.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when a small town was deferential to a boy home from college? And what became of King Baggott? Sign in Tenth avenue hash joint: "Don't complain about the coffee you may be old and weak yourself someday." Ralph Barton hat dip.

Will H. Hays, a Sullivan, Ind., boy who made good in the city. A Sixth avenue candy store selling jawbreakers with caraway seed centers. Remember? And penny frying pans with candy egg and spoon. My favorite is still cocoanut flags. Murdock Pemberton, Brock's brother and a new author out of Emporia.

About time for another one of Mr. Schwab's prosperity interviews. All my life I've wanted to sneak up and trip some fellow carrying a huge mirror. And there's my chance. But the son-of-a-gun is as big as a house. Norman Hapgood is one of those long-faced intellectuals. Joe Williams' swagger.

The brilliantly lit Babe Ruth haberdashery on a Broadway corner. The sock repair shop for bachelors. Chubby speakeasy proprietors with mama complexes. And loud handkerchiefs. John Henry Mears, the globe trotter, resembles a small town grocer. Roy Howard's son Jack. Now a Yale man.

Something comical about those lumbering, shaggy sheep dogs. Lillian Russel brought the first one to America. Suave jewelry auctioneers who lash yokels with cheap sneers until they buy trash. I'll give George White six Sulka ties if he'll throw away those midget black bows.

What do hammock manufacturers do in the wintertime? Everybody seems to be headed for Cuba. The blind piano tuner who charges $100. What became of that tiresome old Turk what's-his-name? Eddie Peabody, who can make a banjo smoke. Broadway's electric girl swinging under the clock.

Fanny Hurst's hats get redder for goodness sakes. And Herbert Swope still rushes as though catching a train. Beefsteak Charlie in person. And if you never got a load of his combination salad—you missed a bet. You'd never know the front of the old Ansonia these days.

It has long been my conviction newspapers print too many heavy editorials—consequently few are read. I have a theory, too, an editorial to be striking should only be printed when an editor has something tremendously important to say. At such times it should be very brief, appearing on page one in display type.

In the so-called Sexy 70's are many apartment houses supplying "party girls" on short notice for bachelors. High pressure salesmen who want to entertain out-of-town buyers are chief patrons. They telephone and in an hour the required number of red-heads, blondes or brunettes come tumbling into the appointed cafe—all full of fun and a cute blackmailing idea or so. The agencies charge $20 an evening, keeping $5 for arranging the contracts. If the damsels are able to cry the visitors out of anything additional that is their very own business. Ladies must live.

In the past few months the mail has brought almost a dozen horned toads. And if you have never tried to give a horned toad away you have no idea of the problem. Incidentally if H. T. Webster will look in the right hand coat pocket of his new $140 autumn brown suit he will find one. Surprise, surprise!

Mr. Webster is the such-and-such who sent a 134-pound alligator, express charge collect, to this inoffensive chronicler from Florida many years ago. The score is not settled, but a horned toad in the coat pocket is a fair start. And our Getting Even Department is thinking up other ideas daily.
